Plan To Make Newton Real 'Garden City'

A meeting of city department heads was held recently to discuss continuing a program of improving the appearance of the city.

Mayor Theodore D. Mann, at the meeting, expressed his hope that residents would participate in the clean-up efforts.

Street Commissioner Edward Bolduc stated that City Ordinance No. 6-16 must be complied with and urged citizens be told to place their trash containers out for collection no earlier than the evening before the regular collection day.

Delivery Of 27 Vehicles Delayed

New School Buses Don't Answer Bell

The Newton School System's dream of running the safest school buses in the country is experiencing a slight delay.

Word was received last week that the brand new buses, designed with special seats and special window glass, would not be ready for Thursday's resumption of classes for the fall semester.

Ben Goodman, a spokesman for Metropolitan Coach Lines of Belmont, the firm chosen by the city to handle busing Newton students, said Thursday the brand new fleet of 27 buses was expected to arrive this week and they would be in service sometime between now and the beginning of October.

Meanwhile, city schools opened Thursday with 18 buses running on a modified schedule, a great deal of confusion, and a flood of calls to the School Department office.

School Department spokesman James Cameron said Thursday that school and city officials had been meeting continuously with Metro Coach officials, attempting to find the best interim solution to the unexpected problem.

Cameron said the principals of schools that bus students did have people at various stops Thursday morning to keep an eye on the operation and phone a central location if additional buses were needed on any particular route.

Goodman said late Thursday morning that the firm now had 10 new GMC buses, similar to the one's ordered to serve the system, to use on the temporary routes and had completed arrangements to rent an additional 20 buses that are three to four years old to round out the interim fleet.

Attempts were made Thursday to see that the new "no standees" rule was enforced, Cameron said that was the second reason for stationing people at bus stops.

Taxpayers Want Date Fixed

Want Early End To Junior College Load

Urging that Newton now set a date certain for terminating the city's direct financial support of the Newton Junior College, Lorenz F. Muther, Jr., executive director of the Newton Taxpayers' Association, this week hailed the recent report of the Mayor's Financial Advisory Committee which stated that "continued support of the junior college by the City of Newton is not warranted", and recommended the "earliest possible" exploration of "all the alternatives available" during the phasing out period.

"One more group which has studied this matter has come to a conclusion like that reached by the Taxpayers' in the 1950's, some Newton state legislators in the early sixties, the School Committee in the late sixties and the junior college administration's report of 1970," Muther said.

Citing the Association's poll of members, taken last spring, when 95 percent of the replies endorsed setting the school

Charge "Park Has Become Haven For Burglars"

Better Lighting For Streets Is Aim Of Oak Hill Park Area

An ad hoc committee for better street lighting has been formed in Oak Hill Park because in its chairman's words, "Oak Hill Park has become a haven for burglars."

According to chairman Herb Caplan, members of the committee have circulated a petition and gathered about 200 signatures of Oak Hill Park residents who wish to see street lighting in their area improved.

"Good lighting is a proven deterrent to crime," Caplan commented. "We are afraid to go out of our homes at night."

The park is no longer safe and we believe that better street lighting would help make our area safer."

According to co-chairman, Mrs. Irene Caplan, the action taken by residents was spurred by an incident a few weeks ago where a neighbor's home was literally picked clean by burglars.

Only one state-wide contest will be settled in the Sept. 19 primary. That will be for the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senator.

9 Get Degrees Saturday

Police Officers Are First "Co-Ed" Grads

At commencement ceremonies Saturday, Newton College will award associate degrees to its first male undergraduates — nine Newton police officers.

Outdoor ceremonies will begin at 4:30 p.m.

The commencement speaker will be college President James J. Whalen. Police Chief William F. Quinn will also address graduates and their friends and families. Mayor Theodore D. Mann and Judge Monte G. Basbas have also been invited to attend.

A buffet supper will follow the commencement exercises.

The nine officers, have been attending college since 1968 under a federally funded program called LEEP (Law Enforcement Education Program). LEEP offers financial assistance to allow in-service law enforcement officers to continue their education at the college and university level.

Since the program began in Newton the officers have taken two courses a semester. They attended classes twice a week from 4 to 6 p.m., outside their regular hours on the police force.

The degree candidates have successfully completed more than 50 per cent of the credits required by the college for graduation. They have also fulfilled the college's general liberal arts stipulations for study in liberal arts. All nine plan to continue working for their bachelor's degrees.

The prospective graduates are:

Lieutenant Thomas M. Dargan, a 23-year veteran of police service. Lt. Dargan is currently commander to the Community Services Bureau, which includes youth and community relations, safety, water safety and narcotics education.

He has given many lectures in the community on youth problems and drug abuse and has attended the attorney general's School on Drug Abuse and the Federal Bureau of Narcotics in Washington, D.C.

The lieutenant is a graduate of the Massachusetts State Police, local police school and was president of his class. He is also a charter member of the Middlesex County Narcotic Officers' Association, the Mayor's Committee on Drugs and Alcohol, the Newton, Wellesley, Weston Mental Health Area Board and the

City Pays Tribute To 11 Israeli Dead

Flags fly at half-staff in Newton until Sunday night in honor and as a reminder of the deaths of 11 members of Israel's Olympic team.

In addition, Mayor Theodore D. Mann has drawn a resolution to be submitted to the Board of Aldermen asking that the city convey its "shock and outrage" at the deaths.

The resolution states;

Whereas the men and women of all nationalities met

in Munich to compete in the Twentieth Olympiad as members of the world community and apart from the bitter international and ideological quarrels which divide mankind; to symbolize the spirit and hope that the human race can live, work and compete peacefully; and to underline the truth that mankind does have common grounds which can displace the wastefulness of war.

Whereas the spirit and hope of the Olympics were shattered by the flagrant and inhuman acts of those who, out of fanaticism and desperation, brutally kidnapped and murdered members of the Israeli Olympic Team.

Whereas the hearts of all people join in sorrow for the dead and extend sympathy to the relatives of the victims of this tragedy, and the City of Newton along with its fellow cities and towns throughout the Commonwealth of Massachusetts has lowered its flags to half-staff in solemn recognition of the tragic events in Munich.

Whereas universal condemnation by all civilized nations has greeted this needless loss of life and blot upon one of the noblest efforts to foster true international brotherhood.

"Activity Day" Honors POW With Own "Little Olympics"

By CYNTHIA BLACK

"If Russ were here, he'd probably be doing this for someone else."

Russ isn't here though. He's a prisoner of war in Vietnam.

Yet a group of family and friends gathered last Saturday at the New Hampshire camp where Newton's Russ Temperley spent his boyhood summers and held a "Russ Temperley Activity Day" as a tribute to the man's courage and friendship.

Air Force Major Russell E. Temperley, who used to live at 150 Gibbs street in Newton Centre, was shot down over North Vietnam on Oct. 10, 1967.

His cousin, Mrs. Carol Martin of 376 Ward street, Newton Centre, described the spirit of the activity day in an interview Monday and commented that it seemed like something Temperley would do for someone else.

The day was staged by the Uncanoonuck Mountain Base Association in Goffstown, N. H. Fifty participants spent their time competing in athletic events, according to age groups, sailboat races, swimming contests, and games.

Newton To Have $1-Million Ice Skating Facility

Construction has begun in Newton on what will be one of New England's largest year-round ice skating facilities at the Newidmat-128 Industrial Park.

A December opening is planned for the complex, named the Charles River Ice Skating Center, which will feature two full size rink surfaces plus a separate

The million dollar Center is on a 7½-acre site off Nahant street adjacent to the Charles River Indoor Tennis Club and is being built by Interdevelopment Associates of Weston.

Construction financing is provided by the New England Merchants National Bank of Boston, and permanent financing was arranged through the Newton Savings Bank. The general contractor is Chouinard Construction Corporation of Weston.

"There is definitely a need for a multi-purpose skating center in the Newton area," said Bob Connor, Interdevelopment's vice president.

"We wanted to offer a facility which would appeal to everyone. Many of the smaller rinks in the area are limited to hockey, others can only offer the public general skating."

Connor said the Center will offer a broadly based program of figure skating, hockey and recreational skating, including professional instruction.

Richard Kelly of Brockton has been appointed manager of the Center and will coordinate all community activities. Nancy Brunkow has been named as the full-time figure skating instructor.

"I welcome this facility to the City of Newton," said Mayor Theodore Mann of Newton, "and I am pleased that the owners will provide time for Newton residents to take advantage of this recreational facility. I know one thing — I've got a whole family looking forward to the opening."

Plans for a community-wide dedication of the new skating center will be announced as soon as a completion date is set.

In Economic Plan Was Deceptive

"Senator McGovern discarded much of his original plan for economic redistribution which was an essential part of his campaign for nomination," former Congressman Laurence Curtis charged in remarks last week to the Newton Republican City Committee.

Curtis observed that when Senator McGovern was asked in an interview about his original proposal of $1,000 for everyone, he said quite simply, "I think we did a poor job in presenting our initial proposal" and added that he thought his new proposal would be "much more acceptable to the country."

The former Congressman observed that Senator McGovern's new plan, recently unveiled at a Wall Street meeting, has already been dubbed as "scatterbrained" by HEW Secretary Elliot Richardson of Brookline.

"Richardson is highly regarded for his intelligence and honesty, and as Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare is one of the officials most closely associated with the subject matter," Curtis asserted.

Curtis pointed out that Senator McGovern's plan for economic redistribution, along with his war policy, was a massive part of his campaign for nomination. "When he changed his economic plan so casually, he raised serious doubts as to his capacity for thoughtful and prudent leadership," Curtis charged.

He also charged that such a change in Senator McGovern's campaign, made right after he had won the nomination, was unprecedented and deceptive.

"Senator McGovern's campaign for nomination attracted notable support from the poor, the blacks and the young 'who are the most visible supporters of his populist crusade,' according to a recent article by James Reston in the New York Times," Curtis declared.

"That group must have been particularly susceptible to the offer of $1,000 for everybody, and to change that plan after the nomination was safely won for another plan which would be more 'more acceptable to the country' certainly looks like a flagrant deception," Curtis charged.

Curtis expressed his personal doubt that Senator McGovern really looked at it or intended it that way. "But the fact that he did not may be just as much of an indictment of his fitness to be President as though he had planned the deception," Curtis said.

"Senator McGovern's air of casualness and innocence serves to confirm the characterization of him as 'an admirable gent, full of simple solutions to the most complex problems served up with an appealing moral tone,' Curtis concluded.

Curtis is a candidate for the Republican nomination to Congress in the Fourth District.

Congratulates Commission Officers

Nun, Minister New Commission Heads

Reflecting the ecumenical spirit which is basic to its work, the Newton Community Relations Commission has selected as its new chairman, Sister Margaret Gorman, Professor of Psychology at Newton College of the Sacred Heart.

At the same time, Rev. Robert Griesse, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Newtons, was elected vice chairman of the Commission.

The Community Relations Commission, whose membership reflects diverse ethnic and religious backgrounds is an advisory agency to the Mayor of Newton.

Its purpose is to advise and assist the Mayor in promoting understanding among all persons and groups of different races, colors, religions, and national origins, and to cooperate with interested citizens and with public and private agencies to create better communication among all residents of Newton.

The Commission meets regularly with both the Police and School Departments in an effort to develop effective human relations programs. It serves as the coordinating agency for all community school programs in the city and it is the agency responsible for monitoring equal opportunity compliance on city contracts.

The Commission also currently investigates possible discriminatory policies in Newton social clubs and both Sister Gorman and Rev. Griesse have been especially active in meetings with representatives of country clubs concerning their membership practices.

Sister Gorman, who received her M.A. in Philosophy from Fordham University and her Ph.D. in Educational Psychology from Catholic University, is chairman of the Department of Psychology at Newton College of the Sacred Heart.

She also serves as a psychological consultant for the U.S. Army and conducts monthly conferences at Fort Monmouth, New Jersey. Rev. Lee, Virginia and Maxwell Air Force Base in Montgomery, Alabama.

She was formerly a member of Boston Mayor Kevin White's Coordinating Council on Drug Abuse and serves on the Board of Directors of both the Newton Community Service Center and the Garden City Trust Company.

Her book, "General Semantics and Contemporary Thomism," was published in 1962 and she is currently preparing another book entitled, "In Search of the Sacred: Psychology and Religion." She is also the author of several published articles.

Rev. Robert Griesse, a native of Missouri, is an ordained minister in the Lutheran Church - Missouri Synod. His father and all six of his brothers are also Lutheran clergymen.

Rev. Griesse completed his Seminary training at Concordia Seminary in St. Louis, Missouri and has done post-graduate work at Kansas City University, Boston University and Andover - Newton Theological Seminary.

He began his ministry as an assistant pastor at Immanuel Lutheran Church in Kansas City and his first full pastorate was Christ Memorial Lutheran Church in East Brunswick, New Jersey.

Rev. Griesse was this church's first pastor and at the end of his ten-year pastorate the church had over 800 members.

Aldermanic Vigilance

Newton aldermen will hold their last meeting of the summer schedule next Monday night, and in October, will resume their normal schedule of meetings. Due to the press of business that cropped up during the summer, the schedule switch will be neither dramatic nor startling.

In fact, it won't be much of a change at all. Normally, the summer schedule involves cutting the number of full board meetings from two to only one per month. But this summer, faced with an inordinate number of vital city issues, aldermen wound up holding two board meetings in July and two in August. Their vigilance and attention to city matters should earn them a compliment from Newton residents. There were no complaints voiced when extra meetings had to be called, and attendance was good.

Our aldermen are not paid for their labors. They are donating their time in the interest of their city, and occasionally, everyone else in Newton should be reminded of this fact.

They worked hard all summer, and now they're going to work hard all winter.

Planning A Party

Out along that part of the Metropolitan area into which Paul Revere, the Minute Men and Henry Wadsworth Longfellow helped to build a good measure of immortality they are a bit worried these days.

It isn't a case of going to bed nights with the old rifle loaded and within easy reach as it was back in the days when the British might be coming.

What the Middlesex Bicentennial Liaison Council is talking about when they get together these nights is how many folks of many varied ethnic backgrounds will be coming and what are Lexington, Concord and the other Middlesex County cities and towns going to do with them when they arrive?

The Council's concern is real. Back in 1875 which happened to be the 100th anniversary of the nation's birthday, so many people showed up around Lexington they ran out of food. That led to a better and noisier riot than the Peaceniks of the 1970s could stir up.

Among other things the Council, anticipating an invasion of hundreds of thousands and for the 200th anniversary, in 1975 would like a little cash funding from the federal and/or state governments for the area's bicentennial.

The request alone shows some folk are conscious of the approach of 1975. The Middlesex group deserves a few huzzahs on that score for the overall commission making plans on a national scale hasn't done so well since President Johnson organized it several years back.

It's had its internal squabbles and it has been hanging out a lot of laundry. It's a little shy on blueprints and achievements.

No doubt the commission will catch its second breath and get down to work before the next four years run out. So will some of the larger cities like Boston.

That Middlesex County organization, however, is setting a good example for Washington and the rest of the nation. Mr. Longfellow would be proud of them. You can't wait until the last minute to plan a good birthday party.

Family Doctor

There's something re-assuring about an article in the American Medical Association's publication—the AM News. The News has an article which says the family physician, who appeared to be headed for complete extinction within the next few years, may be headed for a comeback.

The article doesn't come right out and quote figures from the entering classes at the nation's medical schools. It puts a bit of information such as was gleaned from the Ohio State University College of Medicine with other items gathered here and there.

The OSU finds "15 per cent of our graduates say this (the family medicine route) is the way we are going."

The more elderly among us realize, not without a bit of shock, that most of these making up the last two generations in the United States never had contact with an old-fashioned family doctor. Indeed, you have to go back to the horse-and-buggy days to find the old family doctor who was on call at all hours.

He delivered all the babies—usually in the living room because the sink happened to be the best source of hot water in the house. He took the stitches in Johnny's arm when Johnny was accidentally slashed by the scythe. The family doctor got through the toughest storms of winter and few old timers ever remember whether he ever took a vacation.

The horse and buggy are gone. Babies no longer arrive in this world via the parlor. The AMA, we are sure, will have its own idea about what the world can and cannot expect if the Family Physician of the 1980s takes over a good part of the medical scene.

He won't be exactly like the Family Doctor of the early part of the 20th Century. However, he'll be welcome even if they have long since lost the pattern of that old doctor.

POLITICAL HIGHLIGHTS

One of the outstanding prosecutors in Massachusetts, Droney is a no-nonsense law-and-order man. O'Leary is a liberal who was out in California campaigning for Senator George S. McGovern when he announced his candidacy for the U.S. Senate.

It is widely assumed that members of the McGovern organization encouraged O'Leary to make the run for the Senate nomination.

Brooke, who is being touted as a possible Republican candidate for President in 1976, is rated by many political experts as unbeatable. But Droney, O'Leary and Lynch are battling for what most observers consider the dubious privilege of matching strength with Brooke in the November election.

No Governor or other State Constitutional Officers are being elected this year. Governor Francis W. Sargent, Lieutenant Governor Donald Dwight, Attorney General Robert Quinn and the rest were elected in 1970. Their terms run through 1974.

Most of the hard-fought primary contests are being waged on the Democratic side of the political fence, but there are some interesting battles for Republican nominations for Congress.

More women, blacks and teen-age youths than ever before in Massachusetts history are seeking party nominations in the rapidly approaching primary. A substantial number of students are standing for election to seats in the State Legislature.

Forty-four women, almost twice as many as two years ago, 22 blacks, more than double the figure in 1970, and approximately 100 young men and women under the age of 30 are candidates for Democratic and Republican nominations for the Massachusetts House of Representatives.

An opening in Congress has resulted in primary scrambles in both parties. Former Congressman Bradford Morse of Lowell, one of the most powerful Republican vote-getters, resigned from his office to accept a position in the Nixon administration, causing a rush of politically ambitious candidates anxious to succeed him.

Whether the GOP can hold Morse's seat is a question only the November election results will answer.

Congressman Hastings Keith of the Cape district is retiring from office because his district was changed to such an extent as to make it unlikely he could win another term.

The only Massachusetts member of Congress facing serious opposition in the primary is Mrs. Louise Day Hicks.

She is being challenged in the Democratic primary by Boston School Committee Chairman James W. Henigan, Jr., of Jamaica Plain, State Senator Robert L. Cawley of West Roxbury, Hubert E. Jones of Newton (Jones does not live in the Hicks district), Melvin V. Miller of Roxbury, weekly newspaper publishers; and Enoch O'D Woodhouse of the Back Bay. Jones, Miller and Woodhouse are blacks.

An interesting aspect to this contest is that Cawley was chairman of the joint legislative committee which divided Massachusetts into 12 congressional districts.

He set up the ninth congressional district for himself, building it around his own senatorial district which includes Wards 11, 19 and 20 of Boston and the towns of Dedham and Westwood.

Political pundits are watching and waiting to see if Cawley successfully executes his political coup and wins nomination and election in the district he carved out for himself.

Mrs. Hicks and Committeeman Hennigan are predicting he will not. The night of Sept. 19 will produce the answer.

Ronald L. McDonald of Norwood and Howard M. Miller of Needham, former chairman of the State Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission, are opponents for the Republican nomination for Congress in the ninth district.

Boston City Councillor John Joseph Moakley is waiting in the wings and will run in November against the winners of the two primaries as an independent.

The powerhouse Congressmen such as James A. Burke, Margaret M. Heckler, Silvio O. Conte, Thomas P. O'Neill, Jr., and Edward P. Boland are unopposed for both renomination and reelection. They are so strongly entrenched in their districts that any attempt to unseat them would be a waste of time, effort and money.

Congressman Robert F. Drinan of Newton, who headed the McGovern campaign in Massachusetts, has a free ride in the Democratic primary but will face a fight in the election. In a period of two years Father Drinan has become a deft and experienced politician.

Battling for the Republican nomination in the fourth congressional district and the right to stand Against Father Drinan in November are former Congressman Laurence Curtis of Brookline, Representative Martin A. Linsky of Brookline, Representative Robert A. Belmonte of Framingham, and Avi N. Nelson of Brookline.

Curtis, a recognized expert on international matters, served 10 years in Congress from the old West Roxbury-Newton-Brookline district but was Gerymandered out of office when the number of districts in Massachusetts were reduced from 14 to 12. He served on both the House Foreign Affairs Committee and the House Judiciary Committee while on Capitol Hill. Representative Linsky has served as the Republican Whip in the Massachusetts House of Representatives. Now the two are adversaries in a congressional primary.

Linsky, a liberal and a former member of the ADA, was tapped by Governor Sargent in 1970 to be a Republican candidate for Lieutenant Governor but later was dropped by Sargent in favor of Donald Dwight.

Deprived of a chance to be Lieutenant Governor by a strange turn of events, Linsky won re-election to the House of Representatives and is now seeking promotion to Congress.

Avi Nelson has substantial support among the youth in the Brookline-Newton area.

Some of the State's best known law-makers are unopposed for renomination. Enjoying a free ride in the primary are State Senate President Kevin B. Harrington, House Speaker David M. Bartley, Senator James A. Kelly, Jr., chairman of the Senate Ways and Means Committee, and Senator Joseph D. Ward, one of the outstanding orators on Beacon Hill. Ward was the Democratic nominee for Governor in 1960 but was defeated by John A. Volpe.

Gov. Sargent Criticized By Top Republican Fund-Raiser

The top GOP fund-raiser in Massachusetts apparently has joined the group of prominent Republicans who have become disenchanted with Governor Francis W. Sargent.

Lloyd W. Waring of Rockport, finance chairman of President Nixon's New England campaign, voiced criticism of politicians who "spend too much time cultivating people's goodwill" during a television interview.

Waring made it clear that his remark applied to Governor Sargent but not to President Nixon. Then he really gave Sarge the back of his hand.

"Governor Sargent runs a business, and if I ran my business that way, it would collapse," he declared.

He went on to say he was not characterizing the Governor as a gadfly but that Mr. Sargent's time might be better spent watching state departments and making certain things are done properly.

Questioned about a report quoting Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe as saying he would do everything he could to prevent Governor Sargent from getting a position in President Nixon's Cabinet, Waring replied sharply: "Volpe isn't the arbiter of who goes in the Cabinet. He doesn't make that decision."

Waring, one of the most respected Republicans in the Bay State was a delegate to the recent GOP National Convention. Senator Edward W. Brooke withdrew from the delegation to make way for him.

But Waring insists his specialty is raising money and that he would prefer to stay out of the political end of politics. He already has raised about $800,000 in New England for the Republican party and expects the total to reach $1 Million or go slightly above that figure.

Cong. Margaret M. Heckler Drawing National Attention

Congresswoman Margaret M. Heckler is beginning to command nation-wide attention. Her work at the Republican National Convention resulted in a story and picture in a recent edition of Time Magazine which referred to her as the "main mover" of the women's movement at the GOP conclave.

Mrs. Heckler succeeded in having a plank on federally-sponsored day-care centers for children inserted in the Republican platform.

Before she achieved that objective, the attractive, hard-working Congresswoman talked down White House opposition and held a class for the male members of the Republican platform committee at which time she lectured them on the need for the plank she was sponsoring.

Time described Congresswoman Heckler as "a peppery redhead who likes to talk and talk." It might have added that she also likes to "work and work." She has become one of the outstanding members of Congress.

Father and Son Are Seeking House Posts on Beacon Hill

A rarity in politics finds a father and son campaigning for seats in the Massachusetts House of Representatives in adjoining legislative districts.

Representative Royal L. Bolling is seeking Democratic renomination in Roxbury.

His son, Royal L. Bolling, Jr., is battling for a Democratic nomination for the House in neighboring North Dorchester.

Mrs. Doris Bunte, whom Mayor Kevin H. White tried to remove from the Boston Housing Authority, is one of the candidates opposing the elder Bolling.

Jean Westwood Is Hampering McGovern's Harmony Efforts

Persons close to Senator George S. McGovern confide that Democratic National Committee Chairman Jean Westwood is proving to be a liability to the Democratic presidential standard-bearer.

They say that Mrs. Westwood, whom they describe as the true leader of the "new people" in the Democratic party, frequently ignores Senator McGovern's wishes and works at cross purposes with him.

While McGovern is trying to achieve reconciliations with the old regulars and professionals in the Democratic party in an effort to improve his election prospects, Mrs. Westwood is feuding with them, making no effort to conceal her contempt for them and blocking the reconciliations McGovern wants.

She has made it plain that she believes they belong to a dead past and have no relevance to the new Democratic politics of today. Her attitude has made it more difficult for McGovern who feels the old party regulars and pros could mean the difference between victory and defeat for him.

Even while McGovern was declaring he was 1000 per cent behind Senator Thomas Eagleton, Mrs. Westwood was heading up a drive to have Eagleton dumped from the Democratic ticket.

McGovern wanted to install Pierre Salinger as the deputy to Mrs. Westwood, but the Westwood forces brushed aside his recommendation and elected Basil Paterson instead.

Senator McGovern's adherents admit that his inability to control the Democratic party machinery probably will be another handicap to him in his fight with President Nixon.

It is pretty well agreed now that it was the so-called "new people" headed by Mrs. Westwood who forced Senator Eagleton's resignation from the Democratic Vice Presidential nomination.

Shriver's Suits Even More Expensive Than Connally's

Senator McGovern was straining a bit for campaign issues when he observed that John Connally, President Nixon's top Democratic supporter, was looking for a villa in Europe and criticized the Texan for wearing $300 suits.

Connally is not holding any government job at present, and his taste in expensive suits or European villas, for that matter, is not relevant to the question of whether Richard Nixon or George McGovern should be the next President of the United States.

A pretty wedding out-of-doors united Miss Patricia Jo Lax, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton J. Lax of Chagrin Falls, Ohio, and Mr. Bernard Finkle, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. David Finkle of Newton at the Pine Lake Trout Club there. Judge Frank Leonetti performed the double ring ceremony "on the green" with a reception for all guests held immediately after at the club where they danced to the music of John Singer. Mr. James Moser was soloist and Miss Karen Runge was organist for the service to which the bride wore her mother's wedding gown of chiffon marquisette with a cathedral length train. Gown and train were complimented by accents of Chantilly lace and her mantilla of illusion, in the same candlelight shade, was edged in identical lace. She carried a cascade of tiny white and yellow roses and daisies.

In gowns of delicate green dotted swiss and carrying cascades of daisies were her attendants, friends from kindergarten years on, Mrs. Michael Torrance, matron of honor; Janet Bartholomew and Helen Burnett, Susan Gardener and Joyce Taddeo also of Chagrin Falls. Mr. Harry Finkle was the best man for his brother and ushers were Mr. Paul Finkle, another brother, of Newton; Mr. Scott Lax, brother of the bride; Mr. Robert Lax, her cousin, both of Chagrin Falls; Mr. Alan Crosby of Dover, N.H.; Mr. Mark Schier of Brighton, and Mr. Roy Olesky of Boston. The bodice and sleeves were applied in lace and it was fashioned with a full train. A jeweled lace cap held a bouffant elbow length veil of illusion and she carried a cascade of bridal flowers. The Rev. Michael Ferraro performed the double ring ceremony which was followed by a reception in the Chateau de Ville in Saugus. The maid of honor was Catherine Mastroianni of Middlebury, Conn., and bridesmaids were Mrs. Frederick Bennett of Revere; Miss Debra Puzinas and Miss Paula Puzinas of Cambridge; and Mrs. Richard Shiers of Walpole. The history of banking is nearly as old as civilization... Ancient writers often mentioned money-changers and money-lenders... These were men who brought the money of other countries and gave local coins in return... They had strong-boxes in which to keep the money... People eventually began to leave their own coins with the money-changers to be kept in the strong-boxes for safe-keeping... Thus, the earliest banking was that of deposit and safekeeping... The revision of the Justinian code of laws in Rome, in A.D. 529, showed that there were many regulations on banking at that time.

Tribute-

Therefore be it resolved that swift and decisive action be taken by each sovereign member of the world community individually, and collectively, as members of the United Nations to prevent further such barbarous acts against innocent people and, further, that no sanctuary be provided for those who would commit such acts by ostracizing from the civilized community those governments who actively or passively allow the purveyors of these wanton actions to remain unpunished within their territory.

Be it therefore, further resolved, that the City of Newton, by action of its Mayor and Board of Aldermen, as representatives of the City, convey to the appropriate representatives of the government of Israel and of the Twentieth Olympiad the shock and outrage of the Newton community at the recent tragedy and extend its sympathy for the victims; and that they further convey to the President of the United States that the City of Newton wishes most sincerely that the American Ambassador to the World Assembly in New York City and the voice of the United States through its own concerted activities be directed towards denying any and all sanctuary for those who would attack the sanctity of mankind and its highest goals with acts of piracy, kidnapping and murder and toward the condemnation and isolation of any and all sovereign nations which would instigate and/or permit such activities.

Lighting-

Newton police acknowledge that burglaries do occur in the Oak Hill Park area and agree that "better lighting is a crime prevention method."

A program to upgrade lighting is underway in the city and is under the general supervision of Supt. of Public Works Willard S. Pratt.

Pratt said this week that he had just completed a detailed recommendation to the city administration on overall improvement, but did not know at this time what the policy was going to be regarding lighting pathways and cul-de-sacs.

The Oak Hill Park development has pathways and roadways for access. The pathways have 2500 lumen lights, Pratt said, and there are no lights on the roadways.

Setting Oak Hill Park off from the rest of the city is the fact that Newton installed the Oak Hill Park lights and Boston Edison did not. Pratt explained that the section was lit in this manner to avoid having the usual Electric Company wooden poles and network of wires towering over the development.

All wiring in the area, Pratt said, is underground and the special lantern lights are eight feet above the walkways.

The superintendent also said that a policy went into effect Sept. 1 to have someone from the city check the Oak Hill Park area once a month to make sure all existing lights are functioning.

The ad hoc committee is planning to hold a meeting for all citizens desiring to learn more about better street lighting. They are also planning to have a consultant present a film on the value of improved lighting at the meeting.

The petition from area residents was turned over to Alderman Lois G. Pines and Alderman Peter F. Harrington, sponsors of an aldermanic resolution calling for improved street lighting in the entire city.

Anyone interested in helping the ad hoc committee can call the Caplans at 332-7042.

A former director of the Newton Chamber of Commerce, the Newton Conservators, the Newton Taxpayers Foundation, the Newton Community Council and the Newton Chapter of the American Red Cross, he is also a former incorporator of West Newton Savings Bank and former trustee of Newton - Wellesley Hospital.

Honors POW-

What turned out to be a cloudy day was topped off with the awarding of prizes and trophies and a covered dish supper.

Mrs. Martin said the friends and relatives hope to hold the event "every year until he's released - and even after that."

Do families of war prisoners view the war differently?

"I think more of him than about the war," Mrs. Martin replied. "When they bomb Hanoi, I get nervous and I worry that they're bombing near him."

"I guess I have mixed emotions about the war," she continued, "he's been in the Air Force for so many years."

"I listen to news of prisoners. If they mention the prisoners of war, my attention goes right to the television or radio."

Mrs. Martin mentioned that the news last Friday of the release of three captives put the family on edge, waiting to see if one of them would be Russ.

"We live with hope," she said. "We think about what we're going to do when he comes home. We think positively - it would get to be too much if we didn't."

Since he was captured five years ago, Mrs. Martin said, the family has received six letters from the 37-year-old major. The latest one was written last May and arrived in August. In it, Mrs. Martin said, Temperley talked about coming home and discussed plans he has for what he is going to do after he gets here.

She said the family really has no way of knowing how many of their letters reach him, but apparently a few have because he knows his mother has remarried.

Mrs. Sarah Temperley Hopf of Falmouth participates actively in groups of prisoners of war mothers and wives. The major's father died about 10 years ago.

Next September, the clan will gather again in Goffstown. The races will be run and the games will be played. Maybe Russ Temperley will be among the winners at the second annual Activity Day.

Average life expectancy in Brazil is 54 years.

Buses-

Cameron also said that meetings have been scheduled with school principals to go over their enrollments when they stabilize in an attempt to anticipate the standee factor on the bus routes. The school administration, he said, has also been passing information on to the principals as it is confirmed so that students may be informed at the schools.

Goodman said that drivers reported a relatively smooth run Thursday.

The greatest confusion, he commented, is over the new routing. Plus, he said, "no one is yet able to give better than an educated guess as to how

Plan-

He also commented that people should be reminded newspapers for recycling should be handled in the same way for the once-a-month pick-up.

Bolduc noted that the overall many people will be riding each bus."

The temporary buses, he said, are 65-passenger capacity for the most part with some at 59 passengers.

He also said that extra runs were made on a couple of routes.

The temporary bus schedule was printed in last week's Newton Graphic.

appearance would be "substantially improved" if the grass between the sidewalk and the street could be given more attention by some homeowners too.

Chief of Police William F. Quinn said that the ordinance requiring citizens to place rubbish on the street for collection prior to 7 a.m. on collection day would be enforced.

Mann pledged his support to the department heads in an all-out effort to keep Newton streets clean and to make Newton, in fact, "the Garden City."

People seeking information on paper recycling collection dates can call the Street Department at 969-3920.

Lois Pines has already done something about pollution, crime, school bus safety, civil rights, health and child care, and taxes.

Lois co-authored the landmark "Private Right of Action" Law which gives anyone the right to sue anyone who pollutes. She fought to make Newton one of the first communities to prohibit open burning, and won. And she helped write the new Massachusetts Environmental Impact Law which requires disclosure of the environmental impact of new public works, projects or activities.

As an Alderman in Newton she's working for and is getting better street lighting, a known deterrent to crime. And long before it was politically fashionable, Lois worked hard on prison reform and prisoner rehabilitation.

When she saw the unsafe conditions on our school buses, she drafted a bill to make those school buses safer. Then she spoke for its passage before the legislature. In fact, Lois is the acknowledged leading spokesman for School Bus Safety in the Commonwealth. Children are important to Lois Pines, she has two of her own.

Lois put together a Code of Fair Practices for Newton because she wants to end discrimination where it now exists.

She saw inadequacies in Newton's health programs and called for a full re-evaluation of them. Where programs cost too much, she wants economy. Where people aren't getting the benefits they should, Lois wants them to get them. And Lois wants a full-time public health expert to run the Health Department.

For years, Lois has been fighting to get equal pay for working women, and a break on State taxes for working parents for child care expenses.

Taxes, in fact, are her thing. Lois is a practicing tax attorney. With her knowledge, she wrote a County tax reform bill which passed in the House, and unfortunately died in the Senate. Had the Senate acted favorably, Newton would have saved $767,000.00.

Lois was naturally discouraged, but next year that same bill will be introduced and fought for again. That's the kind of candidate Lois Pines is.

WHO ARE WE—two skiers from Boston who found it impossible to purchase a 3 bedroom condominium in this area for less than $45,000 to $50,000, so instead we bought a 20 acre site and named it Waterville Acres.

OUR TRACK RECORD—a total of 20 condominiums can be built at Waterville Acres and last year we completed and sold 10 units and we will gladly supply the names and phone numbers of the purchasers so you might ask them what they think of our project and the unit they purchased.

EACH CONDOMINIUM INCLUDES—a uniquely designed 3 bedroom, tri-level floor plan with the following features: fireplace, wall to wall carpeting, electric heat, complete kitchen, 1½ baths, our own in ground swimming pool, sundeck, woodbeam construction, fresh well water, outside storage, low condominium charges and taxes.

AREA FEATURES—Waterville Valley is one of the best ski areas in the East and we also have our own swimming pool and Waterville Acres is within a 10 minute ride from golf, tennis, lakes, horseback riding, fishing, boating, hiking, summer theatre restaurants and night life. All of this is within a two hour drive from Boston.

PRICE—we are now building 5 units which can be purchased for $34,000 before our completion date of November 15th or after that date, for $35,000. Financing is available.

FREE WEEKEND—if you are interested in purchasing a unit we will be happy to allow you and your family to spend a weekend, at no obligation, at Waterville Acres so you might see that all of the above is fact and not fiction.

Pressing Polluters

The county of Wayne, Mich., which includes Detroit, filed 248 court cases against alleged violators of the county's air pollution control regulation in 1971 — the highest number in any one year.

The year, says the director of the Air Pollution Control Division, inspectors will be "far less tolerant" of so-called accidental emissions.

President William McKinley was shot in Buffalo, N.Y. on Sept. 6, 1901 and died Sept. 14.

Goldberg joined the Hancock as an assistant manager in the group department in 1960. ### Paraplegic Research Planning Fund-Raising Event Sept. 10th

Sunday, Sept. 10, will be an important day for Hans Hailey, a quadriplegic, and his father, William C. Hailey, one of the founders and president of the recently formed Paraplegia Research Foundation - Paracure, Inc.

From 1:30 to 4 p.m., on that day, Paracure is presenting "A September Affair" at McHugh Forum, Boston Col. The event will signal a formal membership and fund-raising campaign.

A large number of civic, state and federal dignitaries will be on hand and entertainment will be provided by Frankie Fontaine, Eleanor Carline, "Your Father's Mustache Band" and others.

Light refreshments will be served, including a choice between soda and beer, all for a minimum donation of five dollars. A capacity crowd of 5,000 people is expected including hundreds of paraplegics.

The classical view, that the central nervous system does not regenerate, would have a young person of 18, who is paralyzed today, look forward to a "normal" life span - 50 years of paralysis!

This view, however, is being challenged by some of the world's foremost scientists. The question is no longer "Does the central nervous system regenerate?" Today the question can be asked "What can best help the central nervous system regenerate?"

This revolutionary idea is rapidly rolling along and Paracure would like all interested persons to become informed. Both Hans and Bill Hailey can provide information. They can be reached at 332-4507. Paracure hopes to make Massachusetts a model for the nation and that its cure-oriented efforts will be emulated throughout the country.

OFFICIAL - Lewis M. Foster of Newton Highlands, widely known Baptist lay leader and vice-president of the Massachusetts Bible Society, will be one of the speakers at the Society's 163d annual luncheon meeting on Tuesday, September 19 at Bible House, Bromfield street, Boston, at 12:30 o'clock.

ADDRESS ALL COMMUNICATIONS TO P.O. BOX 114
1321 WASHINGTON STREET, NEWTON, MASSACHUSETTS 02165

With the end of summer vacations and the re-opening of schools, all of us must exercise extreme caution to protect the thousands of children who are going to schools in our community.

In many cases, their lives depend on the way we drive.

Only extreme caution and care on the part of motorists can prevent serious injuries and death.

If there is one rule that governs just about every situation, it is to always have your car under complete control, which means the ability to stop in an instant. This type of vigilance is of utmost importance when driving along school routes and in the vicinity of school areas.

School buses are a familiar sight to all of us, but many drivers are still not familiar enough with the regulations that govern the handling of vehicles as they approach school buses.

When a school bus is stopped with its red lights flashing, all vehicles approaching from either direction must also stop, unless proceeding in the opposite direction on a divided highway. They must remain standing until the flashing lights are turned off and the school bus starts on its way.

Motorists who ignore the law and pass stopped school buses are subject to stiff fines and loss of license.

Similar penalties and suspensions are also imposed on drivers who ignore speed limitation signs posted in the vicinity of schools.

Parents must also stress the rules of safety governing the riding of bicycles. Children should ride in the same direction as the flow of traffic, obey traffic signs and ride in single file.

Safe and sane conduct is expected from children who ride school buses. Getting a bus ride is a privilege that can be revoked.

We want this to be a wonderful school year for everyone. Only you can make that happen.

Very truly yours,

William F. Quinn

Newton South Gridders Face Rebuilding Year

By LEWIS H. FREEDMAN

Tri-captains John Staulo, Andy Moynahan, and Ned Moan lead a small group of Newton South returning veterans, but the 1972 fortunes of the Lion football squad hinge on the rapid development of a talented crop of sophomores.

"We're more inexperienced than the last couple of years," noted 12-year Lion mentor George Winkler, whose squads have enjoyed winning campaigns in all but two years. "The sophomores are a talented group, but they may be a year away."

Last year South competed in the Dual County League for the first time and finished in third place with a 5-3 mark. The squad featured an explosive backfield keying around superhalfback Howie Haimes. Haimes, along with his 939 yards rushing and 110 points, plus fullback Dave Lelehook and Ron Izen, have all departed the scene. The 25 percent of the backfield returning is Ned Moan.

"We're certainly going to miss a backfield like that," said Winkler. "That's a lot of experience gone. Moan will be our quarterback this year — we're building our offense around him — but right now the positions are wide open. On the basis of past performances I'd have to say that senior Steve Bucavales (153 yards, 6.3 average per carry) and Scott Barron, and juniors Tom Sullivan, Dave Shields, and Walt Fatini are the leading candidates."

South's strong points this season will be at guard and end, where there is both talent and depth. Veterans Mike McDonald, Jim Caruso and Wayne Vespa are a trio of good-blocking linemen. Staulo, Paul Pattison, a former Jayvee quarterback, and Hal Bennett, are top ends and from the evidence southpaw-slinging Moan displayed at the '71 season, they should be kept busy.

"We also have strength at tackle," added Winkler, "with Andy Moynahan, Dennis Anastasia and Haskell Kingston. Our big problem in the line, though, is center where we have to replace two-year starter Dave Dolitka. Jon Rosenberg looked like the top man from last year, but he elected not to go out for football this year. Now Cary Benjamin will get first crack at taking over the job."

Most high schools utilize numerous players both ways — on offense and defense. Last year Winkler experimented with some two-platoon football, a la pro ball, and he is intent on continuing this plan this fall.

"Last year," he said, "we played teams even in the first half and tired in the second half, especially during the hot weather in September. We just didn't have the stamina to hold on. We had eight guys going both ways and it was in the 80's."

I plan to start the season with a two-platoon system and develop some depth quickly. We have a lot of kids of equal ability who deserve chances. It's an especially good opportunity for sophomores. A couple of individuals who will benefit from this system who immediately come to mind are Art Murphy and Tony Lombardo, both defense backs, who can become defensive specialists."

The sophomore crew contains many familiar last names. Aaron Moynahan, Greg Moan, Peter Nathanson, Neil Chyten, and Paul Tormey all have brothers who have cavorted for the gridsters at one time or another. Right now, Tormey and Kevin Hoban, brother of basketball star Billy Hoban, Class of '72 seem to be the most promising yearlings. Tormey may have won himself a starting role at defensive end and Hoban impresses Winkler as his quarterback of the future.

Other veterans returning who figure to crack the lineup on offense or defense are: Seniors Brian Corcoran, Mike Penzo, Al Grupp, Paul Kelly, and Jim Goodman; and juniors Howie Harris Bob Taglienti (younger brother of 1966 star John), Roger Pontecchio, Ed Andler, Roger Gordon, and Jeff Grossman.

She sophs rounding out the 44-man roster are: Peter Maples, Jeff Lawson, Rich Taranto, Scott Groper, John Bamel, Dave Satter, Jim Cartier, Jim Arcuri, and Bob Lent. With the start of school today the roster should expand.

Opening day is not quite a while yet — September 23 against Bedford — and Winkler's lineup is far from set, but the team should sort itself out some in the coming weeks. The Lions have scrimmages scheduled against Stoneham, Belmont, Framingham North, and Walpole.

Winkler's summary remarks on his team's outlook are not as glowing as they have been in recent years — there are too many question-marks.

"We're definitely more inexperienced than usual," he conceded. "We'll certainly be competitive, though. I'm concerned with our overall team speed, and we have no exceptional speed like Haimes. We're also not as big as we were. We'll just have to make up for physical shortcomings with desire."

Pappas started shakily, giving up two walks and then an RBI single to Robbie Alevisos in the first inning. But that was it. The Vizakos brothers, Cononico, and Turner, each collected two hits and the Boys' Club steadily expanded its lead. Pappas weakened in the seventh and Turner mopped up.

The Boys' Club completed its season with a 20-3-2 record, including playoffs. The Chiefs were 16-7-1.

Announce Fall Registration Dates For 'Y' Gym Program

The Newton Y M C A announces the fall registration dates for its physical and recreational programs, which this year will feature a new gymnastics class for boys and girls. Registration for all adult physical activities is now under way, while Sept. 12 is the date to begin registering for youth physical programs.

Mr. Robert Bryant, a former Lexington High School star and the "Y's" Associate Physical Director, offers his coed gymnastics program to members eight years old and over. Experienced and inexperienced gymnasts alike will use the parallel bars, side horse, rings, trampoline, balance beam and floor exercise in hopes of starting a competitive team.

Girls and women both may join the aquacade, a synchronized swimming group which was offered for the first time last spring. There will be beginning and advanced classes, with each culminating in an aquatic show.

Once again tiny-tot and polliwog swim lessons are scheduled for boys and girls three to seven years old. Taught by certified "Y" instructors, children are grouped according to ability. Registration for children of members is now taking place, while non-members may sign their children up starting Sept. 12.

Two other programs available to young people, whether they are "Y" members or not, are judo and lifesaving. Roger Martin teaches the judo class, which emphasizes learning to fall, the major throws, and holds. Junior and senior certificates, in both the YMCA and Red Cross programs, are offered in the lifesaving class.

Other youth physical activities for members include States

Recreational volleyball for men and women is offered, in addition to competitive men's, women's and coed volleyball teams.

And if you're a jogger, there's a 100 mile run club which awards prizes to those who complete the program.

For more information about physical and recreational programs, or for details concerning a "Y" membership, call 244-6050. Or, if you're in the Newton area, drop by 276 Church St. in Newton Corner.

The Newton Notebook

The first time Newton South High experienced a losing football season Tommy Rezzuti was the quarterback. He was a senior and that was 1968.

The Lions finished 0-7-1 and defensive back at Northeastern University, and last year was a second-team small college All-American who led the nation in pass interceptions with 14. He was also the Huskies' ace return man, running one punt back versus Springfield for a touchdown.

But if you followed Newton South football in the fall of 1968, you remember Rezzuti taking the snap from center, throwing short passes to Nick Parnell, running up the middle or around end himself because he was scared to let the ball out of his hands long enough for it to be stolen from one of his less-talented teammates, running back punts and kick-offs, playing safety with abandon, and even once handing off and catching a scoring pass on a halfback option play.

That was four seasons ago and Tom Rezzuti is a little bit bigger now, quite a bit better and one heck of a lot better known.

Rezzuti is 5-10, 180 pounds now, all muscle, added by weight-lifting and solid training. He's a senior for a split end spot is Danny Maloney of West Roxbury, who is playing his first year of football, but he is rated by O'Connor as the fastest boy in the school and he could be a help.

O'Connor realizes that there are many candidates for jobs and he also realizes that any of the above mentioned players could shine in one of the practices or scrimmages and come right into the limelight and nail down a starting spot. "There are plenty of jobs open and anyone of these players I have on the team is capable of playing. I believe in giving every boy a fair tryout for that's where you often pick up a player who all of a sudden becomes a complete football player. Again I have a real fine group of boys this year and they have that winning attitude and I must mention my fine coaching staff for without them this club or any club I have coached would not be a success," O'Connor closed with.

Assistant Coaches

The Coachhess O'Connor is speaking of include: Line Coach Ronnie Lewis of West Roxbury who is starting his twelfth season at Memorial; Backfield Coach Jack Dahlstrom of Dedham and Brother Edward Muller are starting his first season and Memorial. JV Coach Dan Burke of Dorchester is starting his first season and freshman Coaches Joe Bianculli of Dedham and Steve O'Reilly of Dorchester are in their second season. The Moderator is Brother Kevin Maloney.

The Knights will play Fitchburg this Saturday at the Leominster High School Field at 3 p.m. as part of a football jamboree.

Duplicating last year's record may be a tough task but Jim O'Connor and his Catholic Memorial High School football team will have a chance for they always put on a good performance and always play solid football. It should be another good year for the Knights on the gridiron.

carry the ball much anymore. "I do miss offense," he admits, "but I'm happy at defense. So Harry Agganis has the record, huh? I knew it was 26, but I didn't know who had it. That's pretty good company."

Besides leading the Lion football team in almost every offensive category, Rezzuti also earned Newton South varsity letters three times in hockey and baseball. He was on the only South ice team to advance to the state tournament and was All-State in baseball.

Rezzuti came on with the NU baseball club about as devastatingly as he did on the gridiron.

Last spring Rezzuti went wild. He batted .370 with 15 RBIs, both Huskie highs, stole 17 bases and scored 26 runs. As an outfielder he was flawless. He batted a fantastic .500 to lead the Greater Boston League and was named a GBL All-Star and to the NCAA District I

Jim O'Connor Starts 12th Year As Memorial Football Coach; 7 Veterans Return

By FRANK WALL

West Roxbury's Jim O'Connor will start his 12th season as the oen and only football coach at Catholic Memorial High School on September 24th when the Knights visit Archbishop Williams and the defending Catholic Conference Champions, who had their first undefeated season last year and look like they will have a strong unit again this year.

Coach O'Connor feels that it should be a five team race with Xaverian, Boston College High School, Don Bosco and his Knights all a threat to take the title. Strong Malden Catholic will enter the Catholic Conference League for the first time this year and are a title threat also.

"We have seven veterans back from last year's team and we should do all right again this year. Kids are working hard and right now we're working on our defense. I believe we have a solid offense and will put some points on the board this year. Our quarterback, Joe O'Brien, is a real good one and he could be one of the best in the league if not the state. He does it all. Paul Ragucci is a solid fullback and watch this kid Dave Singleton. He is a junior halfback who can break any game open. We looked good against North Quincy last Saturday and I would have to say that I'm optimistic again this year," said the popular Memorial Coach.

Last year was the first undefeated team in the school's football history and it was O'Connor's third Catholic Conference title.

Veterans returning include: tackle Mike Harris at 218 from Jamaica Plain; Center Phil Coleman a 210 pounder from Charlestown; guards Paul Pender of Brookline and Mike Cote of Needham, a pair of 180 pounders. Also back are defensive end Greg Wilson (182) from Brookline and in the backfield O'Brien and Ragucci return. Ragucci is a West Roxbury fullback who will also be a linebacker. He is a fine two way player and for his 202 pounds he also can break the long run.

O'Brien is set for quarterback and these veterans give the Knights a good nucleus.

Singleton Has Speed

Dave Singleton, who has just come off the baseball wars, is definitely a player to watch. He has all the moves and with O'Brien tossing and Ragucci plowing up the middle Singleton should make many long gallops this year.

There are still plenty of other prospects for the Knights. Paul McCann (200) of West Roxbury is a solid tackle; Jim Walsh (190) is a fine defensive end; Mike O'Rourke of West Roxbury is a junior linebacker and Richie Woodman of Dedham is a safety on defense and the back-up quarterback.

Gerry Welch of West Roxbury is a defensive halfback and Don Shruhan is a defensive linebacker and a split end candidate.

Right now there are three candidates battling for the tight end spot on Mark Varley of Dedham, Pat Rose of West Roxbury and Jim McCarthy of Newton, who also does the punting. The Kelly brothers of West Roxbury Mark, a 210 pound senior tackle, and Paul a 180 pound sophomore end are also right in the picture.

Timmy Fitzgerald of Newton should be one of the split ends and another threat

DeNUCCI IS READY — Newton's Joe DeNucci takes a workout on punching bag as he gets ready for big fight with five time world champion Emille Griffith at Hynes Auditorium on Saturday September 16.

Newton's Joe DeNucci Ready for Griffith

Newton fighter Joe DeNucci, rapidly progressing along the comeback trail faces perhaps the stiffest opposition in his career on September 16 when he fights Emille Griffith, five-time world champion in the welterweight and middleweight classes.

DeNucci, winner of nine straight since he returned to the ring, will be in line for a championship bout with middleweight titlist Carlos Monzon if he can knock off Griffith, who is now listed as the number one contender. The 35-year-old Griffith who has been involved in 22 championship fights will most likely lose his last shot at a title if he does not beat DeNucci.

Griffith and his manager Gil Clancy are wary of Boston judges and referees and have expressed a desire for neutral sight judges.

DeNucci responded with: "I don't care, Emille Griffith can bring his mother to referee our fight and Gil Clancy can bring his father and mother to Eastman.

DeNucci is a great competitor. He's truly determined and a hard-worker. He's one tough kid. Let me give you an example. A little while ago he beat me in tennis. He'd never played the game. He did it on sheer determination. I definitely think he deserves a shot at pro ball."

Rezzuti himself is not super-confident of getting drafted. He's worried about what the pros will think of his size, something which has dogged him all his athletic career. "The only thing the pros care about," he said, "is how fast you run the 40 in. If you can't do at least 4.7 they won't even look at you. I've done it once. I just hope I can do it when they clock me. I think I could play pro ball. I just need the chance."

"Take a look at Johnny Robinson," he continued. "He was a pretty tough defensive back for 12 years, and he was small. And how about Randy Vataha. He's not fast either, but he had it upstairs and that's what you need. All I want is a chance." — LEWIS FREEDMAN

3 Newtonites Get Grants In Medicine

Three Newton residents are among those who have been awarded fellowships or project grants from The Medical Foundation, effective starting this month according to an announcement by Valentine P. Murphy, president of the organization.

The Boston-based foundation, a research and health education agency of the Massachusetts Bay United Fund, is a major source of support for young scientists and more established investigators in the Greater Boston area.

Its awards permit research into a wide range of medical and community health problems and also aid in the development of programs at hospitals and other institutions.

Stephen H. Robinson, M.D., of 35 Chatham Road, Newton Highlands, received a one-year project grant to develop methods which thus far are not available for a study of the manner in which young red blood cells develop into mature red cells.

Alan H. Goldberg, M.D., Ph.D. of 31 Sheffield Road,

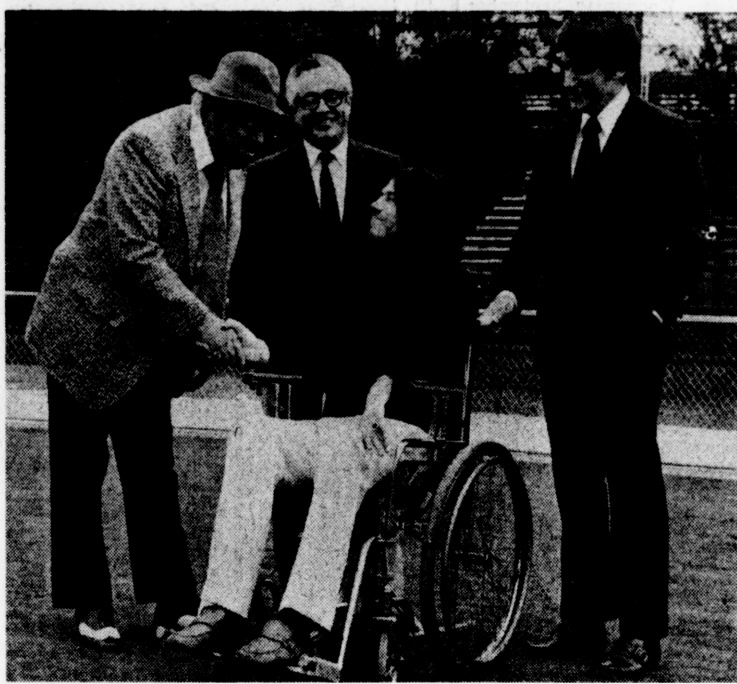

Newtonville, was awarded a one-year project grant to study the effects of anaesthetics on the contractions of the uterus in order to determine the cause of some anaesthetic side effects, such as bleeding after delivery.

Elizabeth R. Simons, Ph.D., of 117 Chestnut Street, West Newton, received a one-year project grant to study the way in which blood clotting starts, which could be of value in diseases of the circulatory system.

Dr. Robinson's study will be conducted at the Beth Israel Hospital, Dr. Goldberg's at Boston City Hospital, and Dr. Simons' at Boston University School of Medicine.

The Medical Foundation awarded three fellowships, four research project grants, and three institutional grants, totaling $135,700 in its latest granting period.

The Tenth Pentecostal World Conference (PWC) will be held in Seoul, Korea, Sept. 18-23, 1973. The attendance of Pentecostal leaders from North and South America, Europe, Asia and Africa is expected to make it the largest gathering of Pentecostal people in history.

Sonia Michelson One-Woman Photo Show Delighting Library Viewers

Living, Loving, Laughing, is very much a part of their lives. Sonia Michelson's first one-woman photo show now on view at the Newton Free Library, 414 Centre Street, Newton Corner, reveals the many ways this enthusiastic photographer records the activities of her fellow man and describes the delight derived from viewing her work.

Sonia Michelson's most telling and successful pictures record the living, loving and laughing of children; a young child exploring the beach, the determined look of a boy at bat, the confident step of boys setting out to hike under an open sky.

Other photographs, shot during camera excursions into Haymarket Square or while traveling abroad, demonstrate Sonia's sensitivity to the human situation; a vendor's delight at a good sale, a woman artfully preparing for marketday, a family joyously sharing a special time together. Her photographs reflect an instinctive rapport with her subject.

Sonia Michelson photographs what means the most to her, "What keeps me turned on is more emotional than studied," Sonia explains, "and I tend to respond intuitively to what I see. I seem to gravitate towards scenes and people that have to do with feeling life and love and laughter."

Whether the focus is sharp or softly blurred, the viewer responds to the photographers' sense of involvement with her subject. The scale of her photographs is the human panorama and the photographs capture it well.

Working primarily in black and white, Sonia Michelson uses a Honeywell Pentax camera and shoots with Tri-X film using available light. She confronts the challenge of technical variables, inherent in the art of photography, in her darkroom where she does most of her own developing.

Different effects are obtained by using a wide variety of papers and varying the tonal range on a particular photograph until the desired effect is achieved.

Sonia Michelson, a native Bostonian and graduate of Bennington College, Vermont, lives in Newton with her husband Joseph, president of J. Slotnick and Sons, and their three children: Miriam, one, Peter, seven, and David, nine. Living, Loving and Laughing

You should.

Your tax rate is about the highest in the country.

Your cost of living is about the highest in the country.

You are carrying a bigger share of the cost of government than almost anyone in the country.

That's why you need Marty Linsky working for you in Washington.

Marty doesn't think your pocketbook is a bottomless pit.

Political Highlights -

Beyond that, McGovern may have committed a minor boob-boob in bringing up the matter of Connally's expensive taste in clothing.

Our expert on fashions and styles informs us that Senator McGovern spends less than $200 for his suits but that Sargent Shriver, whom McGovern fiantly tapped to be his Vice Presidential running mate, pays considerably more than $300 for his.

Shriver, in fact, has periodically been named to some lists of the ten best dressed men, and he didn't achieve that recognition by economizing in the purchase of his clothing.

The fashion expert notes that Shriver wears Pierre Cardin suits. McGovern might be sorry he brought up the matter if anyone makes an argument about it.

America's Youngest Mayor Is Running Iowa Town at 19

America's youngest Mayor is 19-year-old Jody Smith, chief municipal executive of Ayrshire, Iowa, which has a total of 144 registered voters.

Campaigning on the theme, "time for a change," Jody toppled an incumbent Mayor who was almost four times his age.

Only a year older is Mayor Ron Hooker who presides over the municipal affairs of the somewhat larger city of Newcomerstown, Ohio. A write-in candidate in a field of five contenders, Ron campaigned on weekends last fall while attending Ashland College 75 miles away. He polled a surprising 70 per cent of the vote.

Since assuming office, youthful Mayor Hooker has purchased a $45,000 fire truck, married half a dozen couples, established new speed laws and reduced noise levels in the community. Ron recently celebrated his 20th birthday.

Jody Smith, incidentally, devotes more time to his job as attendant in a gasoline station than he does to his duties as Mayor.

Charles Stenner, 22 years old, is another full-time filling station operator and part-time Mayor in the town of Fennimore, Wisconsin, which has a population of 1861. Charley, who won election last spring in a three-candidate contest, concedes that there is sometimes a generation gap in his work with other town officials but declares this doesn't stop him from getting things done.

Mark Conrad, 22-year-old senior majoring in political science at Ripon College, was elected Mayor of Ripon, Wisconsin, last spring. He waged the first real campaign in Ripon's history, going from door to door and discussing the issues. Since assuming office he has let his hair grow. He was censured by the City Council when he spoke out against all monuments to war during a Memorial Day address.

Canadian Legion Will Hold 40th Convention in Plymouth

The Governor Carver Motor Inn, Plymouth, has been chosen for the second successive year by the Royal Canadian Legion as the site for the holding of its 40th annual convention. The date of the assembly will be Friday night, Sept. 15, Saturday, Sept. 16, all day, with the closing of the Convention on Sunday afternoon, Sept. 17, following the installation of officers.

The Alouettes — comedy group of the Legion — will again supply the entertainment for the Friday night opening program, which will include songs and instrumental presentations by the well known Caviochio performers of radio and television fame. This will take place between 9 and 10 p.m. There is no set admission fee — all are welcome.

During the program a collection will be taken, and the proceeds received, will be used by the Alouettes to aid those who are incapacitated, in the hospital, or in many cases, just those who are in need of a helping hand, because of unfortunate circumstances.

The Legion will assemble on Saturday morning with addresses of welcome, and outlines being given of the agenda for the day. At the conclusion of this assembly there will be a short recess — after which the Command members and the Auxiliary members will each proceed to their respective meeting rooms, convening for the business session.

Election of officers will take place at the conclusion of the afternoon session. The banquet — highlight of the Convention will take place at 6:30 p.m.

The Dominion Council of the Royal Canadian Legion will be represented by Brig. General James A. deLalanne, C.B.E., M.C. with Bar, O. of St. J. E.D. Honorary Treasurer of the Legion, General deLalanne was a member of the Princess Patricia Canadian Light Infantry (P.P.C.L.I.), a very famous regiment of World War I. Starting as a private, he steadily climbed the ladder of rank and performed many deeds of heroism during the years of 1914-1918. One deed in particular stands out — it took place during the famous battle of Vimy Ridge — he led the first Allied Patrol into the Town of Vimy in France on April 13, 1917.

He attended a ceremony in the Vimy on November 8, 1971, wherein he was honored by the authorities of that town, by their official naming of the street after him — "Rue du General deLalanne" — in eight inches.

Regular activities are continuing each week as residents enjoy afternoons of Bingo, crafts and sewing. Many events are being planned as fall approaches.

There is an ongoing need for volunteers to help in many capacities. Anyone interested in offering their services is encouraged to contact Mrs. Milton Farmer, Recreation Director, at 969-2300.

If your heating bill takes
budget...

Nancy Girard
more of a nibble.

Nancy helps administer our Equal Payment Plan. "Here's how it works," says she.

"We figure out how much gas you will use during the 10-month heating season — September through June — and divide the cost into ten equal payments. That's what you pay each month."

"Even though you're on the Equal Payment Plan, we still read your meter as scheduled. Both the Equal Payment Plan charge and the actual amount of your bill for the month appear on your bill. However, you pay just the same Equal Payment Plan figure each month. In July, we send you a summary of your account for the 10-month period. In July and August, you are billed just for the gas you use those months."

"Over 42,000 of our heating customers use this convenient plan. It helps level high winter expenses around Christmas and at income-tax time — and there are no interest or carrying charges involved."

"If you think the Equal Payment Plan would suit you better, just call us at 522-6000, or the toll free number listed in your area phone book."

Steak Barbecue Features Newton Rotary Cook-Out

Members of the Newton Rotary International with clubs in 149 countries. Members of the Newton Rotary Club gathered recently for their annual cook-out held this year again at the Newton YMCA Camp Chickam in Wayland.

In addition to swimming in the beautiful big pool, a softball game was played between Chet Mosher's team of "Officers" and Woody Laffin's "Whiz Kids" and won by the former 17 to 10.

Head Chef Wally Moyle and Assistant John Gregorian supervised the bountiful steak and corn-on-the-cob barbecue. Following dinner all joined in a community sing-along to the lead of Chet Mosher and his glittering guitar.

Mindful of the fact that even in a more affluent section like the Newton-Waltham area there are many kids whose parents can't afford to send them to summer camps, the Newton Rotary has recently given camperships to the Newton YMCA, The Newton Community Club, the Newton Boys Club and the Norumbega Council of Boy Scouts.

Youth Hockey Loop Plays at New Rink

The Newton Youth Hockey Association, under the auspices of the Newton Recreation Department, will make its headquarters in The Charles River Ice Skating Center at 125 Wells avenue, Newton.

This complex will consist of three fully enclosed all year rinks, (two full size rinks for ice hockey and a smaller ice surface for Patch and Figure Skating).

Also, a complete Skate Shop, locker room, heated spectator seating space for 1400 people, a comfortable viewing lounge complete with snack bar.

The additional available ice time here will allow the Youth Hockey group to expand its program appreciably and will now run ice skating programs for Newton boys between the ages of 7 and 81 years.

It is expected that Newton will be 32 teams this winter - 24 in the "House" or "Intra-Mural Leagues," and 8 teams of "All Star" or "Traveling Teams."

The latter to play in the newly formed Middlesex Youth Hockey League, consisting of teams from the surrounding towns of Billerica, Burlington, Lexington, Malden, Medford, Melrose, Stoneham, Waltham, Watertown, Winchester and Woburn.

The rapidly expanding Newton program - starting six years ago with approximately 50 boys is expected to reach a figure of 500 registered Newton boys this season.

As can be imagined, the rapid growth has overtaken the present coaching personnel to the point that many new coaches and fathers are necessary to carry some of the burden - anybody who will volunteer to help is requested to call Mrs. Lesbirel at the Newton Recreation office, 969-3171, and leave their names and addresses.

For those boys who would like to join the Newton program, application forms are available at the Recreation Department, 70 Crescent street, Auburndale, or call Mrs. Lesbirel, 969-3171.

Jewish Faith To Mark a New Year

With the sounding of the shofar, or ram's horn, Jews in Newton and around the world begin the observance of Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish New Year 5733 of the ancient Hebrew calendar, at sundown, Friday, September 8. This year the tragedy at Munich casts a deep shadow over the observance.

Rosh Hashanah, is the first of the High Holy Days, the traditional Ten Penitential Days. The blowing of the shofar symbolizes God's summons to the people for self-judgement.

Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement will culminate the period of penitential prayers with solemn Kol Nidre services being ushered in at sunset September 17.

During the period between Rosh Hashana and Yom Kippur, stress is placed on the individual and his behavior to his fellowman, and his director of the Association in attitudes towards making a better place to live by improving his relations with his neighbor.

In this time of prayer, a healthy, happy, new year with continued good life and peace is sought by Jews in their prayers. According to the Jewish tradition, man's good and bad deeds are judged during the Days of Awe.

The emphasis on Penitence, Prayer and the Performance of Good Deeds, exhorts man to improve his way of living in order to obtain a favorable "decree" for life and health. Selichoth services, with prayers of repentance and supplications for forgiveness, are held prior to Rosh Hashanah and prepare worshippers for the Days of Awe or Ten Penitential Days.

Estimate 25% Of Total Vote Will Be Cast Here

By PHILIP M. KEOHANE

The political futures of 20 Newton residents campaigning for elected offices with spheres of interest ranging from local neighborhoods to national prominence will be sharply defined when the polls close next Tuesday, September 19, following voting in the Massachusetts primary.

Two of the biggest names on the national scene from Newton are US Senator Edward W. Brooke of 535 Beacon street who is unopposed for the Republican nomination and US Representative Robert F. Drinan of 140 Commonwealth Avenue who has no opposition on the Democratic side for the nomination from the 4th Congressional District.

Brooke and Drinan are both seeking second terms.

The three Democrats who are seeking to be their party's standard bearer against Brooke are District Attorney John J. Droney of Cambridge, former State Representative and a current Register of Deeds John P. Lynch of Springfield and Boston City Councillor Gerald F. O'Leary.

Republicans who are fighting for the chance to take on Father Drinan are two-term State Representative Martin A. Linsky of Brookline, former US Representative Laurence Curtis, also of Brookline, State Representative Robert A. Belmonte of Framingham and Avi Nelson of Brookline, an engineer and researcher.

The third candidate in the November election for the seat from the 4th Congressional district will be John T. Collins of Newton, an Independent-Conservative.

It is estimated that 25 per cent of Newton's registered voters will go to the polls next week, according to Executive Secretary of the Newton Election Commission Alan W. Licarie.

There are almost twice as many Democrats registered in Newton than Republicans, but the independent voters should play a major role in determining the winners. According to Licarie, the city has 25,977 Democrats, 11,151 Republicans and 16,394 Independents.

Independents can ask for either a Republican or a Democratic ballot, and after voting, can sign a card available at the polls restoring them to the status of their choice within 31 days.

More candidates are seeking the two Democratic nominations for state representative from the 13th Middlesex district than any other contest which Newtonites will vote on.

Plans Launched For Observance Of Newton's 100th Birthday In 1973

The last time Newton had a real Centennial celebration, it was for the anniversary of a nation. Next year, it will be for the anniversary of the city.

Plans for the gala celebration were unveiled at a press conference Wednesday.

The creation of the Newton Centennial Commission as the non-profit organization that will plan and coordinate the commemoration was announced. D. r. David I. Kosowsky will be in charge.

The centennial observance will be launched in the spring of 1973 with a dramatic historical pageant. Mayor Theodore D. Mann said, and will conclude in early summer with a commemorative parade.

The period of active celebration will encompass events that will involve hundreds of residents in the planning and thousands of participants and spectators.

Newton was established in 1631, incorporated as a town in 1689. When it became a city on June 2, 1873, it had 14,000 residents and occupied the exact territory it does now.

Communication Lapse Cited In School Busing Problem

Lack of communication on the school bus problem between the public and Newton's officialdom surfaced this week as a prime reason for the frustration and anger felt by many of the city's parents, who have been thwarted in their attempts to pack their children off to school by the shortage of transportation and bus schedule changes.

At a meeting of the School Committee Monday, Chairman Manuel Beckwith said that the paucity of school buses on the opening day of classes had led to a "tremendous upheaval in the community since."

Mayor Theodore D. Mann has urged all Newton parents currently undergoing school busing problems to make known their specific grievances to the principals of the schools their children attend. Steps can then be taken to effect better service in the areas involved.

"Proper communication was not given to the proper people" on the school

REV. W. S. JOYCE

Rev. W. Seavey Joyce, S.J., director of the Boston office of the National Alliance of Businessmen's JOBS Program and former President of Boston College will be the featured speaker at the 14th Annual Achievement Dinner of the Newton-Needham Chamber of Commerce on October 3, 1972 at Sidney Hill Country Club, Chestnut Hill.

Father Joyce, a native of Boston, entered the Jesuit order in 1931 following his graduation from Boston College High School and was ordained at Weston College in 1943.

In addition to a Bachelor's and Master's degree from Boston College, he holds S.T.L. degrees in Philosophy and Sacred Theology from Weston College, a Master's degree in Economics from Georgetown University and a Ph.D. in Economics from Harvard University.

He came to Boston College as chairman of the Economics Department in 1949 and served in that capacity until 1957. In 1953 he was appointed Dean of the College of Business Administration and inaugurated the Master's Degree program in Economics.

In 1963 he assumed additional responsibilities as Dean of the Graduate School of Business Administration. In July of 1966 he was named Vice President for Community Relations and has also served as faculty advisor to the Alumni Association and as Trustee of the University since 1963.

Soon after he became Dean, Boston College became deeply involved in community problems. Father Joyce is the founder of the Boston Citizen Seminars which, since their inception in November of 1954, have provided united community leadership from business, labor, educational and other community interest groups in helping solve the social, fiscal and economic problems of Greater Boston.

From its inception in 1963 until May, 1968, Father Joyce served as the first president of the Boston Metropolitan Area Planning Council (MAPC), the quasi-state planning group for 96 area communities. He also separated the rectorship of the Jesuit community from the office of the president and appointed the first laymen to be Dean of the College of Arts served as Chairman of the Boston Citizens' Advisory Committee on Community Development for four years.

In 1968 he was inaugurated as the 23rd President of Boston College, the second largest

Nutrition Problems To Be Featured In Newton Course

Students taking a new course at Newton College in Newton this fall will explore contemporary problems in nutrition and food as well as their own eating habits. The course is open to members of the public as well as to Newton College students.

The course is part of a recently established science program at the college for the non-scientist. Titled "Science and the Consumer," the new course will focus on making the students sensitive to their own eating habits and attitudes, and competent to purchase nutritious food despite the inadequacy of food labeling and the proliferating of synthetic non-nutritive foods, according to Dr. Charles Botticelli, science coordinator at Newton College. The course will be taught by Dr. Judith Wurtman.

"The students will also become familiar with the concepts of basic nutrition and with the problems of under nutrition and malnutrition that exist in this country and abroad," Dr. Botticelli said.

"The course," Dr. Botticelli went on to say, "will examine man's past and present 'foodways', the social and cultural factors that influence his choice of particular foods. Examples will include such current styles in eating as organic foods and health foods, and macrobiotic diets."

"These will be compared with society's traditional beliefs and attitudes toward food. Man's nutritional requirements will be described, and the problems of malnutrition among the poor along with faulty nutrition among the more affluent will be examined."

The special nutrition among the more affluent will be examined.

The special nutritional problems created by food processing and by inadequate food labeling will be considered and the ways that the consumer can improve the nutritional quality of such food will be discussed," he noted.

Experience with the problems of adequate food consumption will be acquired through field projects such as work with the Consumer

Council on innovations in food labeling, collection of information about eating habits and attitudes within the college community, enrollment of people in the food commodity program, evaluation of the nutritional quality of food fads and alternate eating styles, and the study in depth of the problems of malnutrition in local communities.

Drs. Botticelli and Wurtman expressed the hope that members of the community will participate in this course and contribute their own interests and skills in seeking solutions to the problems of the contemporary consumer.

In discussing the recently instituted science for non majors program at Newton College, Dr. Botticelli said, "All students will soon have to face and vote on such issues as population control, child rearing, drug abuse and use, pollution, violent behavior, and poverty. Rhetoric and emotion are no substitute for scientific knowledge in these matters."

Theft-

The Jaycees have marked nearly 1,000 bikes at their first three clinics but, according to Police Sgt. Feeley, there are nearly 15,000 bikes in the city. The program, according to Petralla, will eventually reach into all seven villages before next summer.

The electronic engraving on the cross bar should be allowed to rust and then, it should be lightly sanded and covered with clear nail polish, according to Sgt. Feeley.

By allowing rust to form, the engraving works its way deep into the metal and, despite efforts by the thief to erase the name, it can be brought back by using special acids.

Mr. Petralla warns bicycle owners, that engraving is meant to discourage the "amateur" thief — locks, alarms and other such devices should still be used whenever possible. Help the Newton Jaycees help you protect your property.

Schedule-

In addition, a provision which would have required police to make up four Days already granted because the department assumed 4-2 would eventually pass, was stricken from the final ordinance on a motion by Ald. Richard J. Bullwinkle.

Trips-

An MBTA spokesman said the company planned to try route again to see how well it is patronized and will then decide whether additions or deletions should be made.

The bus route was eliminated when the MBTA took over Newton buses in August after the Middlesex & Boston ceased operations. At that time, it was said the route was dropped because of "poor ridership."

Florida's public university enrollment more than doubled in the seven year period ending in 1970. The enrollment was 33,449 in 1963 and 73,676 in 1970.

He does. And at a Christian Science testimony meeting, you'll hear people like yourself tell how God has answered their prayers. It may have been a physical healing, a sense of peace restored, or whatever they needed.

Come join us this Wednesday. You'll hear how God can answer your prayers.

Buy any new '72 Volkswagen and we'll give you a free service plan for 12 months/12,000 miles.

What the plan is all about: No manufacturer's warranty in the world covers normal maintenance work.

But our service plan does.

With the service contract we're giving away you can get your engine tuned, your wheels aligned, and your brakes, fan belt and clutch adjusted whenever you need to, without spending a cent.

Lube jobs are free.

Spark plugs are free.

Points, condensers, wiper blades, fuses, hoses, even light bulbs are free. We'll look for trouble, too. And you won't have to pay for the inspections, either.

Actually, for 12 months or 12,000 miles (depending on whichever comes first) you won't have to pay for any of the service you'd normally pay for, with a Volkswagen or any other car. Because, except for gas, oil, tires and collision damage, your problems are our problems.

Now, what do we expect from you?

You have to buy a new '72 Beetle, Super Beetle, Station Wagon, Square-back, Type 3, Karmann Ghia, Camptobile, or 411 from us.

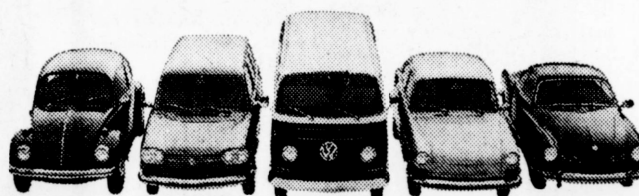

You have to bring it back where you bought it every 3 months or 3,000 miles so we can maintain it according to Volkswagen's maintenance schedule.

And you can't modify, abuse or torture it.

Except for one last detail.

We can't make this offer indefinitely. So don't put off coming to see us. Wouldn't you rather kick our tires than kick yourself?

Ald. Lipof Is Reappointed To MAPC Comm.

Newton Alderman Michael Lipof, who also serves as one of Governor Sargent's representatives on the Metropolitan Area Planning Council, has been reappointed to MAPC's Technical Advisory Committees on Land Use & Zoning and Housing.

Last year Lipof helped draft the MAPC housing report and participated in the regional conference held in Boston. This week, MAPC President John J. McCarthy appointed Lipof vice-chairman of the Housing Committee.

Lipof, a Boston University graduate, is a Boston realtor. He is also a member of the Advisory Board of Directors of The Garden City Trust Co. in Newton, and a member of the Board of Directors of the Mt. Vernon Co-Operative Bank and Knollwood Cemetery Corp. and Sharon Memorial Park.

The event is a fund-raiser for the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital. The girls are also involved in the annual Danny Thomas "Teenage March" for the St. Jude Hospital founded by the noted comedian ten years ago in Memphis, Tenn.

3 Agencies Combine For Drug, Alcohol Campaign

A joint program to help employees with alcohol and drug problems get help has been developed by Middlesex County Hospital, the Walter E. Fernald School and Metropolitan State Hospital.

The program recognizes that all businesses and institutions suffer from employee time lost due to alcohol and drug problems.

The program got underway last week (Sept. 8) with a series of seminars for supervisory personnel at the three hospitals and will include a referral network and eventually small therapy units.

The program will be based on a pilot project developed at the Fernald School. It has been endorsed on a countywide basis by the Middlesex County Commissioners, John F. Dever, Jr., Frederick J. Connors and John Danahy.

The endorsement is believed to make Middlesex the first county in the country with such a policy on employees with a drug or alcohol problem.

In a statement signed by the commissioners, they stated that no county employee who voluntarily seeks help for either himself or a relative will have his job put in jeopardy. An employee enrolled in an approved program of rehabilitation may be given sick leave. Starting Dec. 1, the Middlesex County Drug and Alcoholism Rehabilitation Program will offer counseling and information. This will be based on the plan developed by the three hospitals.

Eventually the originators of the plan foresee its expansion to train and develop similar programs in industries and school systems throughout the county.

"We feel we have an obligation to go out and help these businesses and school systems, but that we must start by looking at ourselves and helping our own employees," explained Paul R. Shea, personnel director at Middlesex.

The seminars will be used to train first a small number of people who in turn will gain expertise and be able to train others to recognize the symptoms of drug or alcohol addiction and offer assistance. Where appropriate, small therapy units will be established. In other cases, referrals to going programs can be made. There are already a variety of programs throughout the county which are not fully utilized largely because those who need their services don't know about them, Shea pointed out.

This program will not be an expense to the taxpayer but will take advantage of experts in the field of addiction available through the state Department of Public Health, the state Department of Mental Health, the Alcoholism Commission, Alcoholics Anonymous and personnel at the three hospitals for a few hours a week.

In the past personnel at the three hospitals provided these same services only on an individual basis without a planned program. It is expected that the planned program will be more effective and a savings of individuals' time.

It is hoped that some expansion of the program will be possible due to federal funding in 1973.

The county rehabilitation program is charged with organizing a monthly

The Class of 1962 will hold its gathering at Barat House on the campus under the chairmanship of Ellen Markey Thurmond (Mrs. Peter) of West Newton.

Seminars that will focus on "Women in a Changing World" will be held on Saturday afternoon. Faculty members, administrators, alumnae and students will participate. President James J. Whalen will lead a plenary session for general discussion following the seminars.

On Saturday evening the alumnae and their escorts will attend a buffet supper dance on the terrace of the Newton Country Day School. Kathryn Hogan Mullaney (Mrs. Mark) is General Chairman of the event.

Alumnae and members of their families will attend a Sunday Mass in the College Chapel at 10:30 a.m. at which Rev. John M. Toomey, S.T.L. will be the Celebrant.

Mary Frances Murphy (Mrs. Gregory), director of alumnae affairs, is acting as general coordinator of the weekend's activities.

Alcohol Ban Proposal Back In Committee

A request from Recreation Commissioner John Penney for an ordinance banning alcoholic beverages from city playgrounds was dumped back in the lap of the Aldermanic Legislation and Rules Committee Monday night.

The committee had voted to deny the request and the matter was returned to the committee on a vote of 18 - 2. Alderman Eliot K. Cohen and Louis Egelson voted no.

Penney is requesting that alcohol be banned from all playgrounds, playfields or recreation areas "except by written permission of the Recreation Commission."

Supporting the motion to send the matter back to the committee, Ald. Peter F. Harrington said that he had heard from many West Newton and Newtonville residents complaining about the drinking going on at playgrounds.

"Parents," he said, "are concerned about older boys and men playing ball and drinking."

"Maybe the police would feel more comfortable enforcing a local ordinance on this matter than applying state laws," he said.

Ald. Richard J. McGrath said his constituents in Ward 4 had also contacted him, particularly in regard to broken glass on playgrounds.

"I urge the Legislation and Rules committee to take this matter back and investigate it more, an maybe return a favorable recommendation," McGrath said.

The committee originally denied the matter on a vote of 4 - 3. Ald. Andrew Magni casting the negative vote, on the basis that there were adequate laws to cover drinking, littering and disorderly conduct without introducing a local ordinance.

Asian Expert Speaks At Church On Sunday

Russell Johnson, Program Secretary for the New England Region, American Friends Service Committee, will be the guest speaker at the First Unitarian Society in Newton, Sunday, September 17 at 10:30 a.m.

Having recently returned from a one month tour of China, Mr. Johnson's topic will be "Personal Report on China and a Visit with Prince Sihanouk", and will be illustrated with colored slides.

Russell Johnson has a considerable background in Asian affairs, having visited Vietnam eleven times since 1961 and North Vietnam in 1967. In the summer of 1970, he and his wife, Irene spent two months in Southeast Asia, with visits to Thailand, Laos, Cambodia and South Vietnam.

While in China, Mr. Johnson and his wife were guests of Prince Sihanouk, Chief of State, Royal Government of National Union of Cambodia, now resident in Peking.

The Johnsons traveled widely throughout China, visiting rural areas, factories, education institutions, and many cultural places.

They were especially impressed with the intensive reforestation and cultivation of land areas, with the commitments of young people, and with the three acupuncture operations which they witnessed.

This same day, September 17, will also be the open of Church School, commencing with a family service at 10:30, and then breaking up into individual classes at 10:45. A new curriculum based on the trimester system will offer classes from kindergarten through high school; child care will be available. Registration forms may be obtained by calling the church office at 527-3203; they will also be available on the 17th and thereafter.

Committees Face Issues Of Interest

In the next two weeks, various Board of Aldermen committees will be dealing with several matters of interest.

On Thursday, Sept. 21, the Finance Committee will hold its regular 8 p.m. meeting and will discuss the proposal for pay for aldermen.

Monday, Sept. 25, at 8 p.m. the Legislation and Rules Committee will hold a special meeting to discuss revaluation of city property. Aldermen that are not members of the committee, the mayor or city assessors have been invited to attend.

The City Planning Committee will meet Thursday, Sept. 28 at 8 p.m. to take up, among other things, a proposal made by Alderman Andrew Magni that a portion of Victory Field be designated for park and recreation use. The matter was discussed at the last City Planning meeting but only two members of the committee were present at that time.

The committee had voted to deny the request and the matter was returned to the committee on a vote of 18 - 2. Alderman Eliot K. Cohen and Louis Egelson voted no.

Penney is requesting that alcohol be banned from all playgrounds, playfields or recreation areas "except by written permission of the Recreation Commission."

OIL MAKES NEWS IN NEWTON

Take a good look at the newspaper you're holding. Without oil, it might not be there.

From the film in the press camera to the rollers in the presses—today's newspapers depend on products that come from oil. Even the ink comes from oil.

To get a newspaper out takes a lot of energy too. And 75% of all our energy comes from oil and natural gas (including 40% of our electricity).

But today, we're using these petroleum fuels faster than we are finding them. That's why America faces an Energy Gap.

We're your local oil companies. Working to bridge the growing Energy Gap. Because it shouldn't be news to anyone that a country that runs on oil can't afford to run short.

None Of Your Business

The next time you read or hear of an elected or appointed group of Newton officials meeting in so-called "executive session," you should bear in mind that you will probably really never know what went on. "Executive session," honestly and bluntly defined, means "none of your business."

Every time the executive session sign goes up, or the motion is passed to continue a hearing behind closed doors, you are cut off from an accurate picture of what transpires. Sometimes there are hints and tidbits of what happened, but no attempt to assemble the ragged pieces ever evolves in the whole, true story.

The closed door sessions are needed to protect the reputations of individuals and the financial well-being of the city, but they should still be a rarity. When they become a regular thing, they become protective of only those who hold the private meetings.

The Massachusetts Open Meeting Law states: "Executive sessions may be held only for the purpose of discussing, deliberating or voting on those matters which by general or special statute, or federal grant-in-aid requirements cannot be made public, and those matters which if made public might adversely affect the public security, financial interest of the Commonwealth or its political subdivisions, or the reputation of any one person."

The law, weak as it may be, was passed to protect your right to know.

Wanted -- A Housekeeper

There's no question Bunker Hill Monument makes an aesthetic impact on the viewer spotting it from one of Boston's latter-day skyscrapers or from the deck of fishing trawler out on the edge of Boston Harbor.

Close up it loses quite a bit of its dignity. Visitors who go to the trouble of getting close enough to touch it and to crane their necks to view its height from the base, aren't always on their best living room behavior. It only takes a few litters plus a handful of graffiti addicts who have some kind of a marking device to subtract from its glorious significance.

New, Commissioner John Sears of the Metropolitan District Commission, has informed Senator Edward M. Kennedy that he agrees with those who would have the Federal government take over the maintenance of Bunker Hill.

We don't know whether the U.S. Park Service would be any more efficient landlord for the site and the monument than the MDC which has had the job for the past several years after the Bunker Hill Monument Association found it couldn't cope with the task.

The nearer we get to the nation's 200th birthday and Concord, our Faneuil Halls and Old North the greater looms the drawing power of our Lexington Churches.

The attendant housekeeping task won't be easy. Maybe, it would be well, if we could in some way induce the Federal Park Service take over the job.

It isn't a duty we can put off for long.

Justified Expenditures

The last Grand Army veteran has long since disappeared from the scene of the annual Memorial Day Exercises. Each year the number of survivors of the Spanish-American war dwindles and they no longer walk in Memorial Day parades — they ride in cars.

Recently the Veterans Administration announced that the nation's World War II veterans have reached an average age of 53 and they now make up more than half the country's living veteran population. In addition nearly two million veterans are now over 65.

Since World War II we've had Korea and Vietnam. The Korean veterans are more likely to be found in the grandstand than on the diamond at the community softball game. The veterans of our seemingly interminable operations in Southeast Asia will make serious claim to youth.

During fiscal 1973, the VA will have expended $2.8 billion for the exclusive benefit of the old veterans.

Despite its "undeclared" status Vietnam is the longest of our wars. In many of its facets it is different in character from those which have preceded it. One of those differences reflects the medical advances which have enabled our medical forces to save lives of many wounded, who would have been doomed to front line deaths in World War II.

Their care and rehabilitation is of imperative importance for this nation. In the political arena speakers and economists are constantly reminding us of the dollars we'll save when this war ends.

Those savings must not come out of the proper care of its armed force victims.

PRIMARY BIRDS OF A FEATHER

POLITICAL HIGHLIGHTS

In many instances the nominations that are achieved will be tantamount to election to Congress, the State Senate and the Massachusetts House of Representatives in districts which are solidly Democratic or Republican.

Even though the list of primary candidates is smaller than usual and the only state-wide primary fight is for the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senator, a substantial turnout of voters is expected because of the interest aroused by local battles for nominations for Congress and the two branches of the State Legislature.

The general public has been slow to respond to the efforts of the candidates to command their attention and interest. Apathy and indifference to the primary battles were evident during the summer season which saw two national political conventions as well as the so-called Eagleton affair.

But there are indications and evidence of a mounting public interest since Labor Day brought families home from the beaches and the children last week trooped back to school, the vacation days only a memory.

The political pundits will be watching to see if there is any McGovern impact on the three-cornered clash for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate between Middlesex County District Attorney John J. Droney, Boston City Councillor Gerald F. O'Leary and John Pierce Lynch of Springfield.

O'Leary is a McGovern supporter. In fact, he was in California campaigning for McGovern when he announced his candidacy for U.S. Senator. His chances of winning the nomination depend on the backing he gets from the ranks of the McGovern adherents.

Droney, an outstanding District Attorney for the past 12 years, was endorsed by the Democratic State Convention last June. That will yield him a tidy bonus of votes, especially in the towns.

A law-and-order man, Droney's views on law-enforcement are closer to those of President Nixon than to Senator McGovern.

Political analysts consider that the fight for the nomination is between Droney and O'Leary and that Lynch is running third behind them.

Four members of the Massachusetts Senate are not standing for reelection. One of the four, Senator Robert L. Cawley of West Roxbury is seeking promotion to Congress in the district represented by Congresswoman Louise Day Hicks.

Among the four retiring is Senator James F. (Blackie) Burke of Brockton, former chairman of the powerful Senate Ways and Means Committee who was stripped of many of his powers when Kevin B. Harrington became president of the Senate.

A fifth Senator, Philip A. Quinn of Spencer, died suddenly while he was running unopposed for Democratic renomination in the Worcester, Hampden and Hampshire district. A sticker fight will be waged for the nomination which Quinn had been conceded until his death.

Next Tuesday will be a crucial one in the political life of Congresswoman Louise Day Hicks. Her public career will be on the barrelhead as the votes are cast and later counted.

Mrs. Hicks, who first drew the spotlight of public attention while serving on the Boston School Committee in the early 1960s, is completing her first term in the national House of Representatives and is being challenged in the Democratic primary by two formidable adversaries—Boston School Committee Chairman James W. Hennigan and State Senator Robert L. Cawley of West Roxbury.

Also seeking support in that contest are three blacks—Melvin B. Miller of Roxbury, weekly newspaper publisher; Hubert E. Jones of Newton who does not live in the ninth congressional district; and Enoch O'D. Woodhouse of the Back Bay.

Hennigan and Cawley have made active, energetic, hard-hitting campaigns. Each predicts victory for himself next Tuesday.

Hennigan appears to have made considerable headway in towns such as Norwood which were taken from the district of Congressman James A. Burke and included in the Hicks district.

Cawley headed the legislative committee which established 12 new congressional districts on the basis of the 1970 federal census figures, and he created the ninth district for himself.

The district takes in a large section of Boston, including South Boston where Mrs. Hicks resides; West Roxbury where Cawley lives; Jamaica Plain, Hennigan's home stronghold; and a number of Norfolk County towns, including Norwood, Dedham, Needham and Westwood.

Hennigan, Cawley and Mrs. Hicks are accomplished campaigners who have organizations of supporters working in their behalf. All three profess to be confident of the outcome of their fight.

The winner will have to reckon with City Councillor John Joseph Moakley of South Boston who will be running in November as an independent. Moakley gave Mrs. Hicks a hard fight in the 1970 Democratic primary.

Ronald T. McDonald of Norwood and Howard M. Miller of Needham are opponents for the Republican nomination in the ninth congressional district.

The ninth district ordinarily is about 4-1 Democratic. A victory in the Democratic primary usually would be tantamount to election. However, that will not be the case next Tuesday with an independent candidate of the stature of Moakley waiting in the wings.

Senator Edward W. Brooke is unopposed for Republican renomination. So are Congressman Silvio O. Conte of Pittsfield and Congresswoman Margaret M. Heckler of Wellesley, two of the GOP's most powerful vote-getters in the Bay State.

The most interesting fight in the Republican primary is being waged in the fourth congressional district, which extends from Newton and Brookline out to Framingham, for the right to stand against Congressman Robert F. Drinan of Newton in the November election.

Three of the candidates are from Brookline and one from Framingham. They are former Congressman Laurence Curtis, Representative Martin A. Linsky and Avi N. Nelson, all of Brookline, and Representative Robert A. Belmonte of Framingham.

A poll made by Linsky indicated that Curtis is leading in the race, with Linsky running second and Belmonte third.

Curtis served 10 years in Congress from the old Newton-Brookline-West Roxbury district but was gerrymandered out of office when the number of congressional districts was reduced from 14 to 12. While serving on Capitol Hill he was a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee and the House Judiciary Committee and was a respected expert on international affairs.

Linsky has been the Republican Whip in the Massachusetts House of Representatives for the past two years. He was Governor Sargent's first choice to be the GOP candidate for Lieutenant Governor in 1970. Sarge had the votes lined up to give him the endorsement of the Republican State Convention but then dropped him.

Belmonte has been the assistant Republican Whip in the Massachusetts House this year and last. In that capacity he worked in close cooperation with Linsky. But the two now are giving up their legislative posts to gamble they can win election to Congress. Belmonte should carry the Framingham end of the district.

Avi Nelson is a young Republican who should draw well from the new voters. His father is a Rabbi in South Brookline. He is a darkhorse in the contest.

Congressman Drinan, who headed the McGovern campaign in Massachusetts, is unopposed for Democratic renomination. He was the "chairperson" of the Bay State delegation to the Democratic National Convention.

Two Republican Congressmen are not standing for reelection. Bradford Morse of Lowell accepted a position in the Nixon administration. Free-for-all scrambles are being waged in both the Democratic and Republican primaries for party nominations for the office he has vacated.

Hastings Keith of the Cape district is retiring from office. His district was revamped by Cawley's committee to such an extent as to make it unlikely he could win reelection. Former State Senator William D. Weeks of Cohasset, son of Sinclair Weeks, is unopposed for the Republican nomination in that district. Gerry E. Studds of Cohasset, also unopposed in the primary, will be his Democratic opponent in November.

The other Democratic Congressmen are all assured of renomination, and most of them will win easily in the November election.

A number of new faces will burst upon the changing political scene when the primary returns are tabulated Tuesday night. More women and young people than ever before will be among them.

When Is Sen. McGovern Not A Candidate For President?

This observer is puzzled as to how Senator George S. McGovern expects a news reporter to know when he is orating as a Presidential candidate and when he is not.

The top political columnist for a Boston daily newspaper, which is friendly to McGovern, has suggested in print that the South Dakota Senator speak as a candidate for the Presidency, not as a college professor.

That, presumably, would eliminate any confusion as to what Senator McGovern considered himself to be wearing at a precise moment.

McGovern made the surprising statement in an interview that if he is elected the next President, the Saigon government of President Thieu would have to flee from the country and a communist-dominated coalition would take over.

When public reaction to that assertion was unfavorable, Senator McGovern declared that he had been speaking from a historical perspective and that he should have been quoted that way.

That distinction is somewhat on the hair-splitting side and probably is over the head of the average newspaper reporter who will have some difficulty seeing the difference between a George McGovern talking as a Presidential candidate and a George McGovern speaking from a historical perspective.

Senator McGovern probably will be obliged to accept the hard fact that from now until election day next November he will be considered a candidate for the Presidency 24 hours a day, seven days a week. His explanation of a strange statement is rather lame and limp.

Senator McGovern Now Says He Is Against Quota System

Senator McGovern made a strange statement to the American Jewish Committee when he declared that he is opposed to the quota system and is against abandoning the merit system.

Cyclists And The Sunrise

Editor, Newton Graphic:
Renewed interest in bicycle riding has reached junior and senior high school students, in addition to those in elementary schools.

Motorists from 7:30 to 8:30 a.m. should exercise great caution on all roads leading to any of our schools.

In addition, all cyclists and motorists should note the position of the sun every morning.

At present, anyone riding east between 7:30 and 8:30 a.m. has the glare of the rising sun directly in their eyes and therefore experiences impaired visibility.

A minimum of 3,000 bicycles are being used by students on their way to Newton Schools, and everyone should be careful.

Liability as an insurable risk is a strange and complicated matter. . . . Sizeable damage awards by the courts have made all-purpose liability coverage almost essential today. . . . The exercise of the utmost care in the maintenance of your property will not suffice to relieve you of liability for personal injury or property damage. . . . Anyone legally on your property, and even trespassers, may be awarded damages in cases involving personal injury. . . . The amount of damage to your property has a predictable maximum, that is, the total value of the property, but the possible liability award has no such predictable maximum. . . . The purchaser of property insurance has an immense job in selecting adequate coverage for his circumstances.

Subsidized Housing Reforms

Editor, Newton Graphic:
Lacking administrative reform, there is danger of the nation's backing away from valid housing subsidy programs in the face of recent scandals and rising defaults. The basic housing issues have been so obscured by scandal and administrative failure that experienced, sophisticated observers disagree on the appropriate course to pursue.

There are those who would water down our national goal to rebuild inner cities and to house adequately our underhoused families. Others recommend the scrapping of recently developed innovative approaches to these goals.

The current approach of subsidizing interest costs to borrowers on market-rate mortgage loans made by private lenders is essentially sound.

We now run the risk of confusing administrative failure with program bankruptcy. It may be necessary to separate the administration of long-standing market oriented programs of FHA—still essential to the flow of mortgage credit from capital surplus to capital-deficit areas—from the administration of newer, subsidized programs. But a federal mortgage insurance program remains for inner-city revitalization and production of subsidized housing.

Only through such a program can we expect to tap a significant flow of funds from financial institutions and continue the alliance between public goals and private means.

There is a clear need for fundamental changes in the administration of the nation's multi-billion dollar housing programs and the changes should include:

—greater emphasis on prospects for upward income mobility in selecting families for Section 235 and 236 housing, on the assumption that such families will be able to take over an increasing share of their own housing costs in the future—a fundamental objective of the program.

—review of current minimum standards for subsidized housing, which may be higher than the nation can afford, given the number of under-housed families and the nation's other priorities.

—reevaluation of the policy encouraging home ownership over rental among marginal income families without adequate counseling in the problem and responsibilities of home ownership.

We can agree probably as business economists on the need to reverse growing public intervention and influence in the private marketplace but can we hold ranks on specifics? We can agree on the need for fiscal reform, for budgetary balance as we approach full employment, but do we cut expenditures, raise taxes, or both? And how? Without some meat on the skeleton position, any NABE statement on public economic policy might well be reduced to a hollow platitude.

Turnabout Out And Around

Editor, Newton Graphic:
In the past three years, Turnabout has grown from a one man operation to a program that serves more than 300 people each week.

Hundreds of people have helped to make this program a success. Through voluntary contributions of time and money, many young lives have been saved from death or from private citizens is still urgently needed to continue this effort.

On Sept. 24 your feet could be worth money to Turnabout!

That's the date of the third annual March Against Drug Abuse sponsored by the Boston Coordinating Council on Drug Abuse. Last year, close to 3,000 people joined in this effort to raise money for drug programs throughout Greater Boston and $11,000 was raised for Turnabout alone. This year, the need for funds is more urgent than ever and it is our hope that twice that amount can be obtained on the 24th.

You can participate in this event as a marcher by soliciting your neighbors to sponsor your hike for a given amount for each mile that you walk. . . or, you can be a sponsor by promising an

Our Candidates And The People

Editor, Newton Graphic:
I am just sick to my stomach of listening to candidates who claim to be running for "the people" but who do not really know or care what "the people" really think.

What we voters want is someone who will see to it that it is safe for us and our children to walk the streets at night. Isn't that what government is supposed to be for in the first place?

Of the candidates running for Congress, the only one I've heard call crime in the streets the number one issue is Avi Nelson. All I can say is that it's high time someone gave crime the attention it deserves; and if Nelson is serious about this, he certainly has my vote.

Cartoon Didn't Tell the Story

Editor, Newton Graphic:
Your page 4 cartoon on Sept. 7 could have been good if it were complete. What you did not finish was the bus leaving and still standing at the stop were several children.

Are you aware that between "no standees" and the present number of buses scheduled, many children will be left at the bus stops and there will be no second bus to pick them up?

What are our children to do then, hitch hike, be late by walking or just say the heck with school today?

We need safe buses, yes, but adequate service is as important.

Nancy Girard can make it more of a nibble.

Nancy helps administer our Equal Payment Plan. "Here's how it works," says she.

"We figure out how much gas you will use during the 10-month heating season—September through June—and divide the cost into ten equal payments. That's what you pay each month.

"Even though you're on the Equal Payment Plan, we still read your meter as scheduled. Both the Equal Payment Plan charge and the actual amount of your bill for the month appear on your bill. However, you pay just the same Equal Payment Plan figure each month. In July, we send you a summary of your account for the 10-month period. In July and August, you are billed just for the gas you use those months.

"Over 42,000 of our heating customers use this convenient plan. It helps level high winter expenses around Christmas and at income-tax time—and there are no interest or carrying charges involved.

"If you think the Equal Payment Plan would suit you better, just call us at 522-6000, or the toll free number listed in your area phone book."

I'd like to discuss the Equal Payment Plan with one of your representatives. Please contact me.

All-Day Local Conference Develops School Programs

The Newton Community Relations Commission will hold an all-day conference on October 13 to assist citizens in the development of community school programs in Newton.

Representatives from all of the public and private schools and colleges in the city will be invited to attend the conference, according to Mrs. Florence Rubin, chairman of the CRC Community School Committee.

The morning session will focus on how to run an effective community school program: how to get started, financial problems and the possible sources of assistance for community schools, means of getting increased community involvement, and methods for better coordination of volunteer workers. In the afternoon, participants will share program ideas with one another, said Mrs. Rubin who will serve as moderator of the conference.

A community school program calls for extensive use of school buildings in the needs and concerns of citizens city after the regular school hours for educational, social service, and recreational programs to meet the needs of all segments of the community (e.g. youth, elderly, etc.)

The conference, which will bring together people who have run successful community school programs among various groups in the city, Mrs. Rubin noted. She like to initiate them, will be also reported that application directed at assistance with the development of new programs to provide financial support and expansion of existing programs in the arts and humanities.

DAR Marks 185th Year Of Historic 'Signing' Sunday

Citizens of Newton are alerted this week to the fact that one of the signers of the Constitutional Convention, Roger Sherman, was born near what is now Newton Corner. Sunday, Sept. 17th, is the 185th anniversary of the signing of the Constitution of the United States and Newton's patriot was the only man to sign all three important national documents: The Declaration of Independence, the Articles of Confederation and the Constitution.

A stone erected in 1910 by Lucy Jackson Chapter, DAR, stands on Waverley avenue just across from Cotton street, and gives a succinct account of his life: "Near this spot was born on April 19, 1721, Roger Sherman, Self-taught scholar, eminent judge, member of Continental Congress, Signer of the Declaration of Independence. A true patriot."

Program on Autumn Stars at Planetarium

A preview of what autumn stargazers will see is being offered in Charles Hayden Planetarium at Boston's Museum of Science through Sept. 18.

A non-technical introduction to the stars and planets visible from New England, the program will focus on objects that can be identified with the naked eye. By means of the Planetarium's Zeiss projector, the passage of autumn months — and consequent changes in the sky's configuration — will be compressed into a 45-minute presentation.

In addition to pointing out such fall sights as the Harvest Moon, the planets Jupiter, Saturn, and Venus, and the program will recount old Greek legends about prominent celestial objects. Among these is the story of how Andromeda came to be in the sky, a myth that involves six constellations, including Pegasus, the winged horse, considered a symbol of autumn from its position high overhead in the southern sky.

"The Stars of Autumn" will be followed by "The Taurus Incident" from September 19 through November 26. This program will discuss some very interesting developments in the constellation of Taurus, the Bull. Other stargazing programs are scheduled for the winter, spring, and summer.

Programs are given daily and Friday nights. The fee is 50 cents above Museum admission.

Saturday night Planetarium shows have been discontinued until further notice. Museum admission is $2 for adults, $1 for ages 5-16 and over 65, and free for children under five. Half-price rates are in effect every Friday night (5-10 p.m.) and, from September 1 to April 1, 2 p.m. to closing Monday through Friday (except holidays and school vacations).

All Greater Boston area organizations with international interests will gather under the banner of the Rotary Club of Boston on September 27 for a major public observance of Rotary International's World Understanding Week.

More than 350 are expected at a luncheon meeting of Boston Rotary at the Statler Hilton bringing together members of the local diplomatic corps, U. S. foreign service officers, officers of the 38 clubs in the immediate Rotary district, and representatives of internationally oriented associations in this area.

Theme of the luncheon meeting, according to Frank J. Zee, president of the Rotary Club of Boston, will be the strengthening of interpersonal and inter-group relations in furtherance of world understanding between the people of the United States and the people of the world.

between governments are naturally the official avenue of interchange, but the real understanding comes from people-to-people group-to-group relationships," Zee stated. "This has been a major activity of Rotary International since its founding over 60 years ago."

The Boston event tops the local celebration of World Understanding Week which is being observed world-wide by Rotary. Rotary now has a membership of about 720,000 in 15,303 clubs in 149 countries and geographical regions. Its Rotary Scholarship program, under which hundreds of young people spend a year of study in a country foreign to them, comprises one of the most extensive student-exchange programs in existence. # Library Camera Club Gets Ready For Fall Activities

Sharing photographic skills and techniques, attending lectures and demoralizations and participating in field trips are just part of the Newton Free Library Camera Club activities planned for the 1972-73 season.

James Saret of 18 Myerson Lane, Newton Center, president of the club, announces the start of fall activities. Meetings are held the second and fourth Mondays of each month at the Nonantum Branch of the NFL at the corner of Bridge and Watertown Streets. The club welcomes new members who seek an exchange of photographic techniques and ideas.

The club includes high school students as well as businessmen and women — all with varying camera abilities and interests.

Camera Club members will participate again this year at the Newton Free Library booth at the New England Book Festival on October 6, 7 and 8 at the John B. Hynes Auditorium where they will program a continuous slide show and photograph some of the activities at the Newton booth.

Interest in photography has always been lively in Newton and a number of skilled photographers have exhibited at the Main Library, 414 Centre Street and at library branches throughout the city. Others have been booked for shows during the coming season.

Two of the first photographers whose work was exhibited at the library were, Georgia Litwak, who has since shown her work at the Museum of Science and the De Cordova Museum and Art Wood of Auburndale, professor at the Rhode Island School of Design, and well-known silk screen artist and photographer.

Others whose photos have been exhibited in Newton are Naama Ansell of Wayland, whose pictures have been published in the Magazine Section of the Sunday Globe; David and Joel Siegel of Newton, musicians and students; and Robert Mann who won best-in-show award from the Boston Office of Human Rights for his photographic essays on Boston Common people.

The presentation was made by Mayor White at Boston City Hall. Other young photographers include Rob Chalfen, who has had two exhibits at the library, and

TAX TIP IF YOU SELL FOR A PROFIT

Normally, taxpayers who sell their home for a substantial profit face a heavy tax load. But this burden can be avoided. If you buy another home that costs up as much or more than the sales price of the old one, within a specified time, the profit from the sale is not included in your taxable income.

Usually, the new house must be bought and occupied within a period starting one year before and ending one year after the sale. Longer periods are permitted for servicemen on active duty and when building a new home. ## Recreation Dept. Calendar Filled With Fall Programs

During the past few weeks the Hawthorn Youth Center sponsored by the Newton Recreation Department has received a "face lifting".

Young people who take part in the Center's activities have painted the kitchen, the girls' room and the lounge utilizing paint and brushes donated by the Newton Youth Centre which is no longer in operation.

Joe Siciliano, "Recreation Leader, reports that the kids are now looking for useable furniture and a second hand television, one capable of receiving Channel 38 for the Bruins' fans.

Anyone wishing to donate any of the above should contact Joe Siciliano at the Newton Recreation Department, 969-3171.

During the Fall the Hawthorn Youth Center is open on week days from 3:00 to 5:00 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. till dusk. The Winter schedule will be from 3:00 to 5:00 p.m., 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. and on weekends as well.

The Center is open to Newton young people of Junior High School and High School age 12 to 17 years. Joe reports that once the rooms have been refurbished the next project will be (hopefully) a new floor for the gymnasium.

If you have furniture or a TV (with 38 potential) call Joe at 969-3171.

Recreation Commissioner John B. Penney announces that there will be a limited Halloween program this year after a year's layoff. The program will be confined to those schools who have expressed a desire for the Halloween Parties. All parties will be held after 6:00 p.m. on Tuesday, October 31. Further details will be announced in future columns.

Fran Towle, Recreation Supervisor, announces a meeting of managers or team representatives of the Girls' Street Hockey League will be held at the Recreation Department Headquarters, 70 Crescent St., on the West Newton-Auburndale line, Thursday, September 21st.

Those interested in the division for younger girls, 12 to 15 should be on hand at 7:00 p.m. The division for older girls, 16 and up will meet at 8:00 p.m.

The program, open to Newton residents or students attending school in the Garden City, will feature the two divisions of six teams each. This will be the maximum number.

Science Church Lecture To Be Given Sept. 18

Individual responsibility for contributing to peace in the community and the world will be emphasized in a public address in the community and the world will be emphasized in a public address in Belmont, Monday evening, September 18.

"If we sincerely desire a better world," a Christian Science lecturer from Urbana, Illinois, will say, "each one of us has to improve our own individual sense of the world."

As we enlarge our understanding of God — expand our sense of love to include all mankind — our home improves and so does our world."

Miss Nancy E. Houston will speak in the church edifice, 199 Common St., at 8 p.m. under the auspices of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Belmont.

Miss Houston was active at one time in education, serving as assistant professor of physical education at the University of Illinois, where she received her master's degree.

Since 1954, she has devoted her full time to the healing ministry of Christian Science. She will relate in her address a number of healings through wholly spiritual means, including a young man's healing of tuberculosis.

Miss Houston is currently on extended tour as a member of The Christian Science Board of Lecturers.

"Is Anybody at Home?" is the title of her talk. Local members have invited the public to attend without charge.

Sight Sea-ing

Tourists from at least 35 states and Mexico have visited Seven Seas, a sea-life that opened this year in Arlington, Texas. Park personnel came up with the figure by checking license plates of cars in the parking lot.

Supplement Your Pension With Interest From People's Federal

You can plan for your retirement and supplement your pension or social security benefits with regular interest payments from People's Federal Savings & Loan Association at 435 Market Street, Brighton.

For example, for each $20,000 you accumulate in savings, the People's Federal will mail you $1200 per year in interest.

It will not even be necessary for you to go to the bank to collect your interest dividends. They will be mailed to you at your home every three months when you want them to start. Of course, the interest will accumulate in your savings account until you wish the supplementary pension payments to begin.

Persons planning for a happy retirement not only save as much as they can at People's while they are working but allow the interest dividends to accumulate during that period so that the interest payments will be greater when they do retire.

People's can supplement your retirement income to the extent of $100 per month for each $20,000 you have in savings in the bank under a plan in which they now pay 6 per cent interest on a two-year savings bond.

The bond must remain in the bank the full two years to give you the maximum return on your deposit. But the interest can be mailed to you regularly whenever you want it to start.

If you are planning your retirement, that $20,000 bond presently will accumulate interest at the rate of more than $1200 a year or over $100 per month while you are building your savings account.

A fact worth remembering is that no matter how many years you draw the $1200 annual interest on each $20,000 deposit, the $20,000 remains yours.

Audio Contest

Mrs. Sidney Croll of Newton Highlands, was one of the judges in a state-wide contest sponsored by the Massachusetts Federation of Nursing Homes to improve community cooperation and relations.
The audio-visual contest, which is continuing, seeks to involve patients in long-term health care facilities, staff, volunteers, members of families, and especially officials and citizens of local communities.
"Health is a community affair," said James J. Brennan of Hampden, Chairman of the Committee. "Local citizens can make tremendous contributions to the long-term health care of senior citizens. The breadth and complexity of community involvement has great possibilities for the future. Community cooperation and concern for the aged and chronically ill can help solve many problems." Mrs. Croll is a Corporate member of Hopdale Garden Nursing Homes, Hopdale, operated by her husband since 1963. She is widely known in the health care field and the Massachusetts Federation of Nursing Homes, which represents a majority of the 690 Nursing facilities in the state, comprising some 32,000 beds.

The Crolls' have two children, a son, Howard, who has just been married and a daughter, Judith, a student at Tufts University.

Short and Sweet

In this era of a trend to couples writing their own wedding vows, it's a sure bet none will come up with the super-simple marriage ceremony practiced by an marriage license bureau.
The man performing the ceremony asked the bridegroom: "You want to marry her?" the answer: "Yes." He asked the bride: "You want to marry him?" The bride answered "Yes." The man vested with the powers of uniting a couple in wedlock then said: "You're married." And that was that.

Newton Gridders Getting Ready...

Tiger Title Aspirations Depend On Line Strength

By DAVID CUTLER

The only weakness in Newton High's football team, which possesses two big quarterbacks, excellent receivers to complement their fine passing, a handful of fast, strong running backs, an experienced pass defense, and an aggressive linebacking corps, is strength in the offensive and defensive lines. If NHS is to retain its Suburban League Championship, the lines must come through and support their respective units, as they haven't in the practices and scrimmages to date.

Ed Beckler and Cal Moffie gave the Tigers greater size, better passing, and more running ability at quarterback than they have suited up in quite a few seasons. Unless a strong offensive line can be developed, however, all this talent may go for naught.

"Beckler and Moffie are being rushed in getting rid of the ball," Head Coach Jim Roynane pointed out. "They need more time to set up."

A great void has been left at middle guard where All-American Mike Ball made his presence felt last year. "Sure we'll miss Mike," Roynane admitted, "but I think that we've got the players to take his place. Basically, our weakness lies in the middle. We're very strong on the perimeter with good backs and ends."

The key thing," Offensive Co-ordinator Norm Walker added, "is that certain boys like Tom Durkin, Tony D'Amico, and Dave Egelson come through." These linemen, who last year as juniors saw limited action, will have to fill the holes up front left by the departed seniors. Their ability to protect the backs, and contain the opposition will determine whether or not Newton can maintain or improve on its 8-1 record of a year ago.

A strongpoint for NHS in 1972 will be placekicker Bill Steinberg won three games for the Tigers last year with his big right foot. Now, with a season's experience under his belt, and the confidence which only comes from kicking under pressure, Steinberg looms as an offensive threat. Steinberg is almost unstoppable on PAT's and within range from 35 yards. "His form is excellent," explained Roynane, "but his leg isn't strong enough to make the longer boots."

Newton's strongest opposition for the Suburban League Title should come from Brockton, the 1970 Champs. They have eight defensive starters, led by sophomore speedster Mike Delancey, is young and inexperienced.

Although the Tigers must still prove themselves in a game situation for the first time at Everett, September 23, they are fielding one of the most talented teams of recent years. Their real test should come through the following week when Brockton comes to town.

With improvement up front, there is little that can stop Newton from capturing its second straight League Title.

TIGER QUARTERBACK — The Newton High School football team will be looking for another title this year and one of their strong points is the signal calling position. One of the key men in the drive for another title is expected to be Quarterback Ed Beckler shown tossing ball in practice sessions. (Robert Grossman Photo)

N.A.A. Lion Teams Split Pair Of Football Contests

By LEONARD HOLT

The football season got off to a good start Sunday Sept. 10th at the Newton Highlands homefield of the Newton Athletic Assoc. Midget Lions and Jr. Midget Tigers.

The Wayland Warrior Teams invaded the Highlands in hopes of reversing last year's double defeat and partially accomplished this by upsetting the NAA Lions 12-8 after bowing to the Jr. Midget Tigers in the opener 8-0.

The Lions played a close game but were unable to get on the offensive due to some costly fumbles. With almost an entire new backfield they showed a lot of potential in moving the ball, but the fumbles were the things that took it away. The defense played a pretty good game, but they were out on the field too long, making them vulnerable for mistakes. The game went as follows. . . .

The first touchdown was scored by Wayland in the first quarter by a run from Steve Antell. The points after were no good. The second touchdown was also scored by Wayland, in the second quarter when the Warriors Quarterback ran the ball into the end zone. The points after were also no good. The third touchdown was scored by Newton in the third quarter as Joe Pepper ran the ball into the endzone. The points after were also no good. The fourth touchdown was scored by Newton in the fourth quarter as Joe Pepper ran the ball into the endzone. The points after were also no good.

The Brookline I. L. Peretz School, 1762 Beacon st., announces that registration for its children's classes will take place on Sunday, September 17, between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. Sessions will start with a Succoth party on Sunday, September 24.

The Peretz School conducts Sunday classes for children who are 5-13 years old, and teaches Yiddish language and literature, Jewish history and current events, Jewish music and holiday customs.

Miss Cindy Marsh, a teacher in Jewish schools with five years experience, will conduct the classes. The Brookline I. L. Peretz School is one of the many Jewish cultural schools in the United States and Canada, run by the Workmen's circle. The Peretz School also conducts Yiddish classes.

Newton's Kickers Strong On O; Defense Questionable

By DAVID CUTLER

The outcome of pre-season contests mean about as much to Newton High Soccer Coach Mike Buzzi as a hangnail. Even the one in which they edged Lincoln-Sudbury 3-2 on September 8. What makes this scrimmage unique, though, is that it was the first one won by NHS since 1969. The superstitions would be alerted at this time during the past two seasons the Tigers have not lost a regular season game, while capturing what has become known as the Suburban League Title.

Buzzi's booters had kept the streak alive through the first two practice games. They fell to Needham 4-2 on September 2, and Lexington trounced them 10-3 on September 6. "We got a lot out of it," insisted Buzzi, referring to the two losses. "Hustle was excellent and I was very pleased by the number of times we beat the opposition to the ball. We'll learn from our mistakes."

And learn they did. Against Lincoln-Sudbury the front line worked smoothly and efficiently, given a big boost by third year man Vinny Meglio. Commented Buzzi, "Our line should be unstoppable."

Newton's strength lies up front where they have a slew of aggressive forwards fighting for the ball starting with the victim of one of the foulest robberies in history.

Tim Ryan on a Wing - Back Reverse. The Tigers with a veteran backfield with Sean Foley at quarterback came up with their first big win. Outstanding jobs were done defensively by Jeff Larson and Noel Foley and Offensively by Dave Mosca, Jim Schmliner, and Jim Quinn.

Next week, Sunday Sept. 17th, the Midget Lions and the Jr. Midget Tigers will play the Arlington Spy Ponders at Arlington. Although the Lions won last years game 28-6, the Spy Ponders are always a title-contending team who play good ball and the Lions and Tigers will be looking for quite the competitive games.

"They stopped the fight in the 14th," continued Clancy. "Emile had no cuts and there were no knockdowns. At the end of nine rounds Monzon was hurting and I didn't think he could finish. We want to fight him again - anyplace but Buenos Aires."

Griffith has only fought in Massachusetts once before. Clancy recalls that occasion as one providing him with much grief.

"Emile fought in Worcester a number of years ago," he said. "The guy insisted on paying us by check, and of course it bounced. The Massachusetts Boxing Commission stepped in and we eventually got the money. It took a long time, but this Commission is the only one which ever produced in a situation like that."

As Clancy talked Griffith sat quietly at his side, fingering an ashtray. There was no tension, and surprisingly, no scars marring his smooth black face. His pinkstriped shirt was open at the neck and the wide collars spread over his thin-black sports jacket. He looked sporty.

Someone asked him if training was now a drudgery after all these years - 17 in all, counting back to before he was a pro, when he was National Golden Gloves champion.

Griffith spoke softly and smiled. "I really like to train," he said. "It's fun. But I never liked getting up in the morning."

Clancy took over. "Emile's amazing. Seventeen years in the gym and he trains with the enthusiasm of someone who's just discovered something new."

How come the number one contender Emile Griffith is fighting comebacking, but relatively unheralded Joe DeNucci?

"He's one of the best around," said Griffith. "He's in my way and I have to fight him. Yes, I have other plans after this fight, but I'm not looking past him. I never go into the ring underestimating anyone. I did it once a long time ago and got knocked on my pants."

"Fighting DeNucci is a gamble for Griffith," continued Clancy. "If Emile continues winning, he'll fight Jean-Luc Boutier in a minimum gate of $300,000."

During lunch of roast beef and potato, which Griffith did not touch, and for which DeNucci arrived too late to eat much of, former heavyweight contender and now Massachusetts State Boxing Commissioner Tom McNeely announced a new state plan.

Beginning on October 19, in conjunction with Massachusetts prisons, the Commission will begin granting boxing licenses to prisoners. These prisoners will be allowed to fight outside jail walls under supervision. The plan was co-ordinated with Paul Pen-

Talking With Joe DeNucci And Griffith Before Fight

There's a lot riding on the outcome of this Saturday's middleweight boxing confrontation between Newton's comebacking Joe DeNucci and five-time world welterweight and middleweight champion Emile Griffith.

When the two boxers go at it before 5,500 fans in Boston's Hynes Auditorium, each will have his future tugging at the back of his mind.

Both fighters are now 33. Griffith is a veteran of 12 consecutive years of ring wars; DeNucci is riding a nine-fight winning streak which began last fall when he emerged from retirement.

Promoter Sam Silverman is offering world titleholder Carlos Monzon a $60,000 guarantee to fight the winner of the DeNucci-Griffith fight in Boston. Both fighters have been around long enough to know that if they lose now they may never get another shot at the title.

Last week at a press luncheon at Boraschi's Restaurant in Copley Square, the two fighters discussed their upcoming fight and their respective futures.

Emile Griffith, a medium-sized, pleasant man, whose hands are surprisingly smooth for one who has spent so long in the ring, looks like a gentleman. He has fought for a title 22 times and one of those times he killed Benny "The Kid" Paret with his fists. Paret didn't belong in the ring that night; the medical examiners were too casual. Griffith refuses to talk about that fight publicly.

Griffith lost the middleweight crown on September 25, fighting Monzon in the latter's home city of Buenos Aires, Argentina.

Since we were fighting in Argentina we knew Emile couldn't win by a decision," said Griffith's manager Gil Clancy. "He had to look for a one-punch knockout. He had to change his style and do a lot of reaching."

"They stopped the fight in the 14th," continued Clancy. "Emile had no cuts and there were no knockdowns. At the end of nine rounds Monzon was hurting and I didn't think he could finish. We want to fight him again - anyplace but Buenos Aires."

Griffith has only fought in Massachusetts once before. Clancy recalls that occasion as one providing him with much grief.

Beginning on October 19, in conjunction with Massachusetts prisons, the Commission will begin granting boxing licenses to prisoners. These prisoners will be allowed to fight outside jail walls under supervision. The plan was co-ordinated with Paul Pender former middleweight champion of the world and presently Director of Norfolk Prison.

Joe DeNucci's slicked-back hair would make him ripe for a Vitalis commercial if he ever becomes world champion, and his face shows the bruises and puffiness of a lifetime of ring wars, but his smile comes easy, and it's genuine, and his handshake is firm and real, not bone-crunching, though both you and he know he could do it if he wanted to.

Joe DeNucci was a pretty tough kid when he attended Newton High School in the mid-1950's. He played baseball (a game he still loves) and football, as a sophomore, but became a professional fighter before he graduated in 1957.

DeNucci built up a record of 51-10-5 and battled Tiger Jones and Joey Giardello, some of the best in his weight class, but he never got a shot at the title. He retired in 1965 at age 25.

Seven years later DeNucci decided to re-enter the ring. "I think I still have it," he said at the time.

He's been back for a year now and he feels that any comparisons between Joe DeNucci of the Sixties and Joe DeNucci of the present are a waste of time.

"I wasn't a real fighter back then," he said. "I didn't have the motivation or conditioning back then. I'm much better now because of my attitude and my training."

How does his family feel about his sudden return to the ring?

"My wife is something enough to know it's intelligent I've got to do," he said. "She has confidence in my ability and judgement."

One thing that rankles Joe DeNucci is when writers, or anybody, hints that he may be past his prime.

"Look," he said, "so many people think fighters peak at 23 or 24. I think you can call upon more when you're in your late twenties or early thirties. In boxing you learn more from the bad days than you do from the good-when everything's easy. You learn more from more experience. I think the longer you play any sport the better you get."

What does Joe DeNucci think of Emile Griffith?

"He's a cute guy," said DeNucci, frowning a little bit. "He's cunning. And I'm not underestimating his knockout power, though his record doesn't look good on paper. He knows how to fight. He's got a pretty good left jab."

"I've seen him seven or eight times on film," he continued, "and I've got an idea what I want to do with the guy. I think it'll be enough. I think I can capitalize on what he doesn't want to do. I have to take his style away from him. Not too long ago Danny Perez went 10 rounds with him. I knocked Perez out in three."

Joe DeNucci smiled. "You know, one of the things going for me in this fight is surprise. I think they took this fight on the strength of my old fights and they think I'm just older, not better. I'm gonna surprise Griffith."

There's nothing definite on DeNucci's schedule after Emile Griffith. "I'm not thinking of getting beat," he said seriously, "so I don't have any plans. There's plenty at stake. I've got almost a commitment of a shot at the title if I win, that's enough incentive."

The Newton Notebook

Newton South High cross-country and indoor 2-mile record holder Charley Pottey captured the 19th annual Canadian Lawn Bowling Championships, last month in Montreal.

Blustein outlasted competition from six other provinces. Aremam Kojoyan, who starred as a football lineman, and placed in the state in wrestling and track at Newton South, has left the University of Maine after one year during which he progressed to an offensive and defensive starter on that school's freshman football team. Kojoyan played guard and linebacker for the Black Bears last year, and also placed fifth as a heavyweight in the New England wrestling championships. Kojoyan has transferred to Rhode Island and will lose a year of eligibility.

Paul Johnson, a tight end for Newton High's excellent football teams of the past few years, is a candidate for the freshman club.

Dave Lechhook, who gained 495 yards rushing as Newton South's fullback in 1971 before a knee injury shelved him, is also attempting to make the Redmen's frosh roster.

Jim Doolin, a Newton High football end and track competitor is a sophomore defensive back candidate at the University of Connecticut.

Bob Staleo, former Newton South one-season rushing record-holder for eight games with 799 yards is now a sophomore at Harvard and is a candidate for the end. LEWIS

Former Newton South High soccer player Peter Blustein has gone on to greater success in another sport.

Abortion Question On November Ballot

The Massachusetts Organization to Repeal Abortion Laws (MORAL) succeeded in procuring the signatures necessary to place the abortion issue on the November ballot in the 13th district.

The question, which will appear in the 13th district, reads: "Should the Commonwealth repeal its abortion laws, thereby making abortion a private matter between a woman and her physician? The voter may respond 'yes' or 'no,' depending upon personal conviction."

In conjunction with other organizations belonging to the Abortion Referendum Committee, MORAL selected for the past three years, it Newton as the area in which they wished the referendum to appear. Because of its heterogeneous nature, the 13th district of Newton provides a capsule of the diverse population of the state. A favorable vote in November could pave the way for a statewide referendum next year.

Other abortion repeal organizations have been working on referendums in parts of Cambridge, Roxbury, and Fall River. These referendums are all non-binding which means that the results would serve only as a guide to the state legislators and could not force them to vote for abortion law repeal. A more far-reaching purpose of the referendum drive is for the purposes of public education.

MORAL, chaired by Diane Graff Krane, seeks to repeal the Massachusetts abortion law and to make abortion a private matter between a woman and her doctor. The organization, which is comprised of both men and women, and of many doctors and lawyers, has lobbied against the state abortion laws for the past three years. It also sponsors legislation each year calling for repeal of the abortion law.

The rationale for repeal is multi-dimensional:

- MORAL does not believe that abortion is a legal matter, but, rather, a private, medical one.
- MORAL believes safe abortions are part of a woman's right to control her own body and to choose when and if she will bear children.

- MORAL believes abortion to be a termination of potential, not existing life. Therefore, abortion is not murder; abortion is abortion.
- MORAL believes in the right to religious freedom. Since many Protestants and Jews are permitted abortions within their religious tenets, there exists a denial of the right to practice one's religion in Massachusetts with regard to abortion when birth control fails.

Geraldine Zubrod directed the referendum in Newton's 13th district with the assistance of Gwendolyn Hibner. They obtained signatures mainly in Auburndale and Newton Centre, with many more women than men signing the petitions.

Editor's Note . . .

In preparing the primary edition, identical questionnaires were sent to all candidates for the offices of state representative, state senator, the United States House of Representatives, United States Senate that are involved in the primary race.

Using information supplied by each candidate, the questionnaires were developed into individual biographies.

Candidates were asked to state their names, addresses, age, marital status, number of children and party affiliation. They were asked five questions and requested to limit their answers to 50 words per question.

The questions were:

—Do you hold public office now? Have you ever run for public office before, and if so, what office(s)? If you are in office, what do you consider to be your outstanding accomplishments during the time you have served?

—What organizations do you belong to and what civic activities have you recently been involved in? (optional question).

—What do you consider to be the most crucial issue(s) facing your district today?

—What legislation, if any, will you propose if you are elected to serve?

contribute to any campaign they choose. The significant question is not whether county employees should give money to county campaigns, but, rather, how they can be protected if they do not want to contribute.

"There certainly should be increased involvement of cities and towns in determining the priorities of county spending," he stated in reply to the question of local approval of new bonding.

Morrison, 45, is a partner in the Morrison Co., real estate and business investments. He attended Belmont public schools, the Massachusetts Maritime Academy and Harvard.

He said he would favor a "qualified professional citizens group to study and to make recommendations regarding county accounting, control and data processing systems and procedures."

He said he did not think that "as county employees" men and women should contribute at fund raising events for county officials.

Morrison said he favored having city and town control in new bonding, stating: "Cities and towns of Middlesex County should have a proper veto power over county bonding for projects not directly approved or ordered by the Great and General Court."

Mattar, 33, a communications management consultant, attended St. Francis College and Mt. Vernon School of Law.

He recommended that three, part-time commissioners be replaced with a "single elected county executive and a county council empowered to pass on county fiscal and policy matters."

He said the council should be composed of city and town legislative body designees.

He said the elected county treasurer should be replaced with an appointed professional fiscal management officer, and added that the financial year should run from July 1 to June 30, the county should be given the same control over its expenditures as cities and towns, central purchasing should be established, and public hearings should be held throughout the state on the county budget.

On the question of contributions to county officials fund raisers Mattar replied:

"I support the strict campaign spending controls proposed by Common Cause. I support the recent federal court decision determining it a severe abridgement of the civil rights of public employees to preclude them from supporting candidates and participating in the democratic process."

The candidate answered, "yes," to the question of local approval for new county bonding.

Waban Man Is Retired Senior V.P. Of Firm

George M. Wile, senior vice-president of Arkwright-Boston Insurance retired August 31.

The company, a member of the Factory Mutual System, specializes in property conservation. An insurer of large industrial properties, it has regional and branch offices throughout the United States and Canada.

Mr. Wile studied civil engineering at Carnegie Mellon University where he was a member of Sigma Nu, Tau Beta Pi and Theta Tau fraternities.

Immediately after his 1929 graduation Mr. Wile joined the Factory Mutual System as an Engineering Division inspector; four years later he was appointed special hazards engineer.

In 1940 Mr. Wile transferred engineer.

department of several member companies. After his appointment as fieldman he became New York district manager Boston field manager and vice president. In his most recent appointment as senior vice-president, Mr. Wile was responsible for selected national accounts, foreign insurance and various staff activities.

His professional affiliations include the National Fire Protection Association and the Society of Fire Protectors Engineers.

A resident of Waban for twenty-eight years, Mr. Wile is past president of the Waban Improvement Society, the Waban Neighborhood Club, the Waban Mens' Club and the Navy League of Boston.

A national director of the U.S. Navy League and past president of the Massachusetts Navy League he is also a member of the Brae Burn Country Club, the United States Power Squadron, Great Chebeague Golf Club, Chebeague Island Yacht Club and the Chebeague Island Tennis Club.

editor of the "Action Minuteman", and is a graduate of Smith College and Boston University.

She recommended: "a centralized purchasing agency for all county functions."

"Without this," she said, "few efficiencies in this area can be expected. However, this question is more directly answered by the objective of putting the county on a business-like basis with a professional county manager. He should be hired and administered by a representative board of directors, appointed by the communities in the district."

"County lines should be redrawn to put communities with common problems together to solve present-day issues: land use, water purity, transportation and housing, for example."

Mrs. Jenkins, answering question two, said that "county employees should never be asked and officials should never knowingly accept money from a county employee."

She said that she thought there should be local approval of new county bonding.

"As above," she said, "I feel that local approval could be built into a system which incorporated a representative senate. This group could control county costs and future commitments more nearly in accord with the ability of its cities and towns to pay for services rendered from tax monies raised within the county."

The league said replies were not received from Accardi, Adams, Coppola and Manning.

Lois Pines has already done something about pollution, crime, school bus safety, civil rights, health and child care, and taxes.

Lois Pines will continue to serve in the unpaid position of Alderman-At-Large when elected to the State Legislature because the combination will work to the advantage of the City of Newton.

Lois co-authored the landmark "Private Right of Action" Law which gives anyone the right to sue anyone who pollutes. She fought to make Newton one of the first communities to prohibit open burning, and won. And she helped write the new Massachusetts Environmental Impact Law which requires disclosure of the environmental impact of new public works, projects or activities.

As an Alderman in Newton she's working for and is getting better street lighting, a known deterrent to crime. And long before it was politically fashionable, Lois worked hard on prison reform and prisoner rehabilitation.

When she saw the unsafe conditions on our school buses, she drafted a bill to make those school buses safer. Then she spoke for its passage before the legislature. In fact, Lois is the acknowledged leading spokesman for School Bus Safety in the Commonwealth. Children are important to Lois Pines, she has two of her own.

Lois put together a Code of Fair Practices for Newton because she wants to end discrimination where it now exists.

She saw inadequacies in Newton's health programs and called for a full re-evaluation of them.

For years, Lois has been fighting to get equal pay for working women, and a break on State taxes for working parents for child care expenses.

Taxes, in fact, are her thing. Lois is a practicing tax attorney. With her knowledge, she wrote a County tax reform bill which passed in the House, and unfortunately died in the Senate. Had the Senate acted favorably, Newton would have saved $767,000.00.

Lois was naturally discouraged, but next year that same bill will be introduced and fought for again. That's the kind of candidate Lois Pines is.

Congressional Candidates

Robert Drinan

Congressman Robert F. Drinan is completing his first term as a representative of Newton, and is seeking his second term in the new fourth Congressional District.

The 51-year-old representative cited three accomplishments he made in his district, including "regular communication with and accountability to all constituents, a casework (several thousand individual problems have been handled since January, 1971), and working with local officials to obtain federal funds."

In addition, the congressman cited the following efforts made to end the war in Vietnam, tax reform and protecting individual privacy.

"I have sponsored more than 200 measures to date in Congress," Drinan said. "Some have already passed, others await congressional action—including proposals to include prescription drug costs under Medicare and to lower the eligibility ages for service in Congress."

"Among the most important bills which I have sponsored—dealing with national health insurance and tax reform, for example—will be voted on in the 93rd Congress.

State Senate Candidates

IRVING FISHMAN
Irving Fishman

Irving Fishman is now completing his first term as a state senator representing the eighth Middlesex Senatorial District, which includes Newton and Watertown.

State Sen. Fishman was a state representative from Newton for eight years, representing Newton Centre, Chestnut Hill, Auburndale, Newton Lower Falls, Newton Upper Falls, Waban and Newton Corner during his four terms in the house.

"If I am re-elected to the State Senate," he said, "I shall work for reform of welfare and Medicaid administration as well as continued reform of our banking institutions for the greater protection of the consumer as I did during my first term as senate chairman of the Committee on Banks and Banking."

Fishman, 51, lives at 1457 Beacon st., in Newton. He is married and has two children. The most crucial issue facing the district today, the Democratic candidate said, is "high property taxes imposing a terrific burden on homeowners."

"As soon as the new legislature meets in January, 1973," Fishman said, "I should consider tax reform legislation, specifically the recommendations of the Master Tax Planning Commission to reduce dependency on the property tax from 55 per cent to 40 per cent, or even lower."

The candidate also said that he is working on legislation to require public trustees to serve on boards of Savings Banks in Massachusetts to protect the public interest and safeguard the surplus of those banks which is a community asset.

"As chairman of the special legislative committee to investigate the failure of the Surety Bank and Trust Co. in Wakefield," Fishman said, "I expect to file legislation that would prevent such bank failures in the future."

Fishman is a director of the Newton Mental Health Center, a member of the Disabled American Veterans Newton Post No. 23, former president of the World Affairs Council of Newton, former chairman of the Massachusetts Federation of Fair Housing Committees, and is now working with a group to open a community residence in Newton for retarded children.

MICHAEL ANTONELLIS
Michael Antonellis

"The oppressive tax crush is producing municipal stagnation and regression and this condition must be remedied," Michael J. Antonellis replied when asked what the most crucial issues facing his district were.

"All elements of our communities desperately need help in this regard, particularly the elderly and others on fixed and limited incomes," he added.

Antonellis, 44, is serving his second term as an alderman at large on the Newton Board of Aldermen.

"Since elected," he said, "I have endeavored to exercise fairness and balance in the legislative process, motivated by a concern for the interests of the people, and always with a view to building the confidence of the people in the integrity and quality of their representative government."

Alderman Antonellis said that if he were elected to serve in the state senate, "my primary goals will be the support of and introduction of measures to relieve oppressive real estate property taxes, to improve the economy by stimulating business and creating more jobs, the creation of more efficiency and the control of expenditures in government."

"Improvement of our economic condition is mandatory," he stated.

"What was once the 'Bay State' is now nationally recognized as the 'Tax State,'" the candidate said. "It is ridiculous to consider further legislative programs that will cost more money."

"Appropriations must be scrutinized and legislation enacted to cut costs, such as eliminating county government, a re-vamp of the public transportation system and relief of welfare costs, etc."

Ald. Antonellis, 49 married and has three children. He is a member of the Massachusetts and Federal Bar Associations; Boston University National Alumni Council, Sons of Italy Lodge 1069, American Legion Post No. 440, Knights of Columbus, Chamber of Commerce; Newton Community Chairman for the United Fund 1971-72; director, Newton Boys' Club; vice president; Newton Community Council; host, Garden City Charity Ball for Cerebral Palsy.

John J. Droney

Democratic Primary candidate John J. Droney of 678 Massachusetts Avenue, Cambridge, has held the post of Middlesex County district attorney since 1959.

When he ran for re-election in 1970, he was unopposed. Droney was also a Democratic candidate for governor in 1964.

Droney, 61, said that if he was elected, his primary goals would be to "revitalize the economy, curb inflation, lower unemployment and reform tax laws."

"The rising crime rate must be impeded," he said. "The situation requires federal legislation to stop the sale of hard drugs."

Droney listed among his accomplishments the creation of Project PREP, a local drug program. He was also a supporter of the one-third, two-thirds prison program, creator of the L. A. In Program, a promoter of the City of Everett Drug Program and a sponsor of various crime control bills.

John Pierce Lynch

Hampden County Register order to reduce the property tax.

Lynch, 48, is married and has two children. He lives in Springfield, Mass.

The candidate is completing his fourth term in his present post. He also served two terms in the Massachusetts House of Representatives during which time he co-sponsored legislation which established the Commission Against Discrimination in the Commonwealth.

He said he considers the war in Vietnam as the most crucial issue facing the country today and would make it his primary goal to "work to bring peace by stopping the war."

He also said he would work to provide jobs for the unemployed, reform the tax structure and eliminate the seniority system in Congress.

If elected, Lynch said he would like to propose legislation to have the federal government assume one-third of local education costs "in wash them."

Before repainting steel casement window frames, wash them.

A graduate of the Newton-Wellesley Hospital School of Nursing, Mrs. Allen lives at 41 Cochituate Road in Newton Highlands, and is the mother of two sons.

Mrs. Barbara Allen, of Newton Highlands, received recognition in the September issue of the Newton-Wellesley Hospital's "Newell Post" for her fifteen years of continuous service at the Hospital. Mrs. Allen joined the Hospital Staff as a head nurse in 1957 and has served as Central Supply Supervisor since February 1971.

Until it is accomplished, the goal of ending the war in Vietnam must remain the foremost consideration of the United States Senate; thereafter, the economic recovery of the nation must be the number one priority," said Gerald F. O'Leary, a candidate in the Democratic primary for the United States Senate.

O'Leary, 39, is currently a Boston City Councilor. In addition, he has served as a state representative in the Massachusetts House of Representatives. The candidate considers "my work on economic development, drug control and government reform as his most rewarding accomplishments."

The Vietnam War is, again, one of the crucial issues facing the district, he said.

"It is impossible to regionalize the impact, so this would have to be the primary issue," he said. "After that, economic recovery — jobs and tax reform — concern the voters of Massachusetts."

O'Leary said he would support the legislation already proposed to end the war and revitalize the economy if he was elected.

"On these issues, the ideas are on paper; only courage is needed," he said.

"The primary innovation I will propose on my own behalf will be a constitutional amendment making adequate health care a right of American citizenship, not a privilege of wealth."

Mr. O'Leary is married and has five daughters. He lives at 1110 Morton St., Dorchester.

"I will continue to work with colleagues in Congress for such measures."

Commenting on the "most crucial issues" facing the district today, Drinan said:

"Unemployment persists at an intolerable level in Massachusetts. I will continue to do everything possible to preserve jobs in our area, and, through federal funding and other means, create new ones."

Other key problems are housing, inadequate railroad and mass transit services, excessive utilities costs and — critically important — sky-high property taxes."

A primary goal, if he is re-elected, is "legislating an end to the Vietnam War in the 93rd Congress," Drinan said.

Others are decreasing unemployment, tax reform, reform of congressional procedures, enactment of a national health insurance bill, enactment of civil liberties legislation, consumer protection, and involving as many constituents as possible in government decision-making.

Father Drinan of 140 Commonwealth Avenue in Newton is a member of the House of Representatives Judiciary and Internal Security committees, chairman of the World Order Strategy Committee of the 134 Members of Congress for Peace Through Law; chairman, Massachusetts Delegation to the 1972 Democratic Convention; member, Democratic Study Group; national board member of the American Civil Liberties Union and Americans For Democratic Action; and a member of Common Cause.

Commenting on the "most crucial issues" facing the district today, Drinan said:

"Unemployment persists at an intolerable level in Massachusetts. I will continue to do everything possible to preserve jobs in our area, and, through federal funding and other means, create new ones."

Other key problems are housing, inadequate railroad and mass transit services, excessive utilities costs and — critically important — sky-high property taxes."

A primary goal, if he is re-elected, is "legislating an end to the Vietnam War in the 93rd Congress," Drinan said.

Others are decreasing unemployment, tax reform, reform of congressional procedures, enactment of a national health insurance bill, enactment of civil liberties legislation, consumer protection, and involving as many constituents as possible in government decision-making.

Father Drinan of 140 Commonwealth Avenue in Newton is a member of the House of Representatives Judiciary and Internal Security committees, chairman of the World Order Strategy Committee of the 134 Members of Congress for Peace Through Law; chairman, Massachusetts Delegation to the 1972 Democratic Convention; member, Democratic Study Group; national board member of the American Civil Liberties Union and Americans For Democratic Action; and a member of Common Cause.

Mississippi produces about 100,000 barrels of oil daily from its major fields located in 29 counties.

Drinan said he would support the legislation already proposed to end the war and revitalize the economy if he was elected.

"On these issues, the ideas are on paper; only courage is needed," he said.

"The primary innovation I will propose on my own behalf will be a constitutional amendment making adequate health care a right of American citizenship, not a privilege of wealth."

Mr. O'Leary is married and has five daughters. He lives at 1110 Morton St., Dorchester.

PAUL GUZZI

State Representative 12th Middlesex District

Peter F. Harrington

Board of Aldermen Vice President Peter F. Harrington has been an active member of the city government during his years as an alderman.

Harrington, an attorney, was also a member of the Newton Charter Commission, responsible for writing the city's new charter.

Among his accomplishments in office, the candidate mentioned, working to improve government structure and protect citizen's rights, and proposing cuts in the city's budget that resulted in over a $1 savings on the tax rate. Harrington has also fought for the improvement of recreation facilities and improvements in other municipal services.

In addition to being the vice president of the Board of Aldermen, Harrington is a member of the Aldermanic Land Use Committee, Public Works Committee, Street Traffic, Recodification and Efficiency committees.

The candidate said he would like to work towards making state government "more efficient" if elected, by "eliminating patronage, improving our court system, providing meaningful consumer protection and taking direct action to limit the real estate tax by increasing returns to Newton through graduated income tax funds."

Harrington also said that the increasing real estate tax, reduced municipal services and requirements that "we implement state programs without state money," are the crucial issues facing the district.

Atty. Harrington said he would propose legislation to license automobile mechanics, limit real estate taxes that may be assessed to the elderly, provide for a Family Court.

"I will co-sponsor legislation to improve and expand mass transportation and to reform county government," he added.

Barbara M. Schiller

Republican Barbara M. Schiller, 40, of 122 Fessenden St., Newtonville, is making her second try for public office. In 1971, she ran for a seat on the School Committee and was defeated.

"We must walk a dangerous line between the short-range demands of interest groups and the long-range needs of society as a whole," she stated. "Government has been largely unresponsive to the long-range needs of consumers, taxpayers, and parents, who have remained relatively voiceless."

Continuing the discussion of her primary goals, Mrs. Schiller added: "It is time to speak up — for tax reform, for budget overhaul, for county reorganization, for an aggressive campaign to bring jobs into Massachusetts."

Mrs. Schiller described the "most crucial issue" facing her district in one word — taxes. "We must reduce the archaic property tax and eliminate the inequitable flat-rate income tax," she said.

"Our old people are being driven out of Newton. We need low-cost housing for them, a property tax rebate, and better public transportation services. She added: "Drugs, the environment and vocational education also rank high on my list."

On legislation she would propose if elected, Mrs. Schiller listed:

- state graduated income tax to replace the flat-rate tax and reduce the property tax.
- state administration of the property tax and state support of local schools.
- county reform: establishment of sensible regional districts to handle mass transit, solid waste disposal, land-use planning and water pollution control.
- periodic review of teacher tenure, perhaps every three years.
- state aided programs of drug education and vocational training.

Mrs. Schiller is married and has five children. She is a member of the Newton City Ambulance Task Force, Concerned Parents for School Bus Safety, Newton Taxpayers Association, the Council for Basic Education.

She was a delegate this year to the Republican State Convention and is co-chairman of the Ward 2 Republicans and chairman of the Women's Republican Club Finance Committee.

Mrs. Schiller is also active in Red Feather, Cerebral Palsy and Cystic Fibrosis drives and worked with David Kantor in research on mental illness.

Paul H. Guzzi

Democrat Paul H. Guzzi is completing his first term as a state representative.

While serving, he initiated "open communications with my constituents by holding weekly 'office hours,'" he said, "and by issuing an Annual Newsletter."

He has enacted "important" legislation in the areas of election laws and county reform, and he plans to continue working in these areas if he is re-elected.

Guzzi, 30, lives at 23 Otis Pl. in Newton. He is married and has one child.

In addition to working on county and election law reforms, the candidate said that he would also work on implementing suggestions regarding lowering the property tax, achieving tax reform and stimulating economic growth, providing an equitable method for funding education, completing reorganization of the executive and legislative branches and maintaining communication with the people he represents.

On the subject of "crucial issues" facing his district, Guzzi said, "the cost of living in Newton is rapidly approaching the breaking point."

He added that "confidence in our institutions and leaders is lacking, drug addition and drug related crimes are increasing, balanced transportation is non-existent, pollution of all kinds continues to exist, and senior citizens continue living off small, fixed incomes."

Addressing himself to legislation he might propose, the candidate mentioned:

- legislation dealing with financing, disclosure and enforcement of election laws.
- county legislation, especially to lower Newton assessments and eliminate patronage.
- state assumption, in part, of MBTA costs.

—revision of the school aid formula.

—programs to rehabilitate prisoners.

—increased aid to communities for recreation, drug self-help and other municipal services.

Guzzi serves as the legislative chairman of Newton Citizens for Education and Citizens for Middlesex County Reform. He is also a director of the Boys' Club, Little League, the Newton Community Service Center.

He is a member of the Newton Coalition for New Politics and voluntarily taught a seminar on government at Newton High School.

William A. Seeglit

Seeking passage of provisions for a graduated income tax would be among the primary concerns of Dr. William A. Seeglit if he were elected to serve as a state representative.

Seeglit, 51, also said he would like to work towards improving public transportation "in this area at least," help alleviate the drug problem with youth education, and "make myself available to the people for any and all problems they may have."

TERRENCE MORRIS

Terrence P. Morris

Terrence P. Morris, seeking one of two Democratic nominations for state representative, was also a candidate for the post in 1970.

His primary goal as a legislator would be to "utilize legislative power to solve neighborhood problems that have metropolitan or statewide implications." As an example, the candidate cited local traffic congestion created because of mass transit problems.

Morris went on to say that mass transit is the "most crucial issue" facing his area of the city because the district is divided by the Massachusetts Turnpike, and its two exits create a great deal of cross town traffic congestion.

"A high incidence of mixed land use" was also mentioned by the candidate as an issue in the district. Legislation is needed, he said, to prevent "the spread of blight."

He said the area also has high percentage of elderly residents in need of tax relief. Morris said he is in favor of the following pieces of legislation:

- To have the state assume certain county functions and redraw county lines into regions.

- To allow municipalities to voluntarily cooperate for certain services, such as police and fire protection and purchasing.
- To provide "park and ride" facilities along Route 128 and to convert the use of the Boston and Albany railway lines to a mass transit system.
- Lower the age of senior citizens who qualify for abatements.
- Provide tax rebates for home improvement.
- Provide a state income tax deduction for child care for working mothers.
- Restore the community college system toward vocational training.
- Have the state assume 50 per cent of the cost of funding the MBTA.
- Create a court of domestic relations.
- Expand medical insurance to cover the cost of mental health care.

Morris, 26, of 115 Mt. Vernon St., is married and has two children. He is a member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Nonantum Community Association, Newton Corner Citizen's Participation Committee, Newton Coalition and Citizens for Education.

RE-ELECT GUZZI

DEMOCRAT — NEWTON WARDS 1-2-3-7

Florence Rubin

Florence R. Rubin was elected to the Newton Charter Commission, charged with writing a new city charter, and spent two years as its chairman.

Mrs. Rubin, 47, a Democrat, lives at 1504 Centre st., Newton Centre. She is married and has three children.

Serving as an "effective legislator," she said, would be her primary goal if elected.

"I will initiate and support legislation to improve state services, promote better management of state funds and make legislative business more visible to the public."

"Property tax relief is a priority issue," the candidate stated. "Massachusetts needs a more equitable tax structure, a fiscal management system that will help us use the tax dollar more effectively, and increased aid to the cities and towns for education and other municipal services."

The need for expanded and more efficient public transportation with Newton and the metropolitan area is another primary concern of Mrs. Rubin.

Having participated actively in a number of reforms and legislative groups, Mrs. Rubin suggested several pieces of legislation for the commonwealth.

They are:

1. Tax Reform: Improved assessment procedures, state aid distribution formulas, better budgeting procedures.

2. Judicial Reform: judicial selection commission and a judicial qualification commission.

3. Apportionment: improved procedures to insure on-time, fairer districting of the state legislature.

4. Money appropriations to begin a community schools program.

5. Revise structure and change the functions of county government.

6. Home Rules: improve charter procedures.

Mrs. Rubin serves on the Newton Community Relations Commission and as program chairman, recently organized a Housing Conference and tour for local officials and community leaders so that they would have a chance to view some completed housing projects in the area. She is also the chairman for the development of a city-wide community school program.

In addition, Mrs. Rubin is a past president and now vice president of the League of Women Voters, senior vice president of the Massachusetts Council for Public Justice, and director of the Coalition for Tax Reform, working for fairer income tax with graduated rates.

Theodore N. Gross

Making his first try for public office, Theodore Noel Gross, 24, of 181 Parker st., said that he would make it his primary goal to represent the district and "its needs."

"I would also be a fulltime representative," he added.

The Democratic candidate said he considered property taxes and income taxes as prime concerns in the district; and added that public transportation and pollution of the environment are also primary concerns.

On legislation he would propose if elected, Gross responded:

"If I do propose any legislation, it would be done as I saw a need to initiate it."

"I would not propose any legislation just to get credit for it if someone else has proposed something similar to what I thought."

Vahe Sarafian

A professor of history at Suffolk University, Vahe Sarafian of 130 Dickerman rd., Newton, is making his second bid for public office.

In 1970, Sarfian, 49, was a Republican candidate for the congressional nomination.

If elected, the candidate said his primary goal in office would be to "check spending to try and reduce the tax load by investigating state and local taxes to simplify the system and equalize the burden."

Sarafian said the question of mass transportation is the most crucial issue facing the district and listed crime as the second crucial issue.

He said it is time to "get away from the concept of highway development and get back to the concept of mass transportation."

"I think it could be accomplished economically," he said.

Sarafian said crime was the other crucial issue because the south side of Newton is "very heavily hit by burglaries and there is increased drug use among young people."

He said what is needed is "strong law enforcement and an attitude on the part of the state government that encourages a healthier type of law enforcement."

The candidate mentioned three pieces of legislation he would propose. They are:

— Experimentation with a free ridership period for the MBTA subsidized by the state road tax.

— A reduction in the real estate assessments for the elderly.

— An exemption in real estate assessments based on the depreciation of buildings to compensate for increased upkeep and help prevent slums from developing.

Sarafian is the president of Newton Citizens for Good Government.

Lois G. Pines

Alderman Lois G. Pines, elected an alderman-at-large in 1971, was also a candidate for state representative in 1970.

An attorney, Mrs. Pines, 32, is married and has two children. She lives at 40 Helene rd. in Waban.

Asked what she considered her outstanding accomplishments while in office, Mrs. Pines cited her work on curbing air pollution.

"For many years, I have been working to solve the air pollution problems of the Newton incinerator," she said. "During my term as an alderman, I have been the chairman of the Solid Waste Committee and have led the successful fight to begin to fix the incinerator so it will meet state and federal pollution standards."

"I have been responsible for the elimination of standees on our school buses in Newton, the securing of safer school buses, and have been as responsible for the establishment of a new program to relight the streets of Newton with higher lumen output so Newton will be safer."

As a private citizen, the candidate mentioned, "I co-sponsored legislation in the State Legislature which led to the passage of the landmark 'private right of action law' which gives private citizens the right to sue polluters of the environment."

"My goal is to help bring about social change, to improve the quality of life in Massachusetts and to make our government more responsive to the needs of its citizens," Ald. Pines said.

"I hope to be the spokesman for the consumer, the child who is discarded, the unrepresented in court; the poorly educated, whose rights and concerns are neglected by society."

"As an attorney, I hope to use my training and experience to help reform the judicial system in Massachusetts and provide more citizen participation in government."

On the crucial issues facing the district today, the candidate commented: "Newton property owners cannot continue to absorb the increased prohibitive property taxes forced upon them."

"Over 12 per cent of our residents are over 65 and many cannot continue to live in Newton. Young people cannot afford to move into Newton."

"This problem must be solved in the State Legislature. The state must help assume the cost of the cities. I will work to encourage the state to assume school and county costs."

On the subject of legislation she would propose, Mrs. Pines said she would like to introduce bills to: abolish county government, make more equitable the allocation of county taxes among the cities and towns (as long as county government is retained), initiate tax reforms in the state to provide a more equitable and sensible taxing system, make public utilities competitive with private firms and help lower electric rates, school bus safety legislation, provide a tax deduction for working parents for child care, effect penal reform, reform of the judicial system, abortion reform, professional police training academy and to improve mass transportation.

Ruth M. Fitzgerald

Making her first try for public office, Ruth M. Fitzgerald cited a number of goals she would address herself to if elected.

Mrs. Fitzgerald, 51, of 34 Harrison st., said she would "be responsive and responsible to my constituents," and would concentrate her efforts on tax reform, the delivery and reorganization of good mental health services, welfare reforms, judicial and prison reforms, and on providing equal educational opportunity for all citizens.

Mrs. Fitzgerald, a Democrat, described the most crucial issues facing the district today housing and health services — including half-way houses, and proper administration of tax relief.

"Our government at all levels, federal, state and municipal, has become BIG," she said. "Bigness is a natural corollary of the tremendous population we have experienced during the post-World War II years."

"Bigness of itself is not necessarily evil; but, unfortunately, along with 'bigness, another term has inserted itself insidiously, namely INDIFFERENCE."

"During my campaign," Mrs. Fitzgerald continued, "I have talked with hundreds of people who objected not to big government, but rather to indifferent government."

"They expressed themselves clearly as to their alienation, their powerlessness and their inability to resist the oppression they believe indifferent government has placed upon them."

"Should I be elected representative for the 13th district," she said, "my first order of business will be to give my constituents a feeling that their elected member of the Great and General Court is a human being, dedicated to giving each and every one of them a voice in the legislative procedures which, at the moment seem so remote from them."

"My individual problems and theirs are one and the same and we shall work on them together."

Asked what legislation she would propose if she were elected, Mrs. Fitzgerald responded that she would propose welfare reforms, including criteria and follow-up and job acceptance provisions; day care centers for working mothers with special attentions given to the administrative aspects; closing of schools for juvenile offenders including education and vocational training; prison reforms that are rehabilitative and constructive and contain provisions for more humane treatment of criminals including release work; riders on educational grants to minorities regarding a return to home areas to teach or help set up new curriculum in local schools — especially master's and ph.d.'s in education.

Mrs. Fitzgerald is married and has eight children. She is a member of the Emblem Club of the Elks, the American Nurses Association, Disabled American Veterans, Hyre School PTA, Weeks Jr. High PTA, Screen Actors Guild and does youth counseling.

Lawrence Applefield

"The new, vibrant politics of the 1970's demands, honesty, integrity and above all, sincerity," said Lawrence Applefield, running for his first public office.

"No longer can politicians make empty promises," he added. "The voters are demanding more of their representatives, and my primary goals will center around being prepared to meet the challenges and face the vital issues which concern us all today."

Applefield, 42, of 112 Moffat rd., Waban, said his primary goals in office would be to advocate tax reform by stabilizing the heavy burden being placed on the homeowner, support a meaningful graduated income tax plan, control spending by establishing priorities, and include the assumption of the MBTA assessments by the state.

Another reform he would advocate, he said, is of the "costly, outmoded and inequitable service to those on welfare," which he said, "should begin by establishing a quality control system with fair and realistic guidelines."

"Focus attention on the problems of the elderly," the candidate declared, adding that he would seek legislation that will "alleviate the problems of ill health, isolation and inadequate housing for senior citizens."

He also called for an "energetic and positive" pilot program favoring the regional approach to solving solid waste disposal problems.

Problems of solid waste disposal, soaring taxes, inadequate housing, recreation for young people and the plight of the elderly are the "most crucial issues" facing the district, Applefield noted.

On proposing legislation, he said he would also like to see the establishment of more community based correctional facilities, realistic tax relief and reform measures, support for revenue sharing so that Massachusetts would be in a position to participate in the program.

The candidate, a Republican, is married and the father of four children. He is a member and past-president of the Waban Improvement Society, member of the Newton Community Relations Commission Advisory Board and Newton Consumer Affairs Commission; a director of the Newton Athletic Association; director, Mass. Association of Older Americans; coach in Pop Warner Football; and Brotherhood Director at Temple Shalom.

David J. Mofenson

State Representative David J. Mofenson, 29, of 780 Chestnut st., Newton, is a Democratic candidate of re-election in the 13th Middlesex District.

Mofenson, sponsor of legislation to protect the environment, guarantee rights of migrant workers and safeguard personal privacy among others that were enacted into law, said he intends to "continue to provide responsive, effective, experienced leadership for all the citizens of Newton" if he is re-elected.

He said he sees taxation as the most crucial issue facing the district today — particularly finding a way to provide relief to the "hard-pressed property taxpayer." In addition, the candidate said he would like to see the staggering MBTA deficit reduced through the use of some highway funds and would like to see "increased efficiency in making public transportation a reality for all our citizens."

Judicial reform, environmental protection, manpower retraining, consumer protection and protection for senior citizens, are the other crucial issues, Mofenson said.

On the subject of legislation, he explained that he is filing a bill to protect the rights of juveniles, "including abolition of stubborn child laws, juvenile code revision and the protection of abused children."

He said he would propose aids to the elderly and improvements of the judicial system and legislation to restrict the cancellation of homeowner's insurance policies and to license auto repair stations.

Mofenson, who is single, is the chairman of the Democratic City Committee and a member of the Newton Junior Chamber of Commerce. He also is a recipient of the Newton Jaycee's Distinguished Service Award.

Paul E. Kennedy

People care about Fred Connors... because Fred Connors cares about people

"People are the best advisors anyone in government can have. No elite sophisticated group has cornered the market on good ideas. That is why I've advocated a Citizen's Advisory Board, made up of citizens, to meet with and make suggestions to the commissioners directly and regularly about the needs of their areas." —August 14th, 1972

This is the kind of thinking Middlesex County needs

The Lawn Doctor doesn't treat all patients alike

Every lawn is different. The Lawn Doctor diagnoses and treats each one individually.

KEN KIMBALL

If all lawns were the same, our job would be so much easier. We'd operate just like all the other lawn services in town . . . and spread the same stuff on your lawn that's put down on all the others. But all lawns are different. And that's why Auto-Lawn operates differently. We examine your lawn for any one of scores of different maladies that can affect it. And we custom prescribe an exact formulation of nutrients, chemicals and seed to remedy its ills and bring out its beauty. Your lawn gets a different treatment than your neighbor's. But you both get the best treatment possible . . . from Auto-Lawn.

Conservative Newton Temples To Open Education Programs

An outstanding roster of lecturers and teachers will highlight the twelfth annual Combined Adult Education Program of the Conservative Temples of the Newton-Chestnut Hill area. Commencing on Tuesday evening, October 3 at 8 p.m., the program will run for eight consecutive weeks.
This year the host Temple will be Temple Reyim, 1860 Washington St., Newton. Other participating temples will be Temple Emanuel, Temple Emeth and Temple Mishkan Tefila.
Dr. David Neiman, Associate Professor of Theology at Boston College, and Shulamith, concert guitarist, will commence the lecture series with a lecture-concert, "Songs of Exile and Songs of Return." It will reflect the history of the Jewish people through music.
On October 10 "Biblical Law in Contrast to Ancient Near Eastern Law" will be discussed by Dr. Nahum M. Mordecai Kaplan: Their Interpretations of Judaism. He will examine the fundamental concepts and contemporary issues that are reflected in the writing of these two outstanding thinkers.

A course on "The Books of Samuel: A Modern Analysis of Their Major Problems" will be taught by Mrs. Ariella Goldberg, Instructor in Hebrew Language and Composition at Brandeis University. She will discuss the historical and political background of the events leading to the establishment of the Israelite kingdom, in light of the biblical text and other contemporary documents.
"Selected Themes in Talmudic Law: Family and Society", a course on the Talmudic learning method and legal philosophy, as applied to family relations, rights of minors and women, property and inheritance, business law, employees relations and criminal justice, will be taught by Rabbi Joseph B. Stern, Instructor in Talmudic Law at Hebrew College in Boston.
A final course alternative will be Dramatic Works of Sholom Aleichem and I.L. Peretz on the Jewish and World Stages". Dr. Zeev Raviv, Associate Professor of Theatre Arts, Modern Languages and Literatures, Clark University, will give an in-depth analysis of certain plays of these two writers in conjunction with slides of past performances.
A fee of six dollars will register the participant for the entire series of classes and lectures. High school and college students are urged to attend and are admitted free. Golden Agers may register for three dollars.
This series is open to the public. A full-information brochure has been prepared and further information may be obtained by calling the offices of the participating temples.
Quarterly Has Service Listings
The September issue of the Newton-Wellesley Hospital Quarterly includes a "Community Resources Guide" listing complete information on all services offered by public and non-profit private agencies in the Newton-Wellesley-Weston area.
The guide is designed so that it can be removed and saved by all residents receiving a copy of the quarterly. It covers the following services: alcoholism, adolescent and drug, community programs, financial aid, health, home help, mental health and counseling for children, adolescents and adults; retardation services, senior citizens, special schools and classes.
Funding for the special guide was provided by the Newton Savings Bank and additional copies are available at each of the savings Bank branches, the public libraries and City Hall.
The guides are expected to be delivered to residents this week.

Registration For Junior College Adult Education Sept. 20 and 21

Newton Junior College will hold registration for its Adult Education Program from 6:30 to 9 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday, September 20 and 21, at Administration Hall, Washington Park, Newtonville.

This program is open to all adult residents of Newton and neighboring communities. It includes academic, cultural, and general education courses without credits or prerequisites.

The courses are designed for adult citizens who wish to continue their formal education in evening classes at the College. The program is sufficiently broad in scope to provide ample opportunity for adults to promote self-development, to meet specific educational needs, and fulfill a particular cultural or civic goal.

The courses will meet one night a week, 7:15 to 9:15, unless otherwise indicated, from September 25 through December 19, 1972, and from January 22 through April 26, 1973. The courses offered are:

Counseling Services for Adults
An opportunity for Newton adults to meet individually with a professional Counselor of the College Faculty to discuss educational or vocational concerns. Persons seeking aid on such matters as future schooling, career possibilities, and personal decision-making as related to vocational or educational choices are invited to schedule an appointment by calling the College at 969-9570.

Language Laboratory
The Learning Laboratory at the College will be used in all beginning language courses to give students the opportunity for individual and group practice on basic oral expression and listening comprehension. Recordings of student responses to audio tape statements under the supervision of the laboratory instructor will help the student develop his skill in conversation and understanding. Meets Monday nights.

French Beginning
An opportunity to begin the fundamentals of French and to use them in extensive oral practice. Conversations, narrations, and brief discussion among class members are designed to increase the students' vocabulary and acquaint them with idiomatic expressions. Topics are based on common occurrences. Dictation, grammar, vocabulary, and comprehension work aid students to parlor Français. Meets Monday nights.

French Intermediate
Designed to help students acquire the habit-forming processes of spoken language, construction, patterns, and speech sounds. This course makes possible greater facility in self-expression. A thorough and systematic review of the fundamental principles of grammar with intensive practice is included. Course meets Monday nights.

Italian Beginning
A course for those who have no previous formal knowledge of the language. Those who have had some familiarity with spoken, but not written Italian, should find this course especially helpful. Emphasis on conversation provides a background of vocabulary and grammar as the students learn to understand and speak the language. Meets Mondays.

Italian Intermediate
A course for those who have had beginning Italian or its equivalent. The student is encouraged to think in Italian in order to acquire ease in expressing himself orally and in writing. This class may expect to quickly review the grammar covered in Beginning Italian, and complete the study of the basic principles of Italian grammar. As soon as the student learns an adequate, simple vocabulary, discussions, especially on Italy today, are conducted in Italian. Course meets Thursdays.

Spanish Beginning
The course is especially adapted for the adult student. By means of objective, conceptive and audio-phonetic methods, the students will be guided in the use of basic elements of the Spanish language as a means of communication. Course meets Monday and Tuesday.

Spanish Intermediate
A course in spoken Spanish, stressing the most frequent structures and idiomatic expressions in the language. Class room discussions will focus on assigned reading materials that deal with family life, travel, customs, traditions, and attitudes of the Spanish people. The progressive development of the listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills will be emphasized. Course meets Wednesdays.

Operadventures
A series of slide illustrated programs, each devoted to a different opera, will both introduce and entertain. The series will clarify the stories, introduce the great singers past and present, who have interpreted the roles, and place each work in the career of its composer and in musical history. Interesting anecdotes and emphasis on the enjoyable aspects of opera will make the course suitable for the most inexperienced beginner; rare recordings of unusual interest will attract even veteran opera goers. The course includes both repertory and revival operas and will emphasize those operas to be performed by the Metropolitan and Boston Operas. Course meets Thursdays.

Modern Literature
A reading and appraisal of modern novelists, dramatists, essayists, and poets whose creative intuitions have illumined the human condition. Joyce, Hemingway, Faulkner, O'Neill, Russell, Yeats, Frost, and Eliot are among the major writers who are resources in search of an answer to the central question: What can modern authors reveal to us of ourselves and of the critical plight of humanity. Course meets Monday nights.

Speed Reading
The principal focus of this course will be on advancing the skills of comprehension and speed in reading. An analysis of the organizational patterns of writing will provide the basis for increased reading comprehension. Speed, as a function of comprehension, will be emphasized, and provisions will be made for practicing it. Such critical reading skills as drawing inferences, determining fact or opinion and analyzing propaganda will also be highlighted. Course meets Wednesdays.

Educational Program For Adult Women

A series of eight morning sessions for adult women of the community who have not attended school for several years and wish to begin or resume college study leading to an associate or bachelor's degree. This program will include improvement of study skills: listening, reading, note-taking, and reviewing; aptitude tests with interpretations; educational and vocational counseling in groups and individually. Each member of the group will be helped in finding an understanding of her own ability, interests, and goals. The program will be conducted by a professional Counselor of the College Faculty. Meets Wednesday mornings, 9:30 to 11:20.

Images of the Heroine

An exploration through the reading and discussion of selected fiction of some of the patterns of women's lives. What do portrayals of women in fiction reveal about the myths and ideals of femaleness and femininity? How have these myths influenced their life journeys? This course seeks to raise questions and to test the "truth" of fiction with the personal experience of the participants. Novels and some supplementary non-fiction will be selected from among the works of Doris Lessing, Elizabeth Janeway, May Sarton, D. H. Lawrence, Joyce Carol Oates, Sinclair Lewis, Virginia Woolf, Germain Greer, Muriel Spark, and others. As historical background read (or reread) Ibsen's play, "The Doll's House," for the first meeting. This course meets Tuesday mornings, 9:30 to 11:20. (No previous study of literature is assumed for this course.)

For further information, please call the College at 969-9570.

Applications To Freeport Underway For School Year

Glenn R. Johnson, Director of Freeport, announced this week that Freeport, Newton's residential program for youth and families in difficulty, is now inviting applications for this school year. The residential program is presently open to high school aged boys whose family relationships might be improved by a temporary separation from their families. Inquiries to Freeport may be made by the youth, his parents, social workers, therapists, guidance counselors, court officials, or friends of the youth and his family.

"Freeport is intended to prevent difficult family situations from forcing a youth out of his home and onto the streets," said Johnson, "and we hope that Newton young people and their families won't wait for a crisis to develop before seeking the assistance that Freeport offers. "When young people feel that their own lives or their family relationships are deteriorating, they should look into the work we do with kids and families."

Johnson stressed that nobody is "sent" to Freeport against his wishes, and that both a boy and his parents must agree that a separation might help them to come to terms with one another. Both a youth and his parents meet with the Freeport staff and visit the house before a decision is made. Once admitted, a resident shares in the running of the house and works with the staff and his parents to resolve the crisis which brought him to Freeport.

This year the Freeport adult staff will be considerably enlarged to provide more coverage, greater overall stability, and more intense contact between Freeport residents and adults.

Living in the house, in addition to Johnson and his

Local Churches Take Stand On Israeli Event

The Advisory Board of the NCA urges all members of the clergy in Newton to read this statement at their services over this week - end.

"The Advisory Board of the Newton Clergy Association, with one voice, abhors the recent murderous terrorism inflicted on the eleven Israeli Athletes at the Olympic Games. We extend our sympathy and condolences to the families of the victims and to the nation which they were representing. This horrible incident points up the futility and senselessness of violence directed against fellow human beings as a means of settling disputes.

"We call upon all nations to desist from training, supporting, and providing sanctuary for terrorist groups. We commend our own Government for the strong stand which it has taken in this instance, and we urge the administration to continue to use its peaceful influence throughout the world to eliminate acts of terrorism. We urge all men and women faith and good will in this city to observe Sunday as a day of mourning, and a day of prayer for true peace and a speedy end to violence and killing everywhere.

Transcript Papers' New Print Method Modern and Clean

This newspaper and the other seven newspapers published by Transcript Newspapers, Inc. this week undergo a change to the most modern method of newspaper printing.

The changeover takes place in the actual process of printing the news and advertising copy that results in the finished product, your newspaper.

The heavy, noisy linotype machines that set letters and figures for years at the printing plant will be replaced by clean, compact computers that will speedily assemble images of type and in the highly technical process, result in a better product for our readers and advertisers.

The most simple way of describing the modernization program is to say the switch is from "hot" to "cold" type.

Gone are the high temperature methods of reducing a slab of lead to the letters and type that are ultimately rolled on the press that reels off newspaper pages.

In its place on the production line are four computerized typesetter machines where operators type characters onto a stream of tape.

This tape, less than one inch wide, is fed into a photo-typesetter machine with a built-in computer that selects the correct type face and assembles the news copy or advertising at the rate of 50 newspaper lines per minute.

The copy is imprinted on photographic paper then developed checked and laid out in page form. The completed page is a light sheet of paper that is photographed into a negative and the image is fixed on a light, plastic printing plate by arc lights. The plate, which weighs ounces compared with the 25 pound plates of the old process is then mounted on the press for the final printing.

The heart of the new system is a plate system centering around a thin water soluble plastic on an aluminum sheet. Processing consists of exposure and wash-out in a special unit.

In the exposure by ultraviolet light processing time is about five minutes for the initial plate and about 40 seconds for subsequent plates.

Our aim with the new system is a better product for our readers.

The new method of production also has the advantage of cleaner conditions, faster copy flow—from 25 to 125 lines per minutes for each typesetter machine—and utilization of the most up to date electronic equipment.

The changeover will have bugs as the complexities of the new processes are ironed out. But in the long run we hope the finished product of this newspaper will be even more welcome in your home.

To Serve at Eliot Church

4 Ministers To Be On Part-Time Here

The Eliot Church of Newton has called four ministers to serve on a part-time basis for an interim period ending June 30, 1973.

Named at a congregational meeting Sunday, September 10, were the Reverends Charles H. Harper, John Kruse, Bruce Roberts, and Robert Starbuck.

They succeed the Rev. Harold R. Fray, Jr. who resigned in May to accept a call to serve the Fauntleroy Community Church in Seattle, Washington.

Mr. Harper who will serve as co-ordinator of the staff with responsibilities in the areas of administration and stewardship received his AB degree in 1957 from Bethany (Okla.) Nazarene College, and his BD degree in 1960 from the Nazarene Theological Seminary.

In 1961, he received the STM degree from Yale University Divinity School. He served Eliot Church as assistant minister from 1961-63, being ordained at Eliot Church in 1962. The Club will be open daily Monday thru Friday from 2:30 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. and from 6:30 to 9:00 p.m. On Saturdays the hours range from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

Applications Submitted For Federal Funds

Final applications have been submitted to the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) on behalf of the city, Federal Funds Administrator Brian Baldwin said this week.

Newton is seeking the federal grant for the implementation of a solid waste disposal region.

Baldwin said he spoke to EPA officials and got them to allow Newton to submit its application in spite of the fact the city, working with Waltham, has not yet prepared the district plan, which has to be approved by the Newton Board of Aldermen and the Waltham City Council.

He said he explained the mechanics of having dual city government approval and indicated it could not be accomplished prior to the EPA final deadline of Sept. 29.

Baldwin said the city may still get the federal grant that the EPA would more than likely impose a condition that the district had to be formed before any funds would be allocated.

Three representatives of Newton are to meet with three Waltham representatives to formulate the district.

Baldwin said he expected to hear from the EPA regarding Newton's request within a day or so after the Sept. 29 deadline.

"Man of Year" Honor Given Local Doctor

The Greater Boston Association for Retarded Children today announced the selection of Dr. Harold Turner of Newton Centre as the 1972 recipient of the "Man of the Year" award.

In announcing the award nominee, Morris Gordon, President of GBARC declared that "the entire professional life of Dr. Turner has been a constant dedication to children and especially to the handicapped and retarded."

"On call . . . seven days a week, Dr. Turner makes the rounds of hospitals, clinics, and institutions which house the 'special kind of children' who need his expert help."

"Even his private practice is limited to children and the handicapped and retarded. In fact, he has made them his life."

A graduate of Harvard University, Dr. Turner received his DDS at the University of Pennsylvania, and a certificate in Pedodontics and Anesthesiology at B.U. School of Graduate Dentistry.

Dr. Turner is presently assistant Professor of Pedodontics at B.U. School of Graduate Dentistry.

Threat Of Taxpayers Suit Shadows Revaluation Talk

BY CYNTHIA BLACK

Shadowed by political implications and the very real threat of a taxpayers suit, the question of revaluation of city property will come up for discussion next Monday.

The multi-faceted issue will be discussed at a special meeting of the Legislation and Rules Committee with the mayor and city assessors invited to attend.

Cities and towns are, by law, supposed to reassess every ten years, and under the new law must set their rates on the basis of "fair market value," or 100 per cent valuation.

The last reassessment in the city was conducted in 1964. When Mayor Theodore D. Mann submitted the 1972 budget earlier this year he requested $150,000 for the purpose of beginning revaluation.

It is estimated that it would take about two years to complete the reassessment; and had the funds been approved, another $150,000 would have been requested in next year's budget to continue the project.

The funds, however, wound up in the budget reserve after Ald. Robert Gaynor led a successful fight to bring revaluation plans to a halt.

Gaynor contends that the city should hold off until the 1974 10-year deadline before revaluation and allow some current issues to be resolved. The issues, he said, are the graduated income tax proposal and the case before the United States Supreme Court which will produce a ruling on whether or not the property tax can be used to support schools.

Both matters, he maintains, would live their own independent effect on the property tax structure.

In addition, the aldermen cite a loss estimated at $1 million that would be caused by revaluation and the hardships to people living on fixed incomes and receiving abatements as other reasons to stall on the issue.

He explained in an interview last week that utilities holding taxable property in the city are already assessed at 100 per cent; and if the city as a whole goes to 100 per cent the utilities will be reduced accordingly. He estimated a loss of $500,000.

In addition, he said that the reassessment, done by a private firm, would probably cost the city at least $450,000. That adds up to a total of about $1 million.

In relation to people on fixed incomes notably the elderly, the alderman explained that the maximum amount of assets they can hold is set by the state, and a substantial increase in their assessed value would be a lot of them over the legal maximum.

Proponents of revaluation have this week, suggested that threatened taxpayers suit to force revaluation in the city is inevitable if aldermen do not act now.

Ald. Eliot K. Cohen, chairman of the L & R subcommittee charged with investigating the assessing department and revaluation, commented on Gaynor's allegations in an interview Tuesday.

Cohen agreed that revenue would be lost because of the drop in the rate for utilities.

"However," he said, "the primary source of tax revenue from utilities is the personal property tax and it would not be affected by revaluation. Therefore, he said, the ultimate effect of the revaluation is diluted in relation to utilities."

He also agreed that the effect of increased assessments on the elderly would follow what Gaynor said.

"But," he added, "This is not really a fair argument either. The General Court increased the amount of personal exemptions when the law for equalized valuation was handed down. Our people have benefited under the increased exemptions without having to pay the increased assessment."

"The point is," Cohen continued, "at least one-third of the city is now paying twice or three times the assessment of another third of the city. There is no way this can be considered as fair. It's favoring one group over another — and that's illegal."

It states in the subcommittee report there is evidence that assessments in the city range from 10 per cent to 66 per cent.

Whether or not the reassessment would raise some tax bills and lower others is a nebulous question to pin down.

The State decreed in its Springfield decision that assessors must make "a fair cash valuation of all the estate, real and personal, subject to taxation."

It defined "fair cash valuation" as:

"This means fair market value, which is the price an owner willing but not under compulsion to sell ought to receive from one willing but not under compulsion to buy. It means the highest price that a normal purchaser not under peculiar compulsion will pay at the time and cannot exceed the sum which the owner after reasonable effort could obtain for his property."

"It is a wholly illegal practice to assess land at less than 100 per cent of full and fair cash value."

The problems, as indicated by assessors in communities that have gone to 100 per cent, are manifold. If it takes two years to reassess an entire city, by the time the assessment was completed, property values would have already increased on the properties assessed at the beginning.

What is done, one assessor explained, is to determine "fair market value" for all properties as applied on one given day, and assess each accordingly.

The result is an equal share of the tax burden for everyone which one community assessor said is the point of the law. It is what "100 per cent" means, not what it actually is.

The assessor also noted that most reassessments have taken place as the result of taxpayers suits because of the political overtones the issue always seems to produce.

"All they have to prove," he said, "is that equalized assessment does not exist in their town."

Norwood Hospital Features New Family-Centered Maternity Care

New maternity visiting hours, childbirth classes, and administrative policies are getting smiles of approval from expectant parents at Norwood Hospital these days. The changes are part of a comprehensive program, consistent with the Hospital's high standards of care for the mother and baby, designed to help make childbirth an easier meaningful experience for couples.

After baby is born, many couples wonder what to do next. Norwood Hospital's Maternity Staff do their best to help take some of the mystery out of care for the newborn. Mothers can learn how to bathe baby through demonstrations offered. First time mothers can bathe their own baby under supervision before they go home. There is a weekly "chat" session for new mothers to discuss baby care amongst themselves. And, conferences on breast feeding and formula preparation will help insure baby's proper growth and health by providing mother with knowledge she should have. Twice a week, a "shape-up" conference teaches mother various exercises and body mechanics to enable her to return to optimum health.

Father Now V.I.P. Expectant fathers carry a new status as V.I.P.s (Very Important Papas) at Norwood Hospital. A special waiting room - now known as the V.I.P. Lounge - and located right in the maternity section - is presently being refurbished for their use. When completed, the room will have comfortable furnishings, color television, bathroom, and even a few manly necessities (razor, shaving cream, and lotion) to freshen up to greet mama and baby.

Perhaps most noticeable, is the change in hospital

New Mothers' Tea Tomorrow At the Oldham

The John F. Oldham PTA announces that a New Mothers' Tea will be held this Thursday afternoon at 3:30 p.m. at the school for mothers of kindergarten children and for mothers of all children new to the school.

There will be opportunity to meet with the faculty, medical personnel, and administrative staff who will be looking after the interests of the children this year.

NEW ARRIVAL seems to draw mixed reactions from brother and sister. But, parents-to-be will be happier with new family-centered maternity care program now in effect at Norwood Hospital.

maternity visiting hours. Fathers may visit from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. and may stay during baby feeding times. . . even helping, if they wish. Two visitors over 14 years of age are now permitted in addition to the husband between the hours of 2 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 8 p.m. The new hours and change have been included in the hospital's Patient Information booklet.

Fathers-to-be, traditionally relegated to floor pacing, may have a more active role in the birth of their child. With prior agreement and planning on the part of the wife, husband and physician - and, provided the delivery does not involve the use of general anesthesia, surgical procedures (such as cesarean birth), or other factors - the husband may witness the birth of his child. He must have completed a special childbirth course - either offered by or recognized by the Hospital (such as the La Maze course) prior to his wife's admission.

Childbirth Course Offered A special course, designed to enhance the childbirth experience, will be held at Norwood Hospital for prospective parents. Starting today, Wednesday, September 20th to 9 p.m. and may stay during the course will be taught by the Hospital's Maternity staff nurses and will consist of three classes to be given on separate evenings from 7 to 9 p.m. A small registration fee is charged and the hospital provides all course materials. Limited to ten couples, the September class is already full. For November reservations or for further information, interested couple may contact Mrs. Jeanne Iannone, R.N., Maternal Child Health Supervisor at: 762-1910 ext. 303, Monday through Friday, between 7 a.m. and 3 p.m.

State Accepts Plans For New Junior High

There is an old in sight for Norwood mothers who have had to endure a hectic schedule due to double sessions at the junior high level. The Permanent Building Construction Committee (PBCC) announced last Thursday evening that the School Building Assistance Bureau (SBAB) has approved the final plans of Junior High at Endean Park.

Plans are now available for contracting companies who wish to bid on the school, and according to architect James McGarh of Koruslund LeNormand and Quinn (KLQ) there has been quite a demand. Bids will be closing October 11, 1972.

Committee members also learned the same night that the automatic athletic field watering system isn't really as automatic as they thought. The $28,000 option sold to town meeting was described Thursday night as "a perimeter athletic field watering system" and it must be operated manually.

The grid system with the automatic shut off which would enable the field to be watered in the early morning hours 2 a.m. to 5 a.m. would cost approximately three times the $28,000 figure.

All of the committee agreed when they said this was the system they thought they and bought for $28,000.

Dr. Philip Coakley, superintendent of schools stated: "It doesn't solve our problem when we have men working." Paciorowski suggested that Member John Egan quietly quipped "It's not much better than a free hydrant."

As a solution to the problem, problem; it can only be used Chairman Ernest a grid field watering system be put in as an alternate even though the bids are already he sister school - Junior High-out.

Turning their attention to north members heard a comprehensive report from members of Frances Associates engineering firm from Marion, Mass., on the heating and ventilating system of Junior High North.

Plagued by troubles, mammoth and miniscule, in this area for three years, the committee heard that the system is now "fairly near 100 percent operating condition."

"This cost the town a lot of money; there was no check after the contractor was out of there," complained member Richard Kief.

John Desmond of Frances Associates explained, "Supervision is not our responsibility; there is no on this has been an imposition on the PBCC and the school department and us, it's the worst performance I've ever seen. There were literally hundreds of mistakes we've picked up," he added.

LWV Tells How Graduated Income Tax Will Affect Middle Income Families

This is the third in a series of four articles prepared by the League of Women Voters of Boston in support of a graduated income tax (G.I.T.) which will appear on the Ballot November 7 as Question 6. The League of Women Voters is one of many organizations supporting this proposed change in the state constitution.

How will the graduated income tax affect the Middle Income Family? The Coalition for Tax Reform, Inc. has been formed to actively campaign for passage of this amendment. The group includes the following organizations: Citizens for Participation Politics, Legislative Council for Older Americans, Inc., Massachusetts Congress of Parents and Teachers (PTA), Massachusetts Council of Churches, Massachusetts Mayor's Association, Massachusetts League of Cities and Towns, United Autoworkers, Massachusetts State Labor Council, AFL-CIO, Americans for Democratic Action, Massachusetts Teachers Association, League of Women Voters of Massachusetts.

Will the G.I.T. help me? Middle and low income families and individuals have the most to gain by the proposed amendment which will make it possible for the legislature to base income tax rates on ability to pay if it chooses to do so. No one can predict the total amount of money that the state will choose to raise from the income tax. However, most tax experts believe that a graduated rate structure, if adopted, will be less burdensome to the majority of Massachusetts taxpayers than the present flat rate tax, no matter how much revenue is raised by the income tax.

What will the Legislature do if I vote "Yes" on the G.I.T.?

Under the proposed constitutional amendment, the Legislature has several choices.

1. It could apply a uniform rate or percentage to your Federal Income Tax liability. (At the present level of state revenue needs this would amount to about 25 percent of your federal income tax. If, as many tax experts predict, the state will need to raise an additional $300 million for fiscal 1973, the ratio of state to federal tax would rise to 35 percent. If, in addition, the state provided the badly needed $400 to $500 million extra to share with cities and towns so they could lower their property taxes, the state income tax would amount to 47 percent of your federal income tax.)

2. It could apply graduated rates to your individual Federal taxable income.

3. It could apply graduated rates to income determined to be taxable under Massachusetts law.

4. It could continue to tax income at a flat rate.

What about Exemptions, Deductions and Abatements?

A "yes" vote in November would authorize the Legislature to provide for reasonable exemptions, deductions and abatements and make the definition of any term used in the state law the same as it is under Federal law.

Interfaith Council To Sponsor Course On Human Sexuality

The Interfaith Council of Norwood is sponsoring a six-week lecture and discussion titled "Family Life," open to all local residents of Norwood.

Programs featuring a variety of topics and guest speakers will be held on six Thursday evenings from 8 p.m. to 10 p.m. The first session will be held on Oct. 12th. Capacity enrollment is about fifty people, and early registration is required. To defray the cost of the speakers there will be a nominal fee of ten dollars per person.

Registration will take place on Sunday, October 1st at 8 p.m. in the United Church, located corner of Washington and Nahatan street; on Monday, October 2, at 8 p.m. in St. Timothy's Church off Brook street and on Tuesday, October 3, at 8 p.m. in share Refill off Nichols street. Three evenings have been set aside so that those who cannot come one evening may come another. It is necessary to come only one of these evenings to register. The council will explain the program more thoroughly on those evenings and answer questions. Those who do not wish to register but would like to hear more about the program are most welcome to come.

The six lectures briefly are: 1 - Human Reproduction - Growth and Development of Human Sexuality. 2 - Changing roles of the Male and Female. 3 - Love, Marriage and the Family - Class expectations in Marriage. 4 - Venereal Disease. 5 - Drugs as a negative solution to adolescent sexuality disturbance. 6 - Panel discussion by clergy. What are ns of "Sexual Do's and Don'ts" for contemporary nuclear families.

What about future revenue needs?

No one can predict the total amount of revenue the Commonwealth will need (to collect) in future years. So there can be no guarantee that taxpayers in Massachusetts will not eventually pay more income taxes than they now do. Plans could be designed to put more or less burden on different income groups. However, if the G.I.T. is adopted, the League of Women Voters is confident that a graduated tax will be fairer than present flat rate tax.

Next week: What do you do about the graduated income tax?

What should a sales contract include? Among other things it should include the total price of the house as well as the amount of the deposit and the amount of the down payment. It should also state the manner and percentage of financing. In addition there should be a list of any personal property to be included in the sale. Stated somewhere should be the exact period of time the seller has to accept or reject the offer and an agreed date on which the buyer may take possession. Take all necessary steps to make sure the sale is legal and final.

When you are ready to sell make sure you list first and only with WOODS REAL ESTATE, 1401 Providence Highway, Norwood, 769-3330. We do residential property appraisals and use our knowledge and experience to see that you receive maximum full market value for your property. Last year we sold more homes than any other broker in the area — list with us in '72 when you're ready to sell.

Taxes in Escrow

Four Worcester banks find themselves confronted with possible law violations because they followed a custom quite widespread and forwarded to the city advance payment of tax escrow funds.

These funds, paid to the banks by home-owners as part of their mortgage contract, are turned over to the city and/or town treasuries as the November real estate deadline looms on the horizon.

This year, Worcester, involved in a tough legal tangle over whether it should become a 100% evaluated city for real estate taxes, was glad to get the cash for a treasury cupboard some fear may soon go bare.

The banks are caught in the middle, but the chances are the matter will finally be straightened out, even though there may be some more worries ahead, as far as they are concerned.

In recent years the efforts to force banks to pay interest on the escrow tax funds they collect monthly have been growing in strength, only to receive a negative answer from the Legislature each year.

The Worcester case may pull into the open arena a lot of property tax problems now attracting constantly rising national attention.

One of the lesser is the question of those escrow taxes, which have helped many a home-owner to get that annual property tax bill paid on time.

Erzatz Calendars

They've planned 14 sessions—two in every county of the state—to acquaint public officials with all the complexities the latter expect to encounter when the state goes in for switching over from a calendar year to something called a fiscal year.

On the surface it looks like something no more difficult than turning the clock forward or backward when daylight savings is coming or going. Certainly it can't be compared with such block-busting legislative steps as making a prevaricator out of Henry Wordsworth Longfellow and sundry historians about the date Paul Revere made his solo horseback trip to Lexington and Concord.

People seem to like the three-day week-ends the Solons created for the holidays, even though days like Patriots' Day, Memorial Day and Columbus Day seem to take on a little of the ersatz quality in the change-over.

This fiscal year business just ahead could assume some really frightening aspects for the more timid among us. The 14 grounding sessions, it appears, are necessary to prepare finance committee members, selectmen, city councillors, mayors, managers, capital budgeters, executive secretaries, municipal department heads, town accountants, city auditors, comptroller, town counsel, assessors, treasurers collectors and others.

Some time back when England decided to adopt the decimal system for its currency, officials worried day and night. How would the public ever get around to accepting it? The public did with a surprising lack of confusion.

This business of a fiscal year which starts July 1 (as opposed to Jan. 1) and ends June 31 (as opposed to Dec. 31) doesn't look like an insurmountable problem even if the system does start out with an initial 18-month transitional year.

Indeed, in view of all this high-powered preparation some of our brass considered necessary, maybe our law-makers will decide to leave the calendar alone for a couple of decades at least. That would be an encouraging achievement.

POLITICAL HIGHLIGHTS

By JAMES G. COLBERT

McGovern Certain To Gain Between Now and Election

Now that the primary results are recorded in the political history books, public attention will focus more sharply on the battle between President Richard M. Nixon and Senator George S. McGovern for the right to head the national government for the next four years.

President Nixon is a favorite to defeat Senator McGovern but not by as overwhelming a margin as the polls would indicate. McGovern is virtually certain to gain in the weeks between now and the November election.

The big question, of course, is whether the South Dakota Senator can pick up enough ground to close the gap and wipe out the big lead which President Nixon apparently enjoys.

The betting by the gambling gentry is that McGovern can't do it. He started at a disadvantage, well behind Mr. Nixon and with a divided Democratic party.

His campaign was thrown out of gear by the so-called Eagleton affair. He has been handicapped by friction, a lack of cohesion and maneuvering for position and power within his own organization. He has been having trouble raising money.

Yet, Senator McGovern cannot be counted out of this Presidential race. Richard Nixon is a Republican President in a Democratic country. He is not a really popular President. His two Presidential races were closely contested and were settled by wafer-thin margins.

John F. Kennedy defeated Richard Nixon in 1960. Hubert H. Humphrey almost toppled him in 1968. George S. McGovern isn't the greatest candidate the Democratic party ever nominated for President, but he compares fairly well with Hubert Humphrey.

Senator McGovern must do two things in order to have a real chance of winning election. He must accomplish the registration of a much higher percentage of young people, nearly half of whom haven't yet taken the time and trouble to have their names placed on the voting lists.

He also must bring his own organization under some kind of control and insist that his staff members either stop insulting people whose support he needs or get out of his campaign.

That would seem to be a basic and fundamental problem which the average Presidential candidate would handle the day after he won his party's nomination. McGovern apparently hasn't been able to do it yet.

His campaign manager, Lawrence O'Brien, almost walked out because McGovern's top lieutenants such as Frank Mankiewicz and Gary Hart ignored him, functioned independently of him and continued to act as McGovern's chief spokesmen.

McGovern called a series of staff meetings and insisted that the irate O'Brien was the boss of his campaign. He then returned to the hustings, but the trouble at the McGovern headquarters have not entirely subsided.

Some political observers are asking how McGovern can expect to run the United States when he can't run his own headquarters.

Larry O'Brien, for example, attempted to chastise a McGovern staff worker for the insulting manner in which he had treated an important and powerful Democratic state chairman whose help McGovern needs critically.

"He'll have to get used to it," the staffer told O'Brien. "It's a new era."

O'Brien pointed out that McGovern needs the state chairman more than the state chairman needs McGovern. But he made little impression. This is one of the things that is slowing down McGovern's drive.

During a conversation with a political consultant who serves as an adviser to several candidates in southern and border states, O'Brien asked what McGovern could do to improve his relations with those candidates. "Fire his staff," the consultant advised.

One of the basic rules of politics is to look ahead, not back. When a convention or a primary has ended, the winning candidate usually tries to heal the wounds, close the breaches and achieve party unity.

McGovern is attempting to do exactly that. But his staff members are frustrating and blunting many of his efforts. Where he is endeavoring to win new friends, they seem to be striving to retain old enemies. They are damaging his election prospects.

Senator McGovern, incidentally, implied while in Peoria, Illinois, that Senator Thomas Eagleton of Missouri had attempted to conceal details of his medical history before he was dumped as McGovern's Vice Presidential running mate.

While touring a factory in Peoria, McGovern was stopped by a supporter who said it was a shame the Eagleton incident had occurred, adding that Senator Harold Hughes of Iowa had gone on to a successful public career after being an alcoholic.

McGovern nodded as the man was speaking but then said of Hughes: "He never made any effort to hide it." That was the first time McGovern commented directly on Eagleton's silence about his medical background, and it may have been a spontaneous, spur-of-the-moment remark.

Senator McGovern's aides have declared repeatedly that Eagleton had remained silent about his nervous disorders when he should have informed McGovern about them. McGovern until his remarks in Peoria had asserted that his decision to pick a different Vice Presidential ticket mate stemmed from his desire to keep his campaign against President Nixon focused on the issues.

Apparently there was also a feeling on McGovern's part that Eagleton should have told him about his nervous breakdowns.

Senator McGovern Estimated To Be Worth About $300,000

Senator George S. McGovern talks like a poor man on the campaign hustings, but the fact is that during 15 years on Washington's Capitol Hill he has built greater financial security for himself than most men are able to do in a lifetime.

Mr. McGovern has listed his net worth at about $300,000. He lives in a $110,000 Japanese-style home in Washington. He has a $65,000 summer home in St. Michael's on the Maryland shore.

He has served 15 years in Washington as a Congressman and Senator. But in 1962 after he was first elected a U.S. Senator, he told South Dakota voters he was $25,000 in debt.

A dinner was held in Mitchell, South Dakota, on Dec. 12, 1962, with the charge ranging from $25 to $100 per plate, to help pay off his debts. About 600 persons attended the banquet. So McGovern presumably has accumulated his wealth during the 10 years he has been in the U.S. Senate.

When he first went to Washington as a freshman Congressman, the one-time minister and college professor depended on his government salary to support his growing family and had to borrow the down payment to buy a small home in Chevy Chase, Md., a suburb of Washington.

He isn't in the same financial class with Senator Edward M. Kennedy today, but he's a long way from being a candidate for welfare assistance.

Senator McGovern, in a net worth statement issued at Miami during the Florida Presidential Primary this year, listed his assets as follows:

Cash in checking and savings accounts, $52,800. Trust fund, $62,000.

Owed by the Democratic party on a loan, $5800. Rental property, $10,000.

Interest in a house in Aberdeen, South Dakota, $5000.

A Washington home, $110,000. (Estimated to be worth more now.)

A residence in St. Michael's, Maryland, $65,000. (Estimated to be worth more now.)
Automobiles, jewelry and clothing, $10,000.
Equity in federal retirement program, $31,000.
Furniture in a Mitchell, South Dakota, apartment, $1500.

This makes a total of $353,200. McGovern said his only liabilities were a $47,000 mortgage on his Washington home and a $34,600 mortgage on his St. Michael's summer home. As stated, both dwellings are considered to have increased in value.

Senator McGovern declares that most of his net worth has come from speaking and writing fees. He asserts that his income from those sources during the past five years has been greater than his senatorial salary, adding that he has been about the busiest Senator in making speeches.

He apparently also has made some money on real estate transactions. For instance, he bought a home in 1957 for $26,000 and sold it in 1969 for $45,000.

In 1969 McGovern had an income of $150,000 before taxes — $42,500 from his senatorial salary, $63,000 from speeches, $35,000 from real estate sales and $10,000 from investments.

It would seem that McGovern would be hit by some of his own tax proposals if they become law.

Ted Overshadows McGovern As They Campaign Together

Senator McGovern has discovered that there are disadvantages as well as advantages in having Senator Ted Kennedy campaign with him.

Ted's presence with McGovern on the stump almost automatically assures the Democratic Presidential standard-bearer of bigger crowds than would otherwise be the case.

But many of those who turned out to hear Senators Kennedy and McGovern were more interested in Ted than in McGovern.

Senator McGovern at times found himself almost pushed out of the way by crowds who wanted to get a closer look at Ted, say a word to him, shake hands with him or even touch a part of his clothing.

Members of the McGovern staff were annoyed when their man related a story of a woman who told Ted Kennedy she was sorry she would have to wait until 1976 to vote for him for President.

Ted, of course, will be a Presidential candidate in '76 only if McGovern is defeated next November. If McGovern is elected, he will be standing for reelection four years from now.

Members of the Nixon high command must be quite happy that Ted Kennedy refused to accept the Presidential nomination as they observe his popularity and his tremendous drawing power.

Senator McGovern must realize now that it would be a case of the tail wagging the dog if Ted had become his Vice Presidential running mate as he wanted.

Collins Opens Democratic Drive for President Nixon

Senator McGovern is expected to carry Massachusetts when the Presidential returns are counted next November.

The Bay State is rated as the most dovish and one of the most Democratic and liberal states in the nation.

But former Mayor John F. Collins, who is spearheading a Democratic drive for President Nixon in Massachusetts, is conceding McGovern nothing.

Collins, who is outspoken in expressing his conviction that the election of Senator McGovern as the next President would jeopardize the future of the United States, has recruited an outstanding Committee of Democrats and Independents for Nixon.

Attorney Peter D. Gens of Brookline is treasurer of the committee, and Attorney Hirsch Freed of Jamaica Plain is the committee secretary. Gens, who is 32 years old and a brilliant young lawyer, represents the young people.

Freed, a lifelong Democrat, a well known and highly respected attorney, has been active in the campaigns of John F. Kennedy, Maurice J. Tobin, Paul A. Dever, John B. Hynes and John F. Collins.

Other members of the committee, all influential persons in their communities, are Thomas J. Flaherty of Milton, Thomas G. Feenan of Mattapan, Joseph S. Loscocco of Newton, Kenneth J. Lyons of Norwood, John D. Spooner of Weston, Ida C. Whittaker of Mattapan, and Michael J. MacDonald of Winchester.

The odds are against Collins in his drive to help shift Massachusetts into the Nixon column, but the likelihood is that President Nixon will make a much more respectable showing in the state than in either of his other two runs for the Presidency.

McGovern Staffers Regard Shriver Boners As Unfunny

The crowd hooted and hollered and sent up thunders of laughter the other day when Democratic Vice Presidential Nominee Sargent Shriver declared that California labor leaders had told him they would carry their state "for Nixon and Shriver."

But members of the McGovern staff didn't think the slip of the tongue was very funny. Some persons in the McGovern high command are muttering that the selection of Shriver as the No. 2 man on the Democratic ticket was not the master stroke it first seemed to be.

This is the first time Shriver has run for public office, and he is not an accomplished speaker or campaigner.

Senator McGovern has been trying to capitalize on President Nixon's refusal to debate with him. When Shriver was asked in Cincinnati if he would like "to debate Vice President Agnew, he replied that he would be "willing" but would rather "take my case straight to the people."

That was practically a repeat of the Republican reply to Senator McGovern.

When a Louisiana lawyer protested McGovern's reform tax proposals, Sarge answered: "Do you know that under his plan, my taxes would go down 30 per cent?"

In one speech Shriver said he had read about a Catholic priest in Racine, Wis., telling Senator McGovern he could not promise anything on aid to parochial schools that President Nixon had not already promised.

"Well, I wish I had been there," declared Shriver, as if McGovern has mishandled the matter. "I'd have told him: 'That's true. But I'll tell you one thing. I'll deliver more than Nixon.'"

Despite his boners and boobboos, however, Shriver has lined up some support for McGovern he otherwise could not have got and apparently was the one who made peace with Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley and former President Lyndon Johnson.

Fund For Widows Of Slain Prison Employees Grows

People who care have dug into their pockets and contributed to the fund to help the two families of the Norfolk Prison employees who were killed recently. The fund has grown and it is hoped that donations will continue to come in.

For police and firemen killed in the line of duty there are programs set up to help their widows and children but unfortunately no such arrangements have been made for prison employees. That is why James Waldron, a retired guard, and Robert Kirby, owner of the Clonmel Arms Restaurant started a project to see what they could do to help.

The night the tragedy took place about six of the guards had gathered at the restaurant and were talking about how something should be done for the families. Right then and there Mr. Kirby said he would start a fund. He made a slot in the top of a mayonnaise jar and collected $75 from about 25 persons at the bar.

The next day he went to the Hancock Bank and Trust Company in Walpole and started a trust fund for the families of guard James Souza of Fairhaven and prison instructor, Alfred J. Baronow-Hall, Sir Knight Paul A. Thomas, past grand knight of Wood council, will be installed as faithful navigator along the slate of incoming officers. The outgoing admiral, Sir Knight Michael A. Zullo, past grand knight of Norwood council, will also be installed as trustee for a three year term.

Dinner will begin promptly 8 p.m. followed by the installation ceremony and dancing. Those planning to attend should contact area leaders for tickets so that the caterer may be advised of an accurate count.

State Needs Alternative To Property Tax, Says LWV

The Norwood League of Women Voters is currently making an in depth study of the income tax situation in Massachusetts. The Boston League has prepared a series of articles in support of a graduated income tax for the Commonwealth.

Following is the second in a series of articles prepared by the Boston League expressing their views on the subject. The first article pointed out that a graduated income tax (G.I.T.) is a fairer tax than the present flat rate income tax because it is based on ability to pay.

What about local property taxes? Can we possibly hope to reduce them?

A second important reason for voting "yes" in November to this proposed amendment to the state constitution is that it offers the best possibility for lowering local property taxes. Only if the state collects more revenue and shares it with cities and towns can the municipalities expect to reduce their local tax rate.

What about Boston's horrendous property tax rates?

Boston raises a larger proportion of its revenue from the property tax than any of the 20 largest cities in the United States. Boston finances about 65 percent of its budget from the property tax while the average for the other 19 cities is about 35 percent.

Many other Massachusetts municipalities likewise have excessive property taxes. And the property tax, like the flat rate income tax, often bears no relation to the amount of income of the owner or his/her ability to pay the tax.

Why is the property tax regressive?

Because it claims a larger percentage of a low-income family's earnings than it does from a high income family.

There are two reasons for this unfairness:

1. Low income families tend to put a higher proportion of their assets into real estate in relation to their total spending.

2. In spite of the requirement to assess all property at full market value, lower priced homes are often assessed at a higher proportion of market value than higher priced homes.

How much could the property tax load be shifted?

It is estimated that the present income tax in the state budget for the fiscal year ending June 1973 will probably require another $300 million, making a total of about $1.1 billion that must be collected through the income tax or other state taxes.

A reasonable impact on reducing the local property tax could be made if the state collected an additional $400 to $500 million by the use of the graduated income tax.

The League of Women Voters of Boston joins the Leagues (of Women Voters) throughout the Commonwealth in working to lower our dependence on the local property tax as a means of supporting local government.

The League of Women Voters believes that a graduated income tax would be a fairer means of raising more revenue than either the flat rate income tax, sales tax

OUTRAGEOUS IDEA

To the Messenger: The plan of the Airport Commission to circumvent the town meeting is alarming in its implications.

The town meeting denied the Commission's request for $4500 to pay the town's 10 percent share of the cost of new holding aprons at the airport because it felt that such aprons shouldn't be built. Now the town council has ruled that the Commission ed a town appropriation but can pass the hat among the special interests who want airport expansion. This is hard to believe.

If this can be done to build holding aprons or a fence it means that the town has no way of controlling future airport expenditures of any kind or airport expansion. Certainly the airport's users will always be willing to put up the town's small share of the cost of federally subsidized facilities for their sole benefit.

Here we have a public body planning to put itself in debt to private interests in order to raise funds to thwart the town meeting. It seems that the Commission sees nothing wrong with this although the members did go into executive session to discuss raising the money.

Let's open that sober reconsideration in the light of day will be enough to kill this outrageous idea.

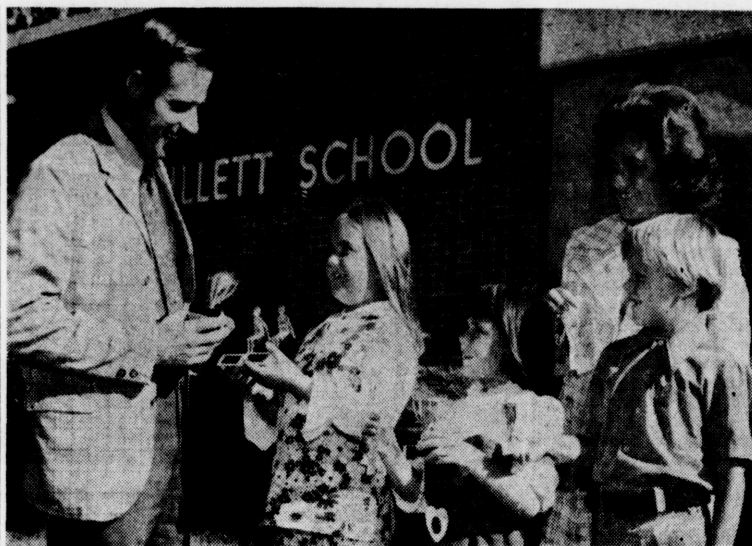

For a long run solution, those interested in controlling the airport probably ought to consider seeking legislation to make the Commission members popularly elected so as to insure a greater responsiveness to the people of the town.

Susan Connolly At Bryn Mawr

Miss Susan Frances Connolly, 785 Washington street, Norwood, is one of the two hundred and forty-eight young women entering the freshman class at Bryn Mawr College, Bryn Mawr, Pennsylvania, this fall. Miss Connolly, who graduated from the class of 1972 at Norwood High School, is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James F. Connolly.

Bryn Mawr College, located eleven miles west of Philadelphia, was the first college in the country to grant a graduate degree to a woman and remains today the only independent women's college in the country with graduate work in all departments. It now has cooperative study programs with Haverford and Swarthmore Colleges and with the University of Pennsylvania. It continues to be foremost on rigorous scholarship and quality education.

Committee Gambles With Time On New School Roof

The problems of trying to convert a burned out shell of school into a functional, inviting and educationally sound plant for anxious elementary children are nagging away at the Permanent Building Construction Committee.

Thursday night architect James McGrath of Kershaw, And Quann informed the committee, "It is our best judgement that a permanent roof cannot be accomplished before severe winter weather.

The previous week the committee had authorized Mr. McGrath at his suggestion to go ahead with final plans to reroof over the fire damaged section.

According to architect McGrath, further study and consultation with two roofing contractors precludes the hopes of a new roof before the snow falls.

The disappointed committee refused to accept this piece of news and authorized Mr. McGrath to proceed with the plans and put the job out for bids with the idea that nothing could be lost by going ahead and perhaps something could be gained.

The roofing contractors consulted by KIQ indicate everyone is pretty busy, reported Mr. McGrath. "If you set a date and the contractor gets his price he'll do these other jobs," offered Chairman Ernest Paciorowski.

In the event that no contractor will bid on the job, the committee directed Mr. McGrath to get an estimate on "minimum temporary repairs."

The snow load on the temporary roof is of prime concern to the committee and the facts that it caused no trouble through 1970 and '72

Portable Cassette Player Purchased by The Library

Something brand new has arrived at Morrill Memorial Library for the enjoyment and information of young and old. A portable cassette player and several series of cassettes - those neat little packages containing tape recording - have been purchased.

For those interested in learning or in becoming acquainted with a foreign language, the tapes from "Quinto Lingo" are of special interest and excitement.

"Quinto Lingo" is a monthly magazine which contains articles in four languages printed side by side in each issue: English, Spanish, French and German. Every month each article is also produced on tape in each of the four language. It is then possible to listen to the language pronounced correctly and given the authentic accent as the print version is followed with the eye.

This learning method is as effective for those learning English as a second language as it is for English-speaking, who are learning French, Spanish or German.

In addition to the "Quinto Lingo" tapes and magazines, complete language courses have been recorded in the handy cassette form. For each language, a total of forty lessons are on tape with an "Everyday Conversation Manual" and a Dictionary included in print. These sets are available for German, Spanish, French and Italian.

Other materials on various foreign languages are also available at the library. These include the usual phonograph records, books and periodicals.

Cassettes, phonograph recordings, and many other library materials are available free to the public at all times.

Norfolk County Legion News

Legion Activities are beginning to pick up again at Post and County level. Not that things were at a standstill by any means, but with the kids back to school and vacation but a fond memory, our active Legionnaires will be "involved" once again.

County Commander Tomaino expresses his thanks to the County Officers who worked so hard to make the County Clambake the success it was. Also a vote of thanks to the hosts, the members of the R.I. Nickerson Post of Squantum, for their hospitality. This is one of the few fund-raising programs conducted by the County and it was well supported by the various Posts. They not only purchased tickets for themselves and their guests, but also purchased tickets for our disabled comrades at the West Roxbury V.A. Hospital so that they too might attend.

The Annual County Carnival at W.R.V.A. was held on Wednesday, September 14, at the Recreation Hall. Our County was well represented and to patients add a ball to those words. Many thanks to those who volunteered their services — from Commander Joe and our VAVS man Al Marshall.

As you probably know by now we have a new National Commander. He is Joe L. Matthews, a 59-year-old W.W. II Navy Veteran from Fort Worth, Texas. He served his first hitch in the Navy during the 30's and re-enlisted in the Navy "Seabees" in 1943. He served in the Marshall Islands, Okinawa, and Hawaii and was discharged as a Chief Boatswain's Mate in 1946.

He owns and operates his own business, the Linemen's Equipment Company, is married and is the proud father of two children and grandfather of five.

Prior to his election as National Commander he urged our Membership Committees to "Put It All Together" — in other words, build a package that will inspire and motivate our membership teams. The Posts of Norfolk County should have little trouble in doing this. Simply tell what your Post is doing for its members — and potential members. Get the message out to our fellow veterans that the fight for veterans rights — benefit all veterans — not Legionnaires alone. Promoting Americanism, safeguarding our children's physical, mental and moral health, insisting on a fair shake for war widows and their orphans — these are all part of the package. It's up to us to "put it all together".

Listed below for your convenience are Post Installation dates and also County meetings: Wed. Sept. 20, 8 p.m. County "E" Board Meeting at Needham Post No. 14; Friday, Sept. 22, postal service.

Installation at Beckwith Post No. 110 at 8 p.m.; Sat. Sept. 23, 8 p.m. Installation at Brookline Post No. 11; Wed. Sept. 27, 8 p.m. First Regular County Meeting at Hough's Neck Post No. 380; Sat. Sept. 20. Installation at Wm. B. Dalton Post No. 137; Friday, Oct. 6, at 8 p.m. Installation at South Weymouth Post No. 401; Sat. Oct. 7, Installation at Foxboro Post No. 93 at 8 p.m.; Friday Oct. 13, Installation at Westwood Post No. 320, at 8 p.m.; Sat. Oct. 14, Installation at Stoughton Post No. 89 at 8 p.m.; Sat. Oct. 28, Installation at Sharon Post No. 105; at 8 p.m. and on Sat. Nov. 11, Installation at Canton Post No. 24 at 8 p.m.

In reviewing the proposals acted on at the National Convention, County Commander Tomaino stated that the Legion has urged the continuation of the Selective Service Act through June 30, 1975. It also went on record once again as being opposed to granting amnesty or freedom from prosecution to draft dodgers or deserters. In further action it expressed its wholehearted endorsement and support for the President's Vietnamization program. By adopting the Report on the Committee on Children and Youth, the Legion called for dissemination of information of sickle disease, adequate counseling for its victims and sufficient public funds to provide treatment for medically indigent children.

The Legion also pledged its continuing efforts to fight communicable diseases and the abuse of drugs.

In Veterans Affairs and Rehabilitation matters, the Convention Delegates voted: to keep the V.A. hospital — Medical program as a separate entity apart from any future national health program; treatment of surviving dependents of war veterans who die of a service-connected disability, and the wives and children of permanently and totally disabled service-connected veterans in civilian medical facilities at government expense. It also voted to sponsor and support legislation for mustering out pay to all members of Armed Forces who have served honorably during the Vietnam Era, and called again for legislation to improve death and disability pension programs for veterans, their widows and children. Resolutions of the Economic Commission that were adopted include: providing veterans preference to wives of military members missing in action or of war; and opposition to any action to circumvent veterans preference in the 14; Friday, Sept. 22, postal service.

Sixth Daly Joins Navy

Large families always seem to take great pride in their traditions. The same is also true with the Navy, being a rather large "family" itself. So when you find a large family that has the Navy as its tradition, you certainly have "something special".

Such is the case with the Daly family of Norwood. Six out of eight sons have enlisted in the Navy. (The remaining two served in the Army.) A Daly has served in every war since World War I.

The youngest son, Frank, became the family's sixth Navy man when he enlisted in the Naval Reserve at South Weymouth on Saturday, July 15.

Commander Charles Daly, the oldest brother, is stationed at Naval Air Reserve Staff, South Weymouth. He conducted the swearing in ceremony while other members of the family, including AMSI Gordon Daly, command career counselor at South Weymouth, looked on. Mrs. Hazel Daly, obviously proud of her sons, also attended the ceremony.

After completion of Recruit Training, Frank will attend the Yeoman School at NAS New Orleans. He will then return to South Weymouth where he will serve as a Naval Reservist.

Coordinates Sales - Lease Program For Lewis Wharf

Donna L. Daley has been appointed Director of Loan Bank Board in Marketing and Sales for the Washington, D.C. and new Lewis Wharf waterfront community project of the IBM. She has studied real estate and urban land development at Harvard and M.I.T.

The sales and leasing program which Miss Daley coordinates includes both residential condominiums and commercial space now being reconstructed within the original granite, brick and exposed beam framework of the Lewis Wharf Granite Building, a mammoth shipping warehouse built in 1838 on Boston's Harbor. The luxury condominiums in the Wharf development will number about 100 one-to-four bedroom units. Over 70,000 square feet of varied office and retail space, now being leased by Carpenter and Co., provide the commercial component of the Granite Building redevelopment and marketing program.

Miss Daley lives in Boston and is the daughter of Frank and Wanda Daley of Morrill Road, Norwood. She attended Norwood schools, holds an undergraduate degree from Wellesley College and received her MBA degree this June from Harvard Business School. Her recent business experience has included housing market

THE AMERICAN SOLDIER

He gave birth to a Nation. With his very hands and heart he gave life to an ideal that men had dreamed of for thousands of years. His bravery and dedication made democracy a reality. As citizen and soldier, he answered his country's call to serve and to fight.

For almost 200 years he has borne the burden of battle. He has defeated the enemies who would deprive us of our freedom and threaten our security. He draws his strength from the tradition which he himself has created — citizen and soldier, as both the defender and the defended.

If America is to endure, men must come forth to carry on this tradition. Men who will not turn a deaf ear to the call from within — rugged men, Army men. You can share in the spirit of this tradition. But it'll take more than wearing a uniform or learning to shoot. It'll take commitment and the willingness to serve. It is this commitment that will help you realize your true strength, the strength that lies deep within you, the strength you never thought you had.

For more facts about the American soldier or if you'd like to become a soldier in today's modern Army, see Sgt. Les Newsome at the Army Recruiting Station located at 30 Cottage Street in Norwood.

Whist Parties Resume Tonight At St. Peter's

Monthly Whist Parties will be resumed at St. Peter's beginning this evening, September 20, at 8:15 p.m. at St. Peter's Church Hall located on St. Joseph Ave., Norwood.

An outstanding assortment of prizes have been selected for this party. There will be a door prize and a prize for low score. Home made pastries and coffee will be served while prizes are being distributed. The public is cordially invited to attend for a friendly evening of fun.

Serving on the committee are: Mrs. Joseph Puchalski, Mrs. David Johnson, Mrs. Edmund Chrzanowski, Mrs. Alphonse Babel, Mrs. Joseph Homer, Mrs. Nick Carpeno, Mrs. Harry Schofield, Mrs. Edmund Wojdag, Mrs. Raymond Wojdag, Mrs. Andrew Juskievicz, Miss Blanche Rempichel, Mrs. Adam Rogodzinski, Mrs. Clifford Giers, Mrs. Edwin Kotak, Mrs. Anthony Aleksandrowicz, and Mrs. Edward Wisniewski.

This is orientation week at the school and regular classes begin on September 25. The Co-operative Nursery School offers several unique advantages to the children and their parents. A mother helper for each class, on a rotating basis, affords the mother an opportunity to enjoy her child's progress during the year and to share in his experiences. The presence of a mother helper also helps the school to meet its policy of five children to each adult, a ratio which conduces attention for each child.

A limited number of openings remain in both the three and four-year-old classes this year and registrations are being accepted for the school year 1973-74. Further information may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Barbara Morrison, Registrar, at 769-3874.

Batted .312 In Rookie League...

Dennis Hebner Getting His Chance In Pirate System

By FRANK WALL

While in Montreal two weeks ago watching the Pirates we met the General Manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, Joe Brown, and we asked him how young Denny Hebner was doing in his first fling at organized baseball. His answer was short and to the point. "He had an excellent year in the rookie league and batted over .300 and when he went up for the playoffs to Niagara he hit a home run. I would have to say that we're very happy with him. He has a fine attitude and we asked him to take off weight and he did. He'll have a good shot with us in the future," said Brown.

It's an amazing way that Denny Hebner got signed and perhaps there is a man from Dedham by the name of "Red" Conley who could be responsible. "After high school I didn't play baseball for a year as I was umpiring Little League games. Red asked me to play for his Conley Club in the Park League and that's where I got signed and I certainly thank him for giving me a chance to be seen."

Denny got signed this past summer and played in the Rookie League in Bradenton, Florida where he had a fine season. He caught and played some first base and batted a healthy .312 which was fifth best in the league but wasn't included in the Sporting News Information for he wasn't at bat enough having gotten a late start.

Denny was sent up to Niagara, the Pirates farm club in the New York Penn League, and helped them win their title. Their starting catcher was hurt and after our season was over they sent me up. Niagara won their league title and in the last game I hit a home run which helped them clinch the title. It was his first home run in organized

Surprised At Being Signed

Dennis Hebner was playing in the Park League for the Conley Club and Pirate Scout "Chick" Whelan of Needham watched him and was mighty impressed. He was batting around .300 and after one game Whelan came up to Dennis and asked him if he wanted to play professional baseball in the Pirate organization.

"I was really surprised and also mighty thrilled and I just told Mr. Whelan that I would really like to give it a try and after three months of baseball in the Rookie League in Bradenton, Florida I can honestly say that I love the game of professional baseball and am looking forward to the future. Of course my dream is to make the major leagues and I really don't care who I make it with as long as I have a chance to make it. Sure it would be great to be with Richie at Pittsburgh but as long as I make it I don't care who it's with. I know it's a long way to the majors but I'm certainly willing to give it a try. In the Rookie League I was up 160 times and only struck out 11 times. I missed the first 8 games when I signed late and I missed another 11 games with a bad leg. I sure learned plenty and I took off 30 pounds down there and am about 190 now and feel great," said Hebner.

He batted either fourth or fifth in the Rookie League and it was good solid baseball with all the kids trying to make it and every one giving their all.

"It's a little different than the Park League in that every player down there is trying to make a living out of baseball and in the Park League it's down to the field after working all day and it's different. The pitching is a little better as they hurt every day and we usually see more fast ball hurling."

Now in Florida, Dennis Hebner is now in Bradenton, Florida again and is set for a 60 game schedule in the instructional league. He left last Saturday by car and will play for the Pirates and is expected to catch. Workouts started last Monday and the season opens on September 25th and ends on November 17th.

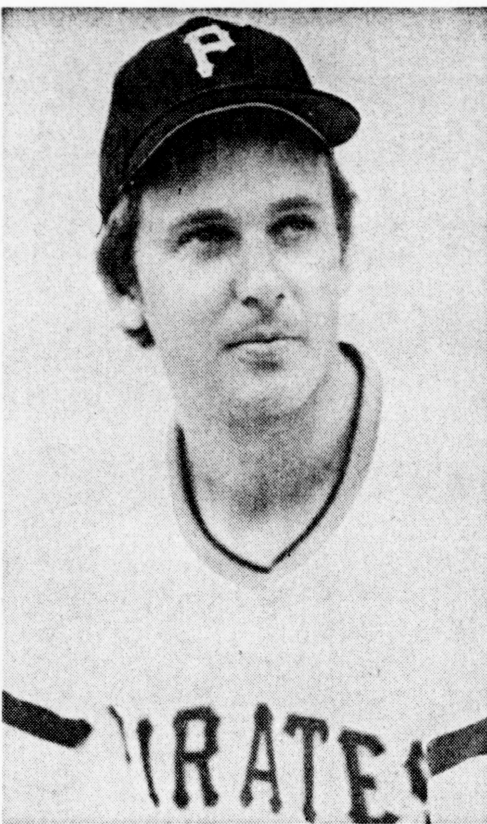

Ex Pittsburgh Pirates manager Danny Murtaugh is the Commissioner of the League and Dennis has nothing but respect for Murtaugh. "He was down at Bradenton in the Rookie League and he taught me plenty about batting," said Hebner.

It's not all just playing down in Florida. The team reports two hours before every game and goes through batting drills, throwing drills and fielding for that's the way they learn the fundamentals from expert teachers like Murtaugh.

Hit In High School
Dennis played Little League and Babe Ruth League baseball in Norwood and was on the all star team in both leagues. He played three years of high school baseball at Norwood High and batted over .400 each season. When he was a sophomore he was the catcher and Richie was at shortstop.

There was no Legion team in Norwood at that time and Dennis played three years of baseball at Walpole under Ralph White. He again batted .400 each year with the Walpole Legion and was a Legion baseball all star. He never struck out more than 10 times in any one season on high school and Legion baseball.

While in High School he was also a star forward with the Norwood High School Bay State League championship hockey team and was a member of the state tourney all stars and scored two goals when Norwood lost to Arlington in the state finals in sudden death.

ANOTHER PIRATE — Norwood's Denny Hebner had an excellent year with the Bradenton Pirates in the Rookie League and is now in Florida awaiting the 60 game Instructional League in Bradenton. He batted .312 in the Rookie League for the Bradenton, Florida, Pirates.

He also has officiated and coached in the Norwood Youth hockey league.

He graduated from Norwood High in 1968 and played hockey for New Prep School in Cambridge.

Then it was on to the Park League and finally the signing and now he is in Florida where he will be giving it an all out try to make it and perhaps some day there will be another Hebner in the major leagues.

Much In Common

When you talk about Denny Hebner and Richie Hebner you can almost trace their careers in the same vein.

Just take a look at which he and Richie have in common. Both played Little League and Babe Ruth baseball on the same team, Legion baseball and High School baseball and hockey. They both were in Tom Clifford's youth hockey program. Both played Legion baseball for Walpole and both played in the Boston Park League. Dennis and Richie are right handed throwers and left handed batters and they both were signed by "Chick" Whelan and if you want to go further both umpired Little League and both worked for their dad in his cemetery at West Roxbury, Mass. Both also played in the Rookie and Instructional League in Florida.

Brother Billy is an umpire in the International League and is given an excellent chance of making the majors as an umpire. Wouldn't that be something if some day all three Hebners were playing in same major league game, two as a player and one as an umpire. It could happen.

It may be a few years away but right now in Bradenton, Florida Dennis Hebner is taking step two on his way to a major league career. Maybe he'll make it and maybe he won't but all he wants is the opportunity and right now he has that chance and he realizes that the rest is up to him.

Lithuanian Golf Open October 1

The Lithuanian Golf Open will be held October 1st at the Heather Hill Country Club in Plainville. Eligible to participate will be those of Lithuanian descent or marriage.

Prizes and a Kielbasi with Kapusti and refreshments will follow at Lake Mirimachi. Entry fee of $8 will include golf, prizes and refreshments. Tee-off times will run from 9 to 10 a.m. Golfers can enter by contacting Vic Babel or members of the committee before Friday, September 29.

Committee chairmen include: Brownie Kudirka, publicity; Ben Chervokas, polka music and singing; Al Navickas and Fran Nevins, co-treasurers; John Jasionis, tourney chairman; John Dixon, handicaps; Stanley Benkevich, Kielbasi cooker; Rocky Johnson and Jasper Pazniokas, rules committee; Joe Dundulis and Jerry Memmo, admissions committee.

Now comes the big test and Dennis Hebner knows that he will have to produce if he's to make it. We asked him if Richie's playing Major League baseball will help him in the majors. "No chance when you get to go to the majors you have to be a good ball player and it doesn't matter who you are. If you don't produce you don't make it. There are too many good young players and established minor league players trying to make it and I know I make it I'll have to do it on my own and that's the way I want it," Dennis added.

Who are the two people most responsible for him having a chance to play professional baseball? "That's easy," said Dennis, "My mother and father who followed all of us every game we played and without their support Richie or myself or my brother Billy wouldn't even have a chance to think of working in baseball for a living."

Brother Billy is an umpire in the International League and is given an excellent chance of making the majors as an umpire. Wouldn't that be something if some day all three Hebners were playing in same major league game, two as a player and one as an umpire. It could happen.

It may be a few years away but right now in Bradenton, Florida Dennis Hebner is taking step two on his way to a major league career. Maybe he'll make it and maybe he won't but all he wants is the opportunity and right now he has that chance and he realizes that the rest is up to him.

Assembly of God Church Parishioners Active Here

The Walpole Assembly of God Church parishioners are busy. Some of the extra-curricular activities over the past few weeks follow.

The Royal Rangers, fastest growing boys organization in the world, spent a camping trip in New Durham, N.H. at Merry Meeting Lake with eight of their leaders. The group of 25 boys was comprised of the Buck-a-roos, ages 7-8, and the Pioneers, ages 9-11. The older outposts of Royal Rangers Trailblazers, and Air-Sea Rangers were at the churches' Camp Charlton at Charlton, Mass. at the time. The R.R.'s arrived at Merry Meeting Lake Friday evening, August 25, and returned the following Sunday in time for Sunday School. The local chapter of Royal Rangers is made up of boys from several denominations. George Nickerson of East Walpole is president of the Men's Department and is Senior Commander of R.R. and was in charge of the outing.

The Kid's Crusade that was held the following week was exciting and successful. Gene and Judy McKinney, the directors, used puppets and an ingenious piece of equipment which they called the "Gospel Computer". There were 157 boys and girls who attended this crusade and 40 adults.

The following Saturday began with a Men's Breakfast at Howard Johnson's and ended in the evening with a steak fry for the Sunday School staff.

Sunday, Sept. 3 a water baptismal service was held at Massapoag in the afternoon. The winds blew, the rains came, due to Hurricane Carrie, and over 50 people stood drenched on the shore to sing songs of praise as 13 were baptized.

The evening service in the assembly was unique and uplifting as 12 of the men of the church participated in Mens' Day. This is a day which is set aside each year to honor the men. The 'Man of the Year' was chosen by all of the men. Josef Permis Levyssohn was honored this year and was presented an appropriate gift.

Wednesday, Sept. 6, the people of the church gave a surprise party for their Minister of Youth and his new bride, Charles and Peggy Day are residing at 127 School street. They are both graduates from Zion Bible Institute, E. Providence, R.I. having completed their studies there last May.

Reverend Day comes from Lincoln, Mass. and Mrs. Day comes from Burlington, N.J. The Days have begun their duties.

Thursday, the 7th, was the Fall Music Program 'kick-off'. A lovely banquet was served in the basement of the church. Special music was furnished by Reverend David V. Jackson, pastor of the Attleboro Assembly of God. Mr. Jackson also was the featured speaker. Mrs. Mary Lou Ragusa, of Medfield, is music director for the local assembly and was in charge of the affair.

Last Friday evening the youth (Christ's Ambassadors) traveled to Hyannis to a sectional C. A. Rally. The main event of the evening was the showing of a film based on the life of Nicky Cruz. Nicky, now Rev. Cruz, was one of the major characters in the multi-million seller, "The Cross and the Switchblade". He was leader of the much feared Mau Mau gang Six car loads of local youth enjoyed the film and the spirited music.

Sunday, the 10th was Rally Day for the Sunday School. Their goal of 150 was surpassed. Many of the children were given horseback rides after the services. All newcomers and the one who invited them received 'branding' (a patch of white leather burned with an actual branding iron). Also, this Sunday began a six week's enlargement campaign which carries with it a real western flavor, entitled Fall Round-up.

Monday, the 11th two carloads of ladies motored to Taunton for their annual Sectional W.M.C. (Women's Missionary Council) seminar. Here, they elected new officers for the coming year. Mrs. Vina Westover, wife of the local assembly pastor, was elected to head up the S.E. Section Assemblies of God. Mrs. of the So. New England Assemblies of God. Mrs. Westover is also Minister of Education for the Walpole Assembly.

Thursday, Sept. 14, the musical Kroeze Bros. of Everett, Washington will be ministering at the Walpole Assembly. They have ministered in over 50 countries around the world. They will be singing and speaking at the Assembly of God, Rt. 27 at School street, at 7:30 p.m. All are welcome.

This week, Tuesday through Thursday, Sept. 19-21 Pastor Westover will be conducting each evening at 7:30.

Town Manager Proclaims Volunteer Army Month

The Modern Volunteer Army is less than one year from being a reality. To make the public aware of this fact and to help insure the ultimate success of the important national goal, Norwood General Manager John P. Mogan has proclaimed September as "Modern Volunteer Army Month."

A volunteer army has been under consideration since late 1968. Current draft legislation expires on 30, 1973, and unless changed by an act of Congress, the United States Army must rely on a totally volunteer force by that date. Department of Defense plans call for the Army to be reduced to a force of 861,000 troops, down from a peak force of 1,570,000 in late 1968 and early 1969.

The army has had to address itself to many areas of change and improvement to meet the challenge of a volunteer force that will attract highly motivated and dedicated high school students.

Foremost among these was a wage increase to $288.00 per month for enlisted personnel that became effective January 1st of this year. When added to the Army's other well-known extras - food, 30 day paid vacation, clothing, housing, medical and dental coverage, educational opportunity, the Army's position as a viable employer in today's job market is greatly strengthened.

With the Army reducing its size, increased emphasis is placed on building a high quality, professionally motivated force that will be the finest Army this country has known.

Great stress is being given to matching Army responsibilities to a man's skills and qualifications. Young men and women joining today's Army are more rigorously tested to identify their best career aptitudes and interests. Army physical and mental entrance standards have also been raised.

The Army is also putting greater emphasis on the maintenance of educational excellence. In accomplishing this, the Army is emphasizing the enlistment of high school graduates. Enlistments this year clearly indicate a continuing rise in graduate enlistments over previous years.

Qualified non-high graduates are urged to complete their high school education through Army administered courses and tests. Most importantly, the Modern Volunteer Army hopes to set aside working time during the week of personnel to perfect their vocational baccalaureate skills.

With increased emphasis on quality prospects, improved professionalism and more demanding individual training requirements, military benefits that are unmatched in the civilian job market, guaranteed selection of over 300 jobs and a choice of even the work location, the goal of a Modern Volunteer Army appears realistic and promising.

The Town Manager's proclamation follows:

"WHEREAS, A free society such as ours needs a strong army to protect its highest interests in times of grave national peril; and an Army to be strong and effective must be an army entirely contemporary and in tune with the needs of its soldiers as well as the needs of the larger society it serves; and

"WHEREAS, The Modern United States Army is taking new and bold steps to accommodate the legitimate sensitivities and desires of today's young American men and women; and

"WHEREAS, the United States Army offers to many of our brightest and most promising young people the opportunity for education and training in more than 300 different skills and professions, that they may become more useful and responsible citizens of our nation; and

"WHEREAS, Answering the call to the national defense can and should be a highly honorable vocation, meriting the great respect and appreciation of all Americans; NOW, THEREFORE, I, John P. Mogan, MANAGER OF THE TOWN OF NORWOOD, do hereby proclaim the month of September, 1972 as MODERN VOLUNTEER ARMY MONTH in NORWOOD, Massachusetts, and I commend this observance to all our citizens, but especially to those young Norwoodites between the ages of 17 and 21."

At Norwood High . . .

Students With Excessive Absenteeism Will Not Pass

The Norwood School Committee recently adopted a policy recommended by the Advisory Committee, which is composed of students and faculty and the Administration of Norwood High School, regarding excessive, unapproved absences of students from classes. Beginning in September, 1972, any student who is absent more than 25 percent of the class meetings of a course will be ineligible for a passing grade in that course.

Under the new policy, five school days after the student's return. B. Absence for a reason deemed by the principal to be beyond the control of the student and/or guardian or which clearly has educational benefits shall not count toward the 25 percent, provided that the principal excuse such absences within five school days of their occurrence.

C. Parents shall be notified as follows:
1. Telephone call at 10 per cent.
2. Letter at 15 per cent.
3. Conference with parent at 20 per cent.
4. Letter at 25 per cent, notifying parent of loss of credit.

D. It shall be the responsibility of the subject teacher to inform the appropriate vice-principal in writing when 10 per cent, 15 per cent, 20 per cent, and 25 per cent levels of absence are reached.

II. Students considered by their teachers to be capable of meaningful independent study in courses sufficiently goal-oriented for proper evaluation of out-of-course work shall be encouraged to apply for independent study privileges.

This Saturday, 9/23/72, at 8:00 P.M. the Norwood, N.Y. Firemen's Band will present a concert in front of the Town Hall. There will be special seats for the seniors at the drop-in area.

Next Monday, 9/25/72, at 1:00 P.M. Officer William Casey of the Norwood Police Department will present a most interesting discussion of the drug problem in both our society and our town. A question-answer period will follow.

Last Thursday, Guest Speakers, Laurence O'Brien and Frank Walsh of the Housing Authority, openly discussed housing for the elderly, followed by a question-answer period. Frank Walsh delighted everyone singing "My Wild Irish Rose." Refreshments were served by Julia Smith, Kay Shea, Mary Linehan, Jessie O'Brien and Bea Hutchins.

Notice has been received that Curry College has opened up its classes to Senior Citizens (those age 60 and over) free of charge, in an attempt to be of service to people living in Milton and the surrounding towns. Senior citizens may sit in on a class if they have permission of the instructor. A Curry College catalog is at the Drop-In Center if you wish to look up any classes.

The response for donations has been overwhelming. The knitted items, white elephant articles and brand new things are piled high awaiting the Fair on September 30 from 10:00 A.M. to 5:00 P.M. Many thanks to all those who were kind enough to bring articles to the Drop-In Center.

The Drop-In Center is in need of a used portable typewriter with a case, reasonably priced. Please contact Pat Arsenault evenings at 769-3976.

Clapboardtree Fair To Be Held Oct. 18

The First Parish of Westwood, United Church traditionally presents a gala New England fair in the fall which attracts not only ideas of Westwood, but increasing numbers from surrounding towns as well. Thus, the fair chairman Ted Pettigell announces Clapboardtree Fair and Flea Market will take place Saturday, October 14, on the Church grounds at the corner streets.

The careful planning and hard work of the Fair Committee under the leadership of Ted and Phyllis Pettigell has created a complete staff of operating committees and an exciting program. "The most pressing moment," according to Mr. Pettigell "is to enlist material support from the nity in advance of October 14."

He explains, "the general format of the fair is a variety of specialty 'shoppes' in the Parish Hall for the sale of quality merchandise. Virtually all of this merchandise is donated by members and friends of First Parish."

Mr. Pettigell hopes that anyone wishing to support this community-wide event will clean out his closets, attic, and garage for unneeded but still useable items. He also invites ladies who are proud of their culinary skills to do a little baking.

Anyone who cares to donate to the Clapboardtree Fair and Flea Market in its fashion should contact one or more of the following:

China Shoppe - Mrs. Bruce Mather (326-3295)
Gift Shoppe - Mrs. Theodore Pettigell (769-3510)
Book Shop - Mrs. Aram Shamlian (762-6371)
Attic Treasures - Mrs. Roger Spaulding (326-7543)
Used Clothing - Mrs. John Barrington (762-2742)

Once again, the parking area surrounding the Parish Hall will be divided into fifty stall spaces and leased to amateur or professional flea market dealers. In the past dealers have come from all over New England and used wares. Many have found the low space rental of ten dollars, coupled with the high density of people attending the Fair, to be an attractive combination. Over half of the Flea Market stall space has already been rented to dealers, and it will be 100 cent reserved before the occasion.

Event any local interests wish to set up a stall during the Fair, they are urged to Ted Pettigell immediately at 769-3540 for details.

Nursing is presently employed as head nurse at St. Margaret's Hospital Operating Room.

The bridegroom, born in County Roscommon, Ireland, has been a Massachusetts resident for three years. Presently, he is working at the Robert J. Devereaux Corp. Following a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Canada, the couple will make their home in Stoughton.

Bay State Football Season Off And Running Saturday

Needham Eleven Faces Test At Dedham In Lid Lifter

By CALVIN BROWN

The Needham High School football team travels to Stone Park, Dedham this Saturday (September 23rd) to meet the Dedham Marauders in the season opener for both teams. The Rockets have been working hard since the opening day of practice in hopes of improving on last year's 2 - 7 record and reversing the 1971 outcome wherein the Marauders finished on top by a margin of 22 - 8.

Dedham ended up last year with a mark of 4 - 5, scoring 92 points and yielding 201 with Needham having a record of 76 points for and 182 against. Both teams were beaten decisively by the first four clubs (Walpole, Natick, Wellesley and North) and both of them topped Norwood but there the similarity ended. Dedham had the upper hand over Braintree and Milton (Needham was spilled in both of these) while Needham blanked South 15 - 0 with South capturing its lone victory of the year with an 18 - 0 whitewash of the Marauders.

Pre-season workouts have given opposing coaches a thorough look at their charges. Needham looked quite strong against East Boston, outscoring their hosts six touchdowns to one for Eastie. Then last Saturday, the Rockets kept up their winning ways with a 22 - 17 decision over Franklin, a team which has had an unblemished standing for the last two seasons. Junior halfback Roy Heffernan was the standout performer in this one with touchdowns scampers of 47 and 57 yards as he piled up a total of 141 yards for the game. Gary Pugatch and Nick Dell'Erario also looked effective as ball carriers with 53 and 47 yards respectively as Dell'Erario was credited with the Rockets' third score on a two - yard end sweep in the second period.

Dedham has been doing its homework too. After running into trouble against North Quincy in one of its early seasons, it finished on a winning note last Saturday with a 22 - 12 conquest of Concord - Carlisle.

Coach John Bamberry of the Rockets used most of the players regularly against Franklin who will face the opening whistle at Dedham. Brian Kelliher, a junior, will get the call at quarterback, his backfield mates including Gary Pugatch and tri-captain Steve Scheufele at halfbacks and Nick Dell'Erario at fullback. Junior Roy Heffernan, who missed all of his sophomore year due to a shoulder injury, has been very impressive so far to date and he could turn out to be one of the top running backs in the league this year.

On the defensive side of the coin, there will be five primarily defensive players with six of the offensive men who will be operating both on offense and defense. In the line, you'll find Rick Olsen and Frank Carr, both juniors, at tackle and Gary Van Schooneveld posted opposite Newman and Parsons will complete the front five from their defensive end positions. Rick Hawes will be the "Chief," lining up where appropriate behind linebackers Sammarco and Dell'Erario. Defensive halfbacks will be Scheufele and Pugatch with senior Larry Mann back at his familiar safety spot.

Paul Manchester is expected to operate as the number two quarterback with Mann another possibility at the position. In fact, Mann could be slotted at halfback or split end with his speed worth exploiting whenever possible.

This Rocket team has a good chance to finish in the first division of the league this year. Wellesley, North and Natick appear to have too many weapons for the Needhamites but they definitely could be more than competitive with any of their other six opponents. Dedham doesn't have as many returning veterans as Needham but Bob Driscoll may develop at the signal-calling spot and he will have two steady runners to call on in Mark Ruggerio, a junior and Jerry Mucciaccio, a senior. Underclassmen could be sprinkled liberally throughout the Marauders' lineup in contrast to Needham's club, which is senior-oriented with some juniors and no sophomores.

Young Marauler Eleven Hosts Needham Saturday

The curtain will rise on Marauder football Saturday afternoon when the Marauders will host the Needham Rockets at Stone Park at 1:30 p.m. This Rocket-Marauder clash will be a semi-rival game as next to Norwood, Needham is the other opponent that Dedham especially likes to beat.

Year's game is the exact opposite of last season's opener. Last season Needham was the young green team mostly underclassmen. Now, those same Rockets have a season's experience under their belts and are the veteran team in this contest. Dedham, on the other hand, was the veteran club last year and is the younger club this season.

Nevertheless, Dedham's young scrappy 1972 version is ready to go. They have been through four scrimmages and one pre-season game where the younger Marauders have a valuable experience in all of them. Dedham has come a long way from the opening scrimmage against Quincy to the final game-style scrimmage against Concord - Carlisle. The final scrimmage was a game with everything except the kickoffs.

Dedham had a great first half and hung on after a rough second half to come up with a 22-14 victory. Dedham scored all of their points in that first half on the arm of quarterback Bob Driscoll and the running of Jerry Bradbury. We will discuss this scrimmage later in the story.

Dedham's starting lineup was still up in the air at press time, but one thing was sure. That is Coach Don Seager is using everyone of his 37 ball players in uniform. There is plenty of competition for steady jobs on the varsity. Dedham has used almost two plato units with a few exceptions who play both ways.

The key in Dedham's lineup and the hopes of a winning are the lines, both offense and defense. These interior horses have to move people out. The offensive line is young and quick. Junior Bill Campbell has been blocking very well in the scrimmages and has the starting nod at right tackle. He will also get his licks on offense.

Opposite Campbell is Dan Healy, a hard nosed junior, who plays both ways. The two guards are both juniors — Tom Burnham and John Fraser. The latter plays outside linebacker on defense also. Centering has been shored by Junior Mark Mulhern, who probably will start and freshman Nick Memmo, who is scheduled for plenty of action.

The defense also has its share of good linemen. Some of this line came out late for pre-season practice, but have caught up with the program. Two key linemen on defense who will really help Dedham as shown in the scrimmages are big Bob Shamon who leveled the Concord backs quite a few times, and sophomore Rich Gazonni, who has played well on defense.

The defensive ends would probably be either Dan Healy or Jerry Mucciaccio, both of whom will be in their share of tackles and on the otherwise another hard nosed junior — Steve Ziino. These lines are where they money is for Dedham. If they can do it, the Marauder season will be interesting.

McGuire Back

The offensive ends will be John McGuire and Tony Rinella. Both of these seniors go both ways as defensive backs. Both have done things well in the scrimmages. In the Concord scrimmage, Rinella caught a 37-yard TD pass and an extra point pass. He also made some tackles moving up from that safety spot. McGuire caught a 33-yard pass that set up a TD and then two plays later, he caught the TD pass. Then late in the game, he knocked down a pass on the Dedham two that could have meant a tie game. "Wheatie" is a few more things like kicking off and share of the punting. He is the jack of all trades on the gridiron.

Speed in Backfield

The offensive backfield has that speed. Junior Jerry Bradbury showed it when he raced 39 yards for a touchdown. He ran through the middle and outraced everyone. Brad also made a few tackles. The bread and butter man, Jerry Accio, will get that inside important short yardage have an excellent passer. The Rebels have the system and they could be just as strong as last year defensively. Watch out for this kid Stuber and watch out for Walpole. South has been humbled by injuries and starting quarterback Paul O'Neill will be missed. Ron Harris is a breakaway runner who will have to be stopped on Lee and his Rebels will. WALPOLE BY TWELVE.

NATICK BY MILTON
Milton has a new coach and a new system and maybe it will take a few games for the Whiz Kids to get moving. Natick has a veteran team led by Jack Trabucco and they always have numbers. The Redmen should win this one in a breeze but in this Bay State League anything can happen. The game will be played at Milton and this will be an advantage but we have to stick with Natick with their All-around depth and we rate Natick as a tight contender. NATICK BY EIGHTEEN.

Norwood At Braintree In Opener; Rated A Tossup

By FRANK WALL

Norwood Coach John Doherty and his Norwood Mustang football team will open the season this Saturday when they journey to Hollis Field in Braintree for a contest with the over dangerous Braintree Wamps.

The game is scheduled to start at 1:30 p.m. and the contest is rated as a tossup with both teams having veterans back and both teams rated about even in the Bay State League race this season.

For Norwood it will be Coach John Doherty's second year at the helm and he hopes to improve greatly on the Norwood record of 1-8 last year while Eddie Beck and his Wamps will also be trying to improve on their 4-5 mark of last season.

The Norwood team will start 10 veterans in the game, five on offense, and five on defense with five of the players going both ways while Braintree will be starting six veterans with their big threat to passing of veteran quarterback Bob Thayer who Coach Eddie Beck rates as the best quarterback in the Bay State League.

"I'm apprehensive about the 1972 season and I look to change things around from our past year's. We will open up a lot and think we have the offense to do it. We have with his bull-like running. Mark Ruggerio, well - we all know what he will do - he is ready for action both ways.

Quarterback Bob Driscoll has shown he's got what it takes as he led Dedham with his arm in the Concord scrimmage. His totals through the air in that one were 9 for 11 attempted and 145 yards. Bob is showing that leadership which we need.

The defensive backfield has a couple of new inside linebackers in John Conroy and Dick Trethewey, who will be making their first start. Veterans in this unit are McGuire, Rinella, and Ruggerio. Another newcomer is Bruce Fraser who looks like a sure tackler.

Look for these reserves to see plenty of action like linemen Scott Dyer, Fred Ellis, Bob Steele, and Joe Lavin. Backs Rick Mucciaccio, Mike Donovan, Al Small, and the Tighe brothers — Tim and Chris will also see plenty of action. Chris Tighe also is doing a good job as the team's punter.

This is a young club who will improve as they have shown in the scrimmages. Their football education is coming very fast.

Walpole's Burke BSL President

Walpole High School Athletic Director Jim Burke has been named President of the Bay State League Athletic Directors for the 1972-73 season. The Walpole Athletic Director is a graduate of Brighton High School and Boston University where he was a three sports star athlete. He also was an Assistant Coach of Walpole High School in hockey. Vice President and Treasurer is Dick Ryan of Milton with Bud Hynes of Wellesley the new secretary.

Still A League Threat...

Defending Champion Rebs Are At South For Opener

"We are facing our biggest challenge in the opener against Framingham South, next Saturday, at Bowditch field. Our prospects and hopes for 1972 depend on the outcome of this game. We have a green, inexperienced club with no returning starters. Co-captains Steve Caputo at guard and Ajim Morris at tight end along with kick-off specialist Chris Crown are the only returning veterans of last year's Bay State League and Mass. State Rebel Coach John Lee.

As of now, the General told us, he couldn't name five certain starters for the first game. The General and his coaching staff are still seeking and searching.

We feel sure that with the great competitive spirit and determination these candidates are showing, they will be ready to prove themselves in the opener. There may be a surprise (and a big jolt) in store for South on their home field.

If Walpole gets the blocking they have three good ball carriers in tail back Ed Stubar, wing back Bill Caskey, and fullback Joe DiGiantomaso who can go for long jaunts, and the Rebels will put points on the board. Bill Jankowski will also see action.

With quarterback Jim Berluti throwing his long bombs to ends Jim Morris and Jim Smith they should keep kick-off specialists in many years for the Mustangs in Senior John (Bubba) White who can boom the ball into the end zone and also can kick field goals and is almost automatic on extra points. Looks like a well rounded Norwood unit that will be at Braintree for the opener.

Braintree Strong
Braintree will be a strong opponent for the Mustangs in the opener. They will have a pair of veteran ends in Paul Dunhill (175) and Dan O'Brien (160). Both are seniors and 6 ft. O'Brien is also the punter.

At tackles it will be senior John Casey (225) and the outstanding veteran John LeRoy (190) who Beck expects to be one of the best two way tackles in the league.

At the guards will be the Murphy brothers senior Kevin (180) and Junior Mike (160). Kevin will also be a linebacker on defense and Beck expects him to be one of the best in the league if not the state. The center is Mike Hurrie (179) who is a letterman from last year.

Senior quarterback Bob Thayer is a 6-4-185 pounder who is rated highly by Beck and he is expected to be one of the better passers and field generals in the league.

Junior letterman Mark Williams (172) is at left halfback and Marty Barrett, a speedster and a three year veteran who can go all the way and is one of the best receivers on the team will be at right halfback. The fullback is Senior John Desmond (175) or Al MacKinnin (175) who also plays defense.

Added starters on defense are defensive end John Hurstuck (165) who is a solid veteran and rated one of the best in the league. Edwin Beck at 136 is one of the safety starters and Steve Murray (170) Ken Driscoll (175) and Dave Swanton (185) add strength on defense.

Looks like a pair of solid clubs in action Saturday and the game will be played at the same Hollis Field despite the new high school in Braintree.

the defense honest. This will be the Rebel's big threat and could add up to a successful season for Walpole.

From last season, with North, Wellesley, Natick, Needham and Norwood all building for 1972 this season could and probably will go down to the wire, as they maul each other. Our pick is for Wellesley, and North facing each other in the opener, and whoever wins this contest, to emerge as the leagues top contender. This will be an all out contest and may leave, both weakened, for their second game.

The Rebels will be in this one, all the way, and may shoot some of the big ones down. They will be a light team so it will be speed and quickness and their big running threat will be outside.

On defense, Steve Caputo and Jim Morris will bolster the line, and for the backs, Ed Stubar and Bill Jankowski at safety and as Monster Man, have been outstanding. So far nine seniors and five juniors till fighting it out as offensive starters and this year's Rebel Club will be well represented by underclassmen.

In practice scrimmages with other schools, North Quincy, Newton North, and South, Concord and Willamantic, Conn. although the Rebels haven't been overpowering on defense, their running game has been strong and the backs have been sweeping for good yardage.

Paul Brennan, the bulldog of last year's J.V. squad is still sidelined with a broken finger, so is a questionable starter at tackle. Bob Johnson, who was making a big play for the fullback berth is out with an injured knee. Other than minor pains and bruises the squad is in great shape and ready to take on South this Saturday. In this one we are picking Walpole by six points over South. Once again we can expect the General to dip into his bag of tricks and come up with some surprises for unsuspecting opponents. One of which is the field goal kicking of Chris Crown who has come a long way in practice and this will be a big Rebel threat. Quarterback Jim Berluti and Bill Jankowski have been getting off some tremendous punts so kicking will be one of Walpole's strong weapons.

Walpole will be a strong opponent for the Mustangs in the opener. They will have a pair of veteran ends in Paul Dunhill (175) and Dan O'Brien (160). Both are seniors and 6 ft. O'Brien is also the punter.

At tackles it will be senior John Casey (225) and the outstanding veteran John LeRoy (190) who Beck expects to be one of the best two way tackles in the league.

At the guards will be the Murphy brothers senior Kevin (180) and Junior Mike (160). Kevin will also be a linebacker on defense and Beck expects him to be one of the best in the league if not the state. The center is Mike Hurrie (179) who is a letterman from last year.

Senior quarterback Bob Thayer is a 6-4-185 pounder who is rated highly by Beck and he is expected to be one of the better passers and field generals in the league.

Junior letterman Mark Williams (172) is at left halfback and Marty Barrett, a speedster and a three year veteran who can go all the way and is one of the best receivers on the team will be at right halfback. The fullback is Senior John Desmond (175) or Al MacKinnin (175) who also plays defense.

Added starters on defense are defensive end John Hurstuck (165) who is a solid veteran and rated one of the best in the league. Edwin Beck at 136 is one of the safety starters and Steve Murray (170) Ken Driscoll (175) and Dave Swanton (185) add strength on defense.

Looks like a pair of solid clubs in action Saturday and the game will be played at the same Hollis Field despite the new high school in Braintree.

KC Council Looks Back on 75 Years Of Columbianism

Event-Filled Week To Mark Diamond Jubilee

By BOB HENRY

Norwood Council 252 birth above James M. Folan's Knights of Columbus. Shoe Store on Washington St. celebrates its 75th year of Columbianism with a full week of activities starting Sunday, with a T.V. Mass at the Government Center in Boston (Ch. 7). Mass will be celebrated by our chaplain, Father Burekhardt, and assisted by St. Catherine's choir.

The activities end on Saturday night, September 8th, with a 75th Anniversary dance to be held at the Council hall.

In between, there is something for all members and their families. On Monday, there will be an Anniversary dinner at the Council hall; on Tuesday, the Bowlers take over, with refreshments served in the hall for both leagues. Wednesday is Mothers' and Daughters' Night — Thursday is the big Bingo game, open to all members and guests, and on Friday, a dance will be held for the teenagers of the town.

Grand Knight Bill Collins and his staff have put in many hours planning this week — so all come and enjoy the festivities.

Appearing below (thanks to Brother Knight John Cook) is a chronological history of the Norwood Council, since its inception in 1897 over Mr. Folan's Shoe Store.

Many of the Brothers mentioned will bring back fond memories, for they worked long and diligently to put Norwood Council 252 right up there with the leaders.

We are now looking forward to our next 75 years of Columbianism.

HOW IT BEGAN
Norwood Council No. 252, Knights of Columbus had its birth above James M. Folan's Knights of Columbus. Shoe Store on Washington St. in 1897. Catholicism had yet to make a significant impact on the Town in those days. The present St. Catherine's Church wasn't to be built until 12 years later.

However, 34 men launched the Council on September 25, 1897, which has grown into the second largest, and one of the most active, in Massachusetts. They were gathered together through the initiative of John E. Folan of Mt. Pleasant Council, Hyde Park, and Thomas A. Houlihan of Cambridge Council.

The charter members were initiated in Hyde Park. Then on October 14, 1897, the first officers were installed at Conger Hall. Mr. Houlihan, who was a foreman at Berwick & Smith, was elected Grand Knight and William H. McMorro, Deputy Grand Knight. Meeting nights were twice monthly at Odd Fellows Hall.

Right from the beginning, the Council began to manifest itself with religious and social commitments. Examples were receiving Communion in a body on Pentecost Sunday and the beginning of the annual Communion Breakfast in 1898. A scholarship was started and a donation was made to Carney Hospital.

The annual Ladies Night began in 1898 indicating that social activities have been part of the Council's life right from its early days. The Minstrel Shows, which were to become an entertainment highlight of the Town for a quarter century, got underway February 27, 1905, in Conger Hall.

In 1905 the Council returned to the second floor of Folan's building for meetings and remained there until 1908 when Conger Hall became its permanent "home" — Callahan Hall, above the furniture store. A record number of members from any Norwood organization — 85, went into the service during World War I. One Brother, Fred Morgan, lost his life. With War Relief funds as the objective, the Council launched its annual carnivals at Elks Park.

The Council sponsored a basketball team in the 1920s and Everett Hall in the Civic would be packed with enthusiastic fans. In 1926, money was donated for a room in the Norwood Hospital, furnishings in the Convent, and a room in the Rectory — all new structures.

The Rt. Rev. Francis L. Phelan of St. Catherine's, noted for his Boys' Fife & Drum Corps served as Chaplain in the 1920s and was later State Chaplain.

The Bowling League started in 1934 with eight teams and Anthony Martino as the first Commissioner. In a few years, the League grew so large that in one season, matches had to be divided among the Day Street, Talbot, Elks, and South Norwood Alleys. Then in 1939 the League moved to the Sport Center where it peaked to 42 teams in the 1960's and still remains the largest league in the Town.

Through the 1930s and '40s, the Council constantly debated the pros and cons of either purchasing the building they were in or trying to find property elsewhere for a new facility. Land opposite St. Catherine's Church was among the locations considered.

82 SERVED COUNTRY
World War II came and 82 Brothers served their country. All returned except Patrick J. Costello. The men in the service were remembered with gifts and all Council funds were converted to War Bonds. One Grand Knight, Raymond T. Halloran, had his term interrupted by military service.

In 1942, youthful Brothers John J. Murphy and John E. Keary won the Statewide Debating championship. The Council's Blood Donor program was started at this time.

Although the Council noted its milestones every five years, its 50th Anniversary Ball at the Junior High School on Sept. 27, 1947, was one of the greatest events in the Council's history.

With Edward J. King as Grand Knight and membership now at 600, the Golden Jubilee

Two K. of C. Events Are Cancelled

Due to unavoidable circumstances, the Norwood Knights of Columbus Mother and Daughter Night, originally scheduled for Wednesday, Sept. 27, and the Teen Dance, scheduled for Friday, Sept. 29, will not be held at those times. They will be rescheduled later.

began with a Mass on Sunday, Sept. 21. The celebrant was Council Chaplain, Rev. Christopher P. Griffin, who later was to become State Chaplain. The sermon was by Msgr. Jeremiah F. Minihan, Pastor of St. Catherine's, and State Chaplain of the K. of C.

The principal speaker at the Ball was Most Rev. Richard J. Cushing, Archbishop of Boston. PGK Thomas J. Folan, Jubilee Chairman, presented the Archbishop with $2,000.00 for his charities.

During the administration of GK Edward J. Campbell, 1948-49, Brother Ambrose J. Kelly was honored for his fundraising efforts for the Council going back through the World War II years. In 1951 began a custom which has been followed since, that of the officers donning aprons and waiting on the members at the annual corned beef and cabbage night.

The Council began sponsoring a softball team and a golf league was started on Tuesday nights at Wampatuck in Canton. It later moved to Ponkapoag in Canton and continues to flourish with several tournaments held each season.

In 1953, Msgr. Griffin was transferred to the South Station Chapel, and his departure was noted with a banquet. Bishop Minihan became the new Chaplain. The Council pledged $5,000 to St. Catherine's School Fund.

NEW SITE ACQUIRED

In 1955 during the term of GK Valentine Balutis, efforts for a new quarters began in earnest. A Site Committee was formed under the chairmanship of Frank L. Walsh and the Land Purchase Committee headed by Joseph R. Kelly.

a Building Corporation was formed headed by Edmund B. Flynn. Succeeding Grand Knights, James P. Collins, Richard F. McGrath and Robert F. Gearty, presided over the laborious groundwork that led to the completion of the new quarters. Finally in 1960, with Daniel W. Sullivan at the helm, the new building was finished.

Credit for achieving the Council's first home of its own could be shared among many individuals. Several Brothers devoted many hours to physically clearing the property. Architects Francis Quann and Vincent Iannone gave their talent for the creation of the $130,000 building.

With all the work coordinated by Brother Flynn, several Brothers who were in various businesses contributed materials and services. The spacious quarters, with seating for 500, a kitchen, a recreation room, and an ample parking lot, has served to provide a setting more conducive to fraternity in the Council.

The hall was dedicated to Bishop Minihan, and in 1962 a 4th Degree Assembly was formed in his honor. A poignant touch was added in 1966 when the eternal light in honor of President John F. Kennedy, a brother Knight, was placed on top of the flag pole.

With membership soaring to the 1200's in the 1960's, the Council continued to flourish.

An indication of the continuing prestige and interest of its officers were the number who became District Deputies.

In recent years they include Clifford F. Pearl, John P. Tarpey, Daniel W. Sullivan, John J. Donovan who presently serves as State Advocate, District Deputies going back through the years include Francis W. Whitty, Edward J. King, Albert F. Connolly, Thomas J. Foley, Vincent Carolan, John P. Crowley, and William F. Smith.

COUNCIL HIGHLIGHTS

The distinction of being the oldest and senior member goes to Thomas P. Drumme, now 95 years of age, he joined the Council in 1901, only four years after the Council started.

Fred M. Adelmann joined in 1909 and was Grand Knight 1917-1919. Other living former Grand Knights going back 35 to 52 years include Edward A. Flaherty, 1919-1920; Francis J. Curran, 1929-1931; Michael J. Curran, 1932-1934; and Coleman J. Foley, 1935-1937.

Brothers Drumme and Adelmann appeared in the first Council Minstrel Show in 1905.

The "Dean" of active K. of C. bowlers now is George Cashman, a mere 71 years of age. He started as a substitute back in 1938. Bowling as a spare last year and probably still willing and able to fill in some night for some young fellow who can't make it is Francis Carroll, a spry 87 years. Two Brothers have bowled in the League since it started in 1934 — Henry J. Cronan and Anthony J. Russett.

If you want to see the birthplace of the Norwood Council, go to the insurance company building at the southeasterly corner of Central and Day streets. This was the structure which contained Mr. Folan's Shoe Store on the first floor and offices and a meeting room on the second floor. It was moved from Washington St. in 1910.

In this edition we have only touched some of the high points in the 75 year history of the Norwood Council.

If we have missed any important events or failed to give recognition to any individuals who made outstanding contributions to the council, we are sorry.

Charming Atmosphere, Happy Students Combine In Making Dining At Peabody A Pleasure

By INEZ REABDON

"I never even knew it was here." That's what most people say after being introduced to a pleasant dining experience at the Henry O. Peabody School in Norwood. Charming, comfortable, and cozy aptly describes the attractive knotty pine paneled dining room which is open to the public from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. on days, and has been in existence for the past 30 years since the school was built.

Their customers are about 50 percent teachers, many businessmen and women, and other Norwood residents. On some particular day, perhaps a mailman can be seen setting his mailbag aside and sitting down to lunch; on another, four lady tennis players, in tennis skirts and jackets in hand, can be observed entering the dining room.

One of the most striking things about the workers is that they all look so happy and seem to be enjoying their work. The dining room is run by students under the leadership of Miss Linda J. Peterson, Dining Room Management Instructor, and on-the-job training obtained through the preparation of a varied menu and served daily in a cheerful dining room give these young people invaluable experience. Actually, it is a complete restaurant on a small scale and the courses taught include Cooking, Salad Preparation and Dining Room Management.

Additional Vehicles Serve Newton School Bus Routes

The total number of school buses transporting Newton schoolchildren stood at 25 earlier this week, with an additional one to be added to the line tomorrow (Friday).

In an official report given to the School Committee Monday night by James W. Cameron, Administrative Assistant in the School Department for Business Services, the following list of buses was quoted as being in use as of last Friday, with 24 running:

Newton High School, eight buses; Newton South High School, 13; Bigelow Junior High (Ward School area), one; Meadowbrook Junior High School, eight; Weeks Junior High, four; Warren Junior High, seven; Burr Elementary, one; Countryside Elementary, two; and Spaulding Elementary, one.

Cameron also noted the one additional bus had been allocated to serve Meadowbrook and Newton South High School on Monday of this week. "We also have been able to spring one more bus to handle Meadowbrook and South High," which will start tomorrow.

The bus assigned on Monday is counted as the eighth one for Meadowbrook and the 13th for South High; it leaves Dudley Rd. via Florence and Louise at 7:10 a.m., and arrives at Meadowbrook at 7:25. It then departs Varick and Beacon Sts. via Woodward at 7:30 and arrives at Newton South High at 7:50.

The 26th bus, to be added tomorrow morning, will serve the Meadowbrook-Weeks-South High area, according to Cameron. It will first leave Audubon and High Rock Sts. at about 7:15 a.m., and arrive at Meadowbrook at 7:30. It will then pick up children for Weeks and Meadowbrook in what is predicted to be a seven-or eight-minute drive.

In addition to these two new buses, another stop has been added on the Meadowbrook School route serving the Upper Falls section. As of yesterday, a stop is being made at Oak and Elliot Sts.

Cameron said that no new buses or routes are annexed to the lines until his office first notifies the principals of the schools involved. The principals then pass the word along to the parents, the children, and the community being served by

9 Schools Revive Hallowe'en Party

Plans for Newton's limited Halloween celebration are being revived and are moving along according to Mrs. Esther G. Toher, general chairman.

The parties, to be held on Tuesday evening, October 31, are being sponsored by the Newton Recreation Department in cooperation with the Parent-Teacher Associations of the participating schools.

The Recreation Department had for many years sponsored city-wide Halloween observances involving thousands of the city's young people, but last year the program was discontinued because some groups did not display enough interest in it.

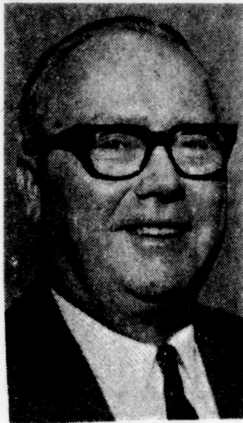

As a result of a telephone survey of school principals and PTA's last fall, and correspondence in March of this year, the following nine schools expressed a desire to participate in the program.

The schools and the Halloween Party Chairmen as submitted by the PTA presidents include: Carr School, Larry Westwater; Countryside School, Mrs. Nancy Springer with Mrs. Milton Tessel, co-chairman; Davis School, Gerard Byrne; Hamilton School, Mrs. Diane Hindman assisted by Co-chairman Mrs. Sue Sasaki; Hyde School, John Lawton and Richard Mezger, co-chairman; Lincoln-Eliot School, Mr. and Mrs. C. Josepy Pasquorosa; Memorial School, Mrs. Maida Scheinfeld; Bigelow Junior High School, Giles Threadgill and the Newton Youth Center at Warren Junior High School, Mrs. Karen Wright.

An organizational meeting will be held at the Recreation Department Headquarters, 70 Crescent Street, Auburndale, Monday, October 2, at 7:45 p.m.

Mrs. Toher and others with experience will brief the chairmen on activities and planning for the parties at the schools. Other members of the Recreation Department working on the Halloween plans include Commissioner John B. Penney, Senior Recreation Supervisor, James E. Murphy, Recreation Supervisor William J. Barry, Recreation Supervisor Robert E. Doherty, and Recreation Leader Ralph Hamilton

ROBERT TENNANT
Pick Tennant As Candidate In 12th Dist.

Alderman Robert L. Tennant will replace Dr. William Seegltz on the Republican side of the 12th Middlesex Dist. state representative ballot for the November election.

Dr. Seegltz withdrew from the race shortly after the primary. He said that as he went further into the legislative race, he discovered more "conflicts" with his job.

"I realized that I probably could not do a good job in both positions," Seegltz said.

Members of the four north side Republican Committees of Newton met last Thursday and selected Tennant to fill the vacancy. Former State Fire Marshal Ralph L. Garrett was also nominated as a replacement, but withdrew in the "interests of party harmony" to support the alderman's candidacy.

A lifelong resident of the city, Tennant, 63, attended Newton schools and earned his B.A. CANDIDATE—(See Page 4)

One More Hurdle Cleared At Meeting

Revaluation Vote Oct. 2

Revaluation cleared one more hurdle Monday night and will come before the Board of Aldermen for a vote on Oct. 2.

On a motion from Ald. Elliot K. Cohen, the Legislation and Rules Committee voted to accept a subcommittee report that suggests revaluation begin in the city with the recommendation that the mayor present a plan to effect the subcommittee report to the aldermen.

Committee members voted 6-0 in favor of Cohen's motion and two aldermen, Richard J. Bullwinkle and Andrew J. Magni, abstained.

Money to begin the 2-year process of revaluing the city's property was earmarked in the administration budget submitted in January. During budget debates, the $150,000 administration budget submitted in January. During budget debates, the $150,000 sum was transferred to the city reserve account by aldermen when Ald. Robert Gaynor led a successful fight to stall the revaluation undertaking.

In addition to voting on the Legislation and Rules Committee decision, the Board of Aldermen will also have to approve the transfer of the $150,000.

Monday night's committee meeting was attended by the additional aldermen, the city assessors, City Solicitor Melvin J. Dangel, and about 40 residents.

Among the residents in the audience were those that have vowed to institute a taxpayers suit to force revaluation if aldermanic action turns out to be against it.

The citizens' attorney, Richard J. Gellerman, spoke on their behalf.

"The factual evidence is clear," Gellerman told the committee, "Homes built 40 or 50 years ago are assessed at a much lower percentage."

"Our suit would have the court tell the city to do what they should have done anyway. If the city goes ahead (with revaluation), there would be no purpose to the suit."

Ald. Gaynor reiterated the reasons for his opposition to the proposal saying that use hardships for people receiving abatements, would cause the city to lose money through the cost of revaluation and the cut in revenue from utilities which already pay the current tax rate on a 100 per cent basis, and that everyone's tax bills would go up because the city must go to "full and fair market value," which by a court decision means 100 per cent assessments.

The alderman said a petition was circulating in Newton and 1,500 signatures had been obtained in opposition in a four-day period.

It was not really clear what impact revaluation would have

Call In '75

A recently released study of telephone service has ranked Newton among the poorest service areas in Eastern Massachusetts.

The study, conducted by the Arthur D. Little Co., cited local problems due to central office switching equipment deficiencies and made note of a dial tone problem in the city that has existed for two years and is not expected to be eradicated until 1974 or 1975.

New England Telephone, however, will be required to investigate the service in Newton considered a priority area, in an attempt to come up with a solution this year or in 1973.

Dr. Carter Is Acting Dean At Pine Manor Coll.

he has taught at Colgate University, Stanford University, and Purdue University, and was Dean of the College at Braintree College from 1963 to 1970.

Dr. Carter notes that his experiences at all-male Princeton and Colgate and at co-educational Stanford and Purdue greatly influenced his choice to work within a woman's college.

According to Carter, "At Stanford and at Purdue I notice that women were embarrassed to excel in academic work. I

$3-Million Park For Local Area

Plans for a $3 million regional park and playground center along the Charles River in-

Newton and Weston were announced by the Metropolitan District Commission last week.

Clean-Up Is Underway At River Cove

In cooperation with Waltham and the Metropolitan District Commission, Newton is working to clean up the River Cove section of the Charles river.

The Cove is near the Newton disposal site and polluted water had been working its way into a culvert and into the cove. The Newton Public Works Dept. ealed the culvert pipe under the disposal site leading to the cove.

When the work was completed, the MDC began a chemical treatment program to control algae and aquatic vegetation growth and plans to eventually install an aeration system to prevent further deterioration of the water quality in the Charles River.

Willard S. Pratt, director of Public Works, commented recently that the action should help to eliminate the odor and mosquito problems in that area.

Overall plans for Riverside Park have received commission approval, and Commissioner John W. Sears is expected to select a consulting architect shortly to prepare final contract designs.

The MDC said it hopes to begin work in four or five months, with the objective of completing the skating rink in time for next season.

Highlights of Riverside Park—located near the intersection of Routes 128 and 30 and the Massachusetts Turnpike and close by the Riverside MBTA Station—include:

—Aumond and a Little League field, both with spectator stands and provision for car parking.

—Tennis courts, four outside and four to be used inside the new skating rink during the off season.

—Six landing docks for boats and canoes along the Charles. —A children's playground. PARK—(See Page 4)

Newtonites In Key Roles At Tufts Research Center

NEWTON TAXPAYERS! GOT A BIGGER HOLE IN YOUR POCKET?

High School — Will you pay almost $5 million more than when plan was sold?

Taxpayers' Ass'n plan would have saved $2.5 million then, more now

Junior College — You will pay $1/2 million yearly and rising, though all studies show Newton's continuing liability is not warranted

Taxpayers' Ass'n calls for cut-off, not later than 1974-75 school year

Public Health — You may yet pay for a high-priced "Big Program" Commissioner

Taxpayers' Ass'n has long urged equally competent Board of Public Health plus Administrator - to save $15,000 and up yearly.

Salaries — School and city pay scales have gone up 35-45 per cent in past five years, plus some get shorter hours, some get more aides, all get more fringe gains.

Taxpayers' Association asks, "Have YOU Done As Well?"

etc. etc. etc.

SO — Your 1972 Tax Bill Is More Than 15 % Higher! That caps a 5-year rise of over 83%!

In Such Circumstances should we begin paying salaries and fringe benefits to hitherto unpaid Boards — starting with the Board of Aldermen?

Let City Hall — and the Taxpayers' Ass'n — Know About You and Your Taxes! Before Aldermen vote, October 2.

Graduated Tax Foe To Speak Monday Night

Edward F. King, executive director of the Committee for Jobs and the graduated income tax next Monday (Oct. 2) at 8 p.m. in the Newton Community Center, 429 Cherry st., West Newton.

"The graduated income tax proposal which will appear on the November ballot is one of the most vicious and insidious schemes ever presented to the voters of Massachusetts," King said.

Admission is free. The speaker is sponsored by Americans for Constitutional Action.

King said he would also welcome the opportunity to speak to civic, fraternal, and similar organizations on the subject.

Two Ward Recount Set For Nelson

Ballots in two Newton wards will be recounted Friday at beginning at 9 a.m. under a petition from Avi Nelson, Republican candidate for Congress.

Petitions were received and approved by the Election Commission for wards seven and eight in the city. Nelson had also submitted recount petitions from wards one and two, but they were invalidated by the Election Commission.

Alan Learle, executive secretary of the Election Commission, said that the recount will probably be concluded Friday.

Nelson, in unofficial tallies received 1,137 votes in last week's primary and lost to Martin A. Linsky in the city, who received 1,420 votes.

By CYNTHIA BLACK

The PTA will probably be happy to hear that it served as the gateway into the political arena for at least one city leader.

William Carmen, 53, started out there in the 1940's, and went on to serve the city in various capacities through the years, including leading the neophyte Newton Housing Authority, and serving on the Newton Youth Advisory Committee, the Board of Aldermen and the board of directors of the Newton Mental Health clinic, among others.

Carmen discussed his gradual involvement in city affairs in an interview last week.

He explained that when his three daughters began to go to school, he became a member of the PTA's. In 1946, it was the Ward Elementary School, and by 1958, he had seen his daughters all the way through to Newton High School, including a stint in Bigelow Jr. High School's group.

Eventually, Carmen, who works in real estate management, spent some time as president of each school's Parent-Teacher Association and also chaired on the building committees.

"That's where I learned that building costs were going to keep going up. I realized that it was best to act quickly on construction and not put it off because it would just cost more money," he explained.

Ward School got its then new addition, Bigelow got a new building. "The new Bigelow Jr. High really should have been built in the late 1950's," Carmen said, "but it wasn't done until the late 60's and it probably cost double what it would have."

School construction was tied in to Carmen's first bid for the mayor's job too.

One of the reasons he ran in 1965, he said, was because the construction of a new Newton High School was at issue. If the high school were to be built, he said, he felt it should be without delay, a position dictated by past experience.

The estimated cost for its construction in 1966, he said, was $10 million. The cost of the high school, to be completed in February, 1973, has reached $18 million, and that's without landscaping, he said.

His opponent in that election was Monte G. Basbas. Carmen added that as mayor, Basbas did appoint a committee to study construction of a new high school, but the contract for it did not go out until right before he left office at the end of 1971.

The political arena.

"My idea of politics is that it is an extension of community service. I'm not a professional politician."

"But I learned that if you want to get things done, you have to get involved in politics."

WILLIAM CARMEN

Carmen returned to explaining his steady procession of events that have led to his current position in the city.

During the mid-1950's, the Newton Youth Advisory

Banking has become a highly competitive business in recent years. Since 1930, the number of banks has decreased because of the hundreds of mergers. Competition and other factors caused banks to offer higher interest rates on deposits. Banks also added many new services to attract customers. The use of computers and data processing equipment has speeded up banking and made it more efficient. Ultra modern bank buildings are now spacious and more attractive, a departure from the solemn and sometimes gloomy older bank buildings.

The local youths are as follows: Jayne T. Fitzgerald, a student at the Country Day School of the Sacred Heart in Newton; M. Kevin Flynn, a student at St. Sebastian's Country Day School in Newton.

These 23 youngsters were among those in Massachusetts who received the highest qualifying scores on the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test-National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test, given last October to more than a million students nationwide.

All the Semifinalists, about 15,000 total, constitute less than one percent of the graduating secondary school seniors in the U. S.

Semifinalists must advance to Finalist standing to be considered for the Merit Scholarships to be awarded next spring. Semifinalists become Finalists by receiving the endorsement of their schools, confirming their high PSAT-NMSQT performance on a second examination, and providing information about their accomplishments and interests.

The "HAPPY Times" Club of Newton will have its first fall meeting next Wednesday (Oct. 4) at 8 p.m. at the Pomroy House, 84 Eldredge street, Newton Corner.

Members of this club are women of any age, most of whom have been discharged from state schools for the retarded and are now working in Newton homes. The organization is sponsored by the Newton chapter of the Greater Boston Association for Retarded Children, of which Mrs. Harvey Chansky is chairman. Volunteers from the Newton area are needed to transport the women to and from the meetings. Meetings are held once a month, usually the first Wednesday, from 8 to 9:45 p.m. Drivers would be welcome to stay and participate in the meeting, or could return at 9:45 to take the women home.

Driving time is about 30 to 40 minutes for each route. Eight meetings are planned for 1972-73.

Persons interested in helping or wishing further information should call Mrs. Schaechter after 3:30 p.m. at 969-5692, or Mrs. Chansky at BI 4-7310.

Carmen

Committee was formed and Carmen was its chairman. He said the committee conducted a student survey in the schools to find out the timbre of the student mind.

"Their problems in 1970 are no different than what they were 15 to 20 years earlier."

At the beginning of the last decade, the mental health clinic appeared in Newton, and Carmen was asked to join the board of directors.

At that time, he had also been asked to serve in the new Newton Housing Authority, and in 1961, was elected an alderman for the first of his two terms.

He also spent two years as the president of the Mental Health Clinic board of directors and has served as a financial advisor to the group up to the present day.

He served as chairman of the Housing Authority during a two-year term from 1960-62, and was later appointed to a five-year term on the Authority by Mayor Donald L. Gibbs.

"That was when we planned and built all of the low income elderly housing in the city. Not one unit of this type of housing has been built since."

"There are a lot of elderly people in our city who need the housing, and I think it's sad."

Carmen left the Housing Authority in 1967. He was up for re-appointment, he explained, but Mayor Basbas did not want him re-appointed and told him so privately. He asked if Carmen would turn down the appointment when it was offered, he said, and Carmen refused.

From 1964 until he ran again for mayor in 1969, Carmen was involved in other activities including assuming the leadership of two United Fund drives in the city, which were the two most successful in the city's history, he said.

The last mayoral campaign produced a field of four candidates; three Democrats and one Republican, Theodore D. Mann.

Carmen lost the election to Mann by about 900 votes. Discussing it, he discounted the fourth candidate, who made only a token showing, and turned his attention to Paul Malloy.

Without Malloy in the race, Carmen said, he probably would have beaten Mann by several thousand votes.

"Paul has dropped out of politics now, you know, and some people say it's because of the mistake of being in that race."

Added that the situation will not recur in the future because of the approval of the new charter which stipulates that now when there are excess candidates, a run-off will be held before the actual election to determine the contenders.

"That way, instead of having a minority mayor, we'll have a majority mayor, and we really should have a majority mayor."

Is he considering running for mayor again in 1973?

"I don't want to think in terms of 1973 until we get through the election this November," he replied.

"The greatest weakness in city government now," he said, "is that there has been no real serious effort to cut back in those areas where there could have been cutbacks. I suppose next year there might be some, but they should have gone into effect in 1972."

He gave as an example the Street Department which "has not always been as efficient and economical as it could be."

"I take the position that it is difficult to criticize a third party when you yourself are not being efficient."

"You effect changes by example, by showing what you can do yourself."

Carmen, who served as negotiator for the Street Department in its recent contract talks with the city, said that he discovered the workers had "for years" been recommending changes and efficiencies themselves.

"Their wage increase represents about 23 cents on the tax dollar," he continued, "and the city could have saved the entire amount by instituting the efficiencies suggested by a consultant's report and by the workers themselves."

Right now, he said, the city has a "number of superficial things that are nice, like the centennial — gingerbread and frills."

"What's lacking are the bread and butter things, the things that need good business management. But, then, politicians like to avoid controversy."

on cherry sheet returns from the state.

"I'd like to propose we initiate a study to find out what impact revaluation would have on cherry sheet returns," Gaynor said, but no one took him up on the suggestion.

He also said that the tax picture might be changed by approval of the graduated income tax, federal revenue sharing and a United States Supreme Court decision on whether or not California was correct in declaring the use of the property tax as a basis for school costs unconstitutional.

Ald. Sidney T. Small, chairman of the aldermanic Finance Committee, replied: "I think all the cities and towns would go broke if they waited for the state to give them more money."

"As far as the cherry sheet goes," he continued, "it used to be we would get from the state — now it tells us what we're supposed to give them."

Mayor Mann said that when it comes right down to it, revaluation is the state law and "you don't have the luxury of protecting those people that you want to protect."

"It's about time we play a game of fact rather than fiction," the mayor said. "My job is to call it as it exists and in this case, mine was a tough call — not popular, but the right thing to do."

Making a final statement, Small told residents that "most of us did not require a taxpayers suit — to take this action."

"We have been working on this for months," he said.

INTEREST DOWN COST UP

Are you waiting until interest rates drop before you buy a house? Do you think this will save you money? The house that you have your eye on will cost you more in monthly payments two years from now even if the interest rate drops one percent.

Here's how the First National City Bank of New York analyzes it. As an example, a house that costs $25,000 with a 25-year mortgage at 7% percent, could be financed for $136,72 monthly. But two years from now, if home prices keep rising at the average rate over the past five years, the now $25,000 house would likely cost $28,000, and even 6% percent interest would bring monthly payments up to $141.80.

If the interest rate stayed at 7% percent, the payments would come to $155.19. So, it's obvious that the overall value of the house, not the interest rates makes the biggest impact on monthly mortgage payments.

that man cannot tolerate indefinitely the levels and types of noise that are presently a part of our modern, industrialized nation.

The typical American citizen is constantly bombarded with various types of noise—on his job, in his home and leisure time activities.

In secluded vacation retreats, roars of mini-bikes and snowmobiles and sounds from transistor radios intrude upon what was one magnificent silence. And, in urban areas where 75 percent of the nation's population is located, the noise associated with construction projects, the roar of air and surface transportation, industrial noise as well as noise from many other sources is becoming an ever widening problem.

It is entirely possible that the over-all volume of environmental noise may double within 10 years in pace with our nation's social and industrial growth, and, if allowed to continue, unchecked, the cost of alleviating the problem may virtually become insurmountable. In cities where noise levels are estimated to be rising at the rate of one decibel each year, some observers fear that people who continue to reside in these areas will suffer serious deficiencies in the years to come.

The problem is often most severe in industries where noise-induced hearing loss looms as a major health hazard. Today, it is estimated that up to 16 million workers are threatened with hearing damage and that excessive noise costs industry about $2 million each day in compensation claims, loss in worker efficiency and reduced property values.

Hearing loss is not the only health problem associated with noise. More and more researchers are expressing fear that the deleterious effects of intense noise on humans has been seriously underestimated. Evidence is increasing that intense noise may also harm other organic, sensory and physiologic functions. One scientist has claimed the stress from loud noise could affect the nervous system of a pregnant woman to such an extent that her unborn child could be affected.

Ironically, unlike other environmental problems which require extensive research before corrective measures can be taken, the ability exists to control and abate noise, if not all, noise sources. Through land-use planning, improved product design, realistic ordinances and zoning, we can stop the trend toward increased noise tolerance, and progress to noise control.

Since the Romans regulated chariot movement through the streets of Rome at night, governments have taken a responsibility for noise control. At the federal level in 1968, expenditures for noise control were approximately $11 million. More than 90 percent of those funds were spent for research on aircraft noise. Health effects, acoustics and noise control in buildings came under this early study. By May 1969 the first federal standards for occupational exposure to noise had been issued and five months later the first of a series of noise standards regulating aircraft noise were put into effect.

By 1970, federal expenditures for noise programs had increased 300 percent. Yet, 90 percent of the funds were still spent on aircraft noise and sonic booms, leaving only minor funding for noise research and control. The problem of noise however, had gone beyond controls on aircraft.

In response to this pressing need for action, Title IV of the Clean Air Amendments of 1970, which became law on Dec. 31 of that year, called for the establishment of an Office of Noise Abatement and Control within the Environmental Protection Agency. It stipulated that a full investigation of noise and its effect on mankind be completed within one year. This study was reported to President Nixon in February, 1972.

From this stems legislation pending in Congress "to control the generation and transmission of noise detrimental to the human environment, and for other purposes." The proposed bill would achieve three primary functions:

First, it would establish, in the Environmental Protection Agency, authority to coordinate existing federal noise research and control programs, and authority to publish criteria and control technology documents relating to noise.

Secondly it would supplement existing federal authority to regulate the noise characteristics of articles that are major sources of noise, and authorize federal noise labeling requirements for such articles. Thirdly, it would direct all federal agencies to administer their programs, consistent with existing authority, in such a manner as to minimize noise.

Several proposals relating to noise control are now before the Senate Public Works Committee. Five points included in the proposal are to be resolved: aircraft noise, federal preemption of noise standards which apply to products or classes of products, warranty and "useful life" provisions, and enforcement and export control.

In an area such as this, where the technical capacity exists to solve a problem, the legislation must be passed which will allow us to do so. I strongly urge that this legislation be passed to allow us to conquer noise pollution.

EPA Regional Administrator

Protests Algonquin Rd.

(Editor's note: The following letter was sent to Mayor Theodore D. Mann with a copy of the Newton Graphic.)
Dear Mr. Mayor:

I am writing you on this day and notifying the proper parties of this letter to inform you that in the matter of the Traffic Commission's recent meeting on the question of the Algonquin road situation requesting that the speed limit be reduced to 20 miles-per-hour, due to the special conditions on that road from the Chestnut Hill Country Club and the close quarters that have been recently introduced by Boston College.

This item has been recommended without any explanation to myself or the rest of the neighbors on the street. Fortunately, by the good grace of God, no child has been killed or injured on this street for the past six years, which happens to be the length of time that I've been fighting the present speed limit, but I'm sure there is no guarantee for the future.

I must personally state that I, Fred Rosen, accuse the Traffic Commission of the City of Newton of total irresponsibility, lack of investigation and a non-care attitude with regard to the requests of the people of this street.

In addition, I formally charge all of those in connection with this commission, with not taking the consideration to explain to the people of community why their decision was made at any time.

I would very much like to attend the next Traffic Commission meeting but but would like to have a representative of the press present so that it can be explained officially and legally why the conditions set forth by the neighbors of this street cannot be met to prevent the tragic death or permanent maiming of a child at a later date.

I realize this is a strong indictment, but in the event an accident of this nature ever takes place, I think the entire blame should be put on the City of Newton, its employees and particularly, the Traffic Commission where the responsibility lies for preventing this from happening through out the city.

Algonquin road is not the only street of this nature, there are many in the city, and the lackadaisical and infrequent position taken by the Traffic Commission, in my opinion, leaves an untenable situation for a city that has a population in excess of 100,000 people.

May I go on record, that as a taxpayer and a citizen, I am totally disillusioned, disgusted and fed up with this town and only a change in this traffic decision can change my mind.

Fred M. Rosen
39 Algonquin rd.
Chestnut Hill

(Note: copies of this letter were also sent by registered mail to Citizen's Assistance Officer Johnathan Hacker, Edwin H. West, chairman of the Traffic Commission; and Alderman Sidney T. Small.)

Vehicles -

the vehicles. Meadowbrook and South High principals have both been informed of this week's addenda to the bus line.

The School Committee cited a few specific instances of what Member Alvin Mandell termed "heat" over the school bus issue. The Meadowbrook bus itself has caused some controversy in that it drops the children off at the school "en minutes before the faculty arrives," according to Committee Member Mrs. Dorothy Reichard.

Mandell discussed the possibility of moving the start of classes up from 7:50 to after 8 a.m., because, he noted, an early rising on the part of the children is necessary now in order to catch the bus, but with the advent of Eastern Standard Time next month, they'll be waiting at the bus stop "in the dark."

This schedule change would allow the bus to leave later, and arrive at Meadowbrook when the teachers were there.

Acting Chairman Richard M. Douglas, filling in for the absent Manuel Beckwith, did not feel it was he appropriate time to propose changes in the school schedule.

Mrs. Reichard also mentioned an anecdote concerning the no-standee rule, which has also been the subject of consternation, but which is still very much a legal restriction to be followed on Newton school buses.

According to Mrs. Reichard, she received a call from an irate Newton High School student who had not been allowed on a full bus recently because of the no-standee law. As a result, he had had to hitchhike to the High School, was picked up by the police, and fined $15.

Mandell read a petition signed by about 100 Ward Eight residents, who asked the School Committee and Board of Aldermen to review the busing problem, what the petitioners considered an "irresponsible, dangerous situation."

Mandell prefaced the discussion by saying that "in spite of the heat," the busing issue does "not belong in the political area."

"I'd like to see the situation resolved," the Committee Member continued; "I'd like to take it out of the emotional arena."

Safely regulations on the buses are being strictly complied with, according to the official report. Read Cameron's Policy Statement, in an introduction to the submitted bus schedule: "These (bus) routes comply with the requirements of State Law, mandatory and special safety conditions that require extended service."

Mandell added that "with the way these buses are set up, they Advance notice was given by Masow of a special session of the City Committee's Executive body to be held Tuesday evening, October 3.

Newton High Gridders Edge Everett 7-0 In Opener

Connolly Touchdown Enough; Brockton Is Next

By David Cutler

The Newton High School football team, coached by Jim Ronayne, opened the 1972 season on Saturday and won, 7-0, as one long drive, one dropped ball, and one big defensive play were all Newton needed to win the big opener.

This Saturday the Newton team will face a big task when they host a tough Brockton team who rolled to a 41-18 victory over Chicopee in their opener last Saturday.

The Tigers garbled the opening kickoff and marched 67 yards for the only score of the game. Ed Becker led the way as he Tigers marched to the Everett nine yard line and from there Mark Connolly broke off tackle and roared into the end zone for the only touchdown of the game. The score came with just 4:17 gone in the game. Bill Steinberg booted the extra point to give Newton a 7-0 lead which they would never lose.

The hitting was hard and the game became a brutal defensive battle for the next three periods; neither team mounting a serious threat. Newton's first half dominance, shown by a 30-12 advantage in getting off plays, was nullified in the second half by Everett's switch from a 6-2 to a 5-3 defense.

Everett's most promising scoring opportunity began from their own 23 with about seven minutes left in the game. A second down pass from Nick Flandaca to Kevin Washington found its way through double coverage and gave Everett a first down on the Newton 38.

Another second down pass, this time to Mike Marchese produced a first down on the 28 yard line. An unsuccessful running play once more forced Flandaca to the air on second down. Heoverthrew Washington who was open in the end zone. He recovered on third down, though, picking Marchese out of a crowd at the Newton 7.

Newton switched out of their prevent defense and buckled down their usual stiff defense. On first down Steve Saia slipped in the backfield and lost ground to the 10. Everett's best chance to score went by the boards on the next play when Washington couldn't hold on to Flandaca's pass in the end zone. Third down once again saw Flandaca try to hit Washington, but linebacker Pete McKay intercepted the toss on the goal line. His return to the Newton 8 squashed Everett's hopes.

Newton ran out the final 2½ minutes gaining two first downs, but only ones of the second half, while doing so.

Everett employed many offensive sets, including an unbalanced line, a rarely in football today. Newton, never having encountered or anticipated it, adjusted well, allowing Everett's only deep penetration through a prevent defense.

Everett used the same offense for five of six years," explained a jubilant Jim Ronayne, "and this year they came out with a completely different offense. The coaches didn't know what to expect, and the players didn't know what to expect."

The Tiger defense was superb as it limited Everett's star running back Frank Nuzzo to 38 yards on 13 carries.

NEWTON HIGH LEADERS — The Newton High School football team got off to a flying start last week when they defeated Everett 7-0 and are looking forward to another successful season. ## South Bows To Bedford 27-14 Despite Ned Moan

Tri captain Ned Moan broke loose for scoring runs of 57 and 55 yards, but Newton South High's inexperience showed through in clutch situations and the Lions were upended, 27-14 by Bedford High, in their Dual County League opener.

Lion coach George Winkler started five sophomores, including a sophomore quarterback for the first time in school history, and the greenness of the first units caused the club's downfall.

Bedford took the opening kick-off and went nowhere. The whaler punted to the South 43 and 14-year-old Kevin Hoban took control of the Newton offense. On the first play from scrimmage he handed off to his halfback Moan and Moan sailed 57 yards for the score for a 6-0 Lion lead. The extra-point try failed.

South's domination of the game lasted exactly that one play, despite the fact that the one-touchdown lead held up through the first period.

Bedford, which utilized an offense with more variations than the Kansas City Chiefs, put its stunts and wishbone to work at the start of the second quarter, running wild over the left side of the South defensive line and picking on South's inexperienced defensive backfield. At the half it was 20-6 Bedford on the strength of the ball-carrying of Tony Norris and Chuck DePriest.

The Lions actually won the second half, 8-7, but the second quarter lapse was too rough to make up. Moan accounted for the other Lion touchdown on a similar 55-yard jaunt. This time the conversion try was good for two points when halfback Walt Fatini gathered in a pass from Hoban.

Winkler noted that he was not "overly pleased" with his team's performance, though he did expect the rash of sophomore mistakes which plagued it.

"Scoring like we did on that first play wasn't as good as it seemed," he observed.

"We became too complacent. We definitely panicked in the second quarter and by the time we made our adjustments at the half they had a big lead. We moved the ball fairly well offensively, but missed assignments stalled us. Hoban looked pretty good. He showed good potential, but he got confused at times. We're young and we're going to make mistakes. It's that simple."

Bedford beat South last year, 19-6 in the league opener, but the Whalers are not as strong this fall. They fielded a veteran backfield-Norris and DePriest accounted for all the touchdowns, but they had a young line. South's opposing front line was younger, though, and couldn't regularly take advantage of Bedford's misuses.

Hoban, Maples, Aaron, Moynihan, Tormey, and Nathanson are sophomores.

South's opponent this Saturday is Lincoln-Sudbury, at Lincoln. Regional was bombed in its opener by Weston, 28-8, but may give the Lions trouble because of their injury list.

South may be without the services of Moan, foot, and McDonald, ankle, both of whom starred against Bedford. They both sat out the fourth period in last week's loss and are questionable for Saturday.

Bob Opper and Jim Butler ran for two touchdowns each to pace Weston to its win.

In other Dual County action, defending league and Class C champion Wayland wracked up its 18th straight win with a 29-0 romp over allegedly formidable action-Borbor. Chris Egizi tallied two TD's for the Warriors, who played without injured back bob Peck. Peck scored 138 points last year.

Lynnfield ran over westwood. 22-6 in the other league encounter.

Newton's Joe DeNucci Came Close To Beating Ex Champ Emile Griffith

The tiger is known as the deadliest killer in the jungle. When it is wounded it becomes more fearsome and must be killed. If it is not then its killer instincts become heightened — the pain of its wound sharpens its claws — and the tiger goes on a rampage of revenge.

As the bell sounded for the first round at Boston's Hynes Auditorium, last Saturday, Joe DeNucci danced forward warily, skipping around Emile Griffith, circling him. DeNucci was the aggressor, flicking out constantly with an irritating left jab. He was in control, relentlessly pursuing, carrying the fight, disrupting Griffith's style. Griffith looked bewildered.

In the fifth round DeNucci opened a cut over Griffith's eye, and then he forgot the first rule of the ungle-never let a wounded tiger lick his wounds. Griffith, outraged at the sight of his own blood, roared, punched, and became the stalker.

The new aggressor was not prepared for his opponent's response. As Griffith began rapid-fire punching and wide-arm swinging, trying to overwhelm DeNucci by sheer barrage, DeNucci swung back. Griffith was surprised. DeNucci held his ground like he was protecting the Alamo, never retreating an inch, giving his best salvos back.

Griffith fought the last few rounds like a tiger rapidly losing his life, scared, but too proud to believe it or accept it. He kept coming, displaying in his svelte, muscular frame, the quickness and power which five times made him a world champion. If he was dying, he would kill his opponent, too.

DeNucci, his legs like tree trunks, his overall build not unlike a football linebacker, did not wilt under the charge. He rested in the clinches and then fought back, keeping pace with Griffith's attacks. He delved to the last ounces of his stamina and fought an unbelievable 10th round.

When it was over and 3,000 fans were standing, applauding, and screaming, "Joe DeNucci! Joe DeNucci!" DeNucci exultantly threw his arms up to the sky.

DENUCCI SHINES

The wait for the judges' verdict was a rising crescendo of suspense. They were both up there in age, 33, but they both sure had it tonight didn't they? The crowd inched closer to the ring, poised to jump in and carry the hometown hero off on its shoulders. DeNucci looked great. He never backed away. DeNucci stood away from his corner. He was grim. He jumped up and down lightly on his toes, wrapped in his orange-and-black (for Newton High) fight robe. The winner would definitely get a shot at the middleweight crown. The loser? It would be a long way to a championship bout. Griffith stood in his corner beside his manager Gil Clancy, relaxed, but expectant.

And then it was quiet and the decision was read. "Referee Eddie Bradley gives 100 points to Griffith, 98 to DeNucci." The spectators howled, then quieted as the announcer went on.

The first judge scored the fight 97-95 for DeNucci.

The announcer started to read the second judge's score. "DeNucci 95 . . ." You couldn't hear him say the rest because of the sudden rage sweeping the crowd. Fans stood on chairs and booed in response to what they considered "an Olympic" decision. The garbage, including not-empty beer cans, started flying into the ring.

Joe DeNucci was momentarily immobilized. He didn't see Emile Griffith break into a wide grin behind him; he hardly noticed that he was becoming the victim of the garbage barrage started on his behalf. DeNucci was stunned. He knew he had won and it had been taken away. The surprise still showed on his face as his seconds hustled him to his dressing-room.

On the New York state scoring system which I employed to score the fight, I had 3-4 for the round tally. If I was pressed to go into a point-system I would have had it six rounds to four for DeNucci.

Each of promoters Sam Silverman's preliminary bouts had a distinct, colorful personality.

A four-round fight between Jimmy Perez and Richie Schnad was notable at first for its non-action as the two fighters imitated a ballet-act. Then Perez, probably with delusions of Muhammad Ali dancing in his head, stuck his tongue out at Schnad. Moments later Schnad almost made him swallow it. This didn't faze Perez — as soon as he regained his bearings he stuck it out twice more. Nothing else happened and Schnad got a unanimous decision.

Next came a four-round welterweight bout between Jose Pagan Rivera and Eddie Gregory. Gregory came out wearing a USA robe and people weren't sure whether he used to be on the Pan American team or if it was handed down from a big brother. Forty-seven seconds later they had the answer.

Rivera stuck his face into Gregory's right hand and tumbled to the canvas. Gregory worked up most of his sweat going through his USA — trained bows to the crowd. Brockton's Tony Petronelli fought a gutsy fight, but Tommy Ruane fought a smart fight and picked Petronelli to pieces to gain a six-round decision.

In a second six-rounder, Silverman introduced South Boston's own massive heavyweight, Cliff McDonald, complete with early-1900's swim trunks. McDonald's weight, announced at 206, looked more like 240, especially when he squared off against 180-pound Angel Mericio. McDonald repeatedly rammed poor Mericio with the same finesse and force of a Mack Truck. It only lasted until 1:51 of the second round.

The final prelim, a scheduled eight-rounder, was even more lopsided. Juan "Butcher Boy" Botta entered the ring looking like the second coming of Count Dracula, complete with a black velvet cape, plastered down black hair, and a black towel at his neck. When he disrobed he looked more like a Wheaties ad. "Look at his legs!" exclaimed one spectator near ringside. "He's got muscles in the front of them! How did he do that?"

Jimmy Nobody, (really) from Canada, was Botta's opponent. Nobody was attired in simple white terry-cloth, the back of which was blank, of course, and looked like a bouncer from Lucifer.

It took Butcher Boy precisely one minute and 46 seconds to make mincemeat out of Nobody, decking him three times with hard rights.

"Anybody who can put muscles on the front of his legs is gonna win," noted the same spectator.

Before the main event at 10 p.m., the Colonial Boys Fife and Drum Corps paraded in dressed in Revolutionary War togas and carrying the American Flag. All 10 of them marched into the ring, intending to play the national anthem.

Before the very astonished eyes of Massachusetts Boxing Commissioner Tom McNeely the entire ring started to sag. McNeely almost had a heart attack. He sprang to his feet, waving his arms and shouting, "Get out of there! Get out of there!" The corps, nearly hysterical with laughter, beat a keystone cops hasty exit through the ropes, dropping tri-corded hats and instruments. "I didn't even know they were going to be here," growled McNeely. The anthem was cancelled and the fight started.

Rematch Set

Sam Silverman has announced the DeNucci and Griffith will meet in a rematch at the Boston Garden, October 11. This time the fight will be a 12-rounder.

Tigers Down South Then Rindge In Soccer Openers

By David Cutler

Classic rivalries have always given added excitement to sport. The first soccer rivalry in Newton was initiated Wednesday, September 13, when Newton High's Soccer Team kicked off at Newton South in the First Annual Newton North, Newton South Soccer Game.

Opposing coaches Mike Buzzi (North) and Mike Coben (South) procured a trophy for the winner to display during the year following their victory.

The Tigers took control from the start and maintained a 2-0 halftime lead to win 3-1. Goal scorers for the City Champs were Rudolpho Visconti (2) and Ronie Brown. South's lone tally came on a controversial third period penalty shot awarded to South after North goalie Jim Morog flattened a Lion attacker as he successfully cleared the ball from the goalmouth.

Mayor Theodore Mann was in attendance to present the trophy to the North team. He concluded his tactful, humorous speech by stating, "I congratulate the winners, and I hope the losers will be back again next year."

South considered the confrontation a regular season Highland Huskies, 12 and, in particular, the second-string halfbacks. He was not overly pleased by their performance as he stated quite frankly, "I'm in a tizzy over the halfbacks." Presently, Meglio and Gary Shabanian, both excellent forwards, have been pushed back to the halfback position.

Flanagan analyzed the bench overall. "They'll have to do a lot more thinking about movement of the ball and position."

One thing both coaches agree emphatically on is that Newton has yet to be tested by a strong, skilled, speedy team. They both see where and when it's coming, through — Tuesday, September 17 at Arlington.

"It's the most important game of the season," fretted Buzzi, "and to tell you the truth, I'm scared."

Tiger Kickers Play Poorly But Still Win First Four

By DAVID CUTLER

The sloppy, mistake-ridden soccer being played by Newton High School has sustained them through their first four contests. The Tigers have won each decisively, and never trailed in any of them. But they were hardly playing great soccer while doing so, being helped by non-passing teams with butter-finger goalies.

"We haven't been tested yet," muses Assistant Coach Bernie Flanagan, "and I don't know if we ever will in this league. But if we are, we better watch out."

NHS overcame two early anxious moments to rout Rindge in their season opener on Friday, September 15. Two goals by senior rookie Dom Proia, and single tallies by Phil Kurinsky, Ronnie Brown, and Co-captain Vinny Meglio (on a penalty shot) provided the winning margin. Newton's dominating ball-control style of play was responsible for racking up a 26-5 shot advantage. A sturdy defense led by Co-captain Ham Fisher, and faultless goalkeeping by the dynamic duo of Mark Wasserman and Jim Morog kept a skilful, but poorly drilled Rindge squad off the score sheet.

Head Coach Mike Buzzi was pleased by the forward line's ability to move the ball and put it in the net. He was clearly upset by the play of the halfbacks. The halfback corps, weakened by injuries and inexperience, has had to be bolstered by the addition of star forward Vinny Meglio. He will have to stay there until one of the other backs shows he can do the job. The fact that one of them hasn't demonstrated his ability to control the midfield has weakened the team and has Buzzi worried. "Quite frankly, I'm in a tizzy over the halfbacks."

The following Tuesday, September 19, saw Newton travel to Arlington, last year's runner-up in the Suburban League. In the match here last season the Tigers were forced to settle for a tie when a back pass to the goalie was intercepted by an Arlington forward and blasted into the nets. Buzzi warned the team before the game, "Don't let anything like that happen today." He didn't cross his fingers.

All was fine through two periods as Newton led 2-0 at halftime. Tallies by Dom Proia from his familiar crease position, and by Ronnie Brown on the deflection of a John Eagle rocket gave the Tigers the two goal bulge. Before play resumed Buzzi again cautioned his squad, "One lucky goal and they're back in the game."

You knew it was going to happen long before it did. Maglio passed the ball on a goal kick to Fisher, standing in front of the penalty area. Ham's pass back to goalie Jim Morog was chipped into the air. As Morog came out to meet the ball, he watched helplessly as it arched over his head, under the crossbar.

Buzzi was furious. He uttered a few choice words in some African dialect and threw his hands up in disgust. "It always happens here."

His rage was short-lived as Proia came back a few minutes later to score his second goal of the contest, his fourth in two games. A last second penalty shot was awarded to Arlington after many thought time had expired, and the Tigers escaped with a 3-2 victory.

Unfortunately, Newton High also suffered a tremendous loss with this victory. Standout fullback Ham Fisher broke his toe and would be out of action for at least a week.

Cambridge Latin came to Newton for the Tigers' home opener on Thursday, September 21. With the Newton High cheerleaders and a dozen screaming fans to spur them on, the Black and Orange beat Latin 3-0. Co-captain Meglio scored two, and assisted on Gary Shabanian's tally. Wasserman and Morog posted their second shutout.

On Saturday, September 23, the Tigers led bright and early for a morning contest at Brockton. NHS clearly outplayed their young, inexperienced, but aggressive opponents in a 4-1 triumph. Right winger Paul Cronin was magnificent in scoring the first two goals Rudi Visconti came on strong after a two game layoff to account for the final two. Once again a defensive lapse was responsible for allowing the opposition a goal. This time an errant pass back to Morog was intercepted by a Brockton attacker and put in.

The team has yet to look as good as it did in its final scrimmage against Newton South, September 13. The rain-soaked match featured excellent trapping, passing, and positional play by the Tigers, and carried them to a 3-1 victory.

"Right now," Buzzi explained after the Brockton win, "injuries and the shuffling of positions is keeping the team unsettled."

The two strongest areas are the goal and the forward line. A good goal has yet to be scored on Morog. The only ones having gotten by him so far have resulted from poor pass backs by his fullbacks and a penalty shot. Wasserman has a 0.00 goals-against average for nine periods of play. The two have also done an exceptional job, neither having had previous varsity experience, in keeping the defense in position.

No team has successfully contained the NHS forwards. They have averaged over three goals per game on well over 20 shots in every contest. Left winger Phil Kurinsky has been outstanding. He rarely misses a ball kicked toward him, and he knows what to do with it once he's got it. He's a welcome addition after the Tigers went through a handful of players at his position last year.

The halfback situation still has Buzzi worried. If the group of them can improve to the point where anyone could effectively take over the position, and push Meglio up to the line, it could mean the difference between a good season, and the best ever for New High.

Newton Patriots Tip NAA Lions In Thriller

The NAA Lions were nipped by the Newton Patriots by the score of 14-12 Sunday in a hard fought battle of defenses.

The explosive Mario Luchetti was able to score on a one yard plunge, but was otherwise held in tact by the Lion defense. The scoring went as follows: Mario Luchetti, in the second period, scored on a one yard plunge. The Lions counted in the second period with a Brian Kinsella, quarterback, to Rich Proia, halfback, pass which covered 12 yards. Conversion attempts for the extra points on both touchdowns failed. The touchdown pass was a culmination of a Rich Proia, halfback, pass to Bobby Lipson which brought the ball down to the 12 yard line. On the first play of the 4th period, quarterback John Riley of Patriots rushed a quarterback sneak for the go-ahead touchdown. Halfback Mario Luchetti threw the lead, which ended up as the game winning points. On the ensuing kick-off Joe Pepper ran the ball all the way back for a touchdown aided by key blocks from Andrew Toyiasand Kevin Donahue. A total of 70 yards of quick thinking and fast running. The extra points however, did fail on a Rich Proia rush just short of the goal line. The entire Lion defense played exceptionally well and the men who deserved most recognition are Pete Arnold; tackles — Frank Tarantino, Dave Chusid; defensive ends, Jim Amicangioli and Gerry Coughlin both had outstanding afternoons in stripping interference to get to Luchetti. Linebackers Joey Donahue and Mark Commerford probably played the best games of their careers as line backers, making hard hits all afternoon. Richy Steffans played a fantastic game as the monster-back who held Luchetti in check. Brian Kinsella, Joe Pepper, Rich Proia, Sean Daley were also fantastic. Offensively the Lions were unable to control the football as they hoped to do, but otherwise they showed plenty of salt left in the face of adversity. A couple of key breaks during the first Patriots touchdown really hurt them to a questionable pass interference call which gave the Patriots a first down and goal at the 5 yard line and also a great deal of confusion on a fumble which the Lions thought they had recovered, but it ended up being given back to the Patriots.

But all in all it was a moral victory for the Lions who played their best defensive game to date.

Other NAA scores were: the NAA Jr. Midget Tigers dropped a close game to the NAA Mustangs by a score of 8-0.

Fall Exhibition at Museum of Transportation

"How a Museum Grows", the fall exhibition of the Museum of Transportation, opens this weekend at the great 1880 carriage house in Larz Anderson Park, Brookline.

The exhibition includes a sampling of the many interesting objects, new to the Museum collection.

Ranging in time from a 1870 Boston Booby Sleigh to a 1966 Cadillac station wagon; the selection of objects shows how the Museum has grown and what it collects.

Included is the Museum's huge 1919 Rocky Mountain Tour Bus, old glass-top gas pumps, individual who particularly enjoyed this body shape in a luxury auto.

Wednesday, Sept. 27, 1972

The most charming piece is a restored Boston Booby Sleigh, circa 1870. It's original colors were uncovered by sanding through 14 coats of varnish. The vehicle recalls the pleasures of the New England winter landscape, filled with fine horses, drawing sleighs of bright hue, alive with bells and good spirit.

Small objects included are beautifully crafted nickel plated bike lamps, 3 early gas pumps, oil paintings prepared for a gasoline company and later used in magazine ads and billboards, and a collection of enamel signs from gas stations and garages.

A featured part of "How a Museum Grows" is a special exhibition unit about the donors of Anderson Park, Larz and Isabel Anderson. "The Park and Its People" includes the Anderson Tack room where harness for the stable of fine horses was kept, objects from the Anderson's house, and photos of their life at "Weld", now Larz Anderson Park. It's a fascinating glimpse at the world of the early 1900's.

Regular Museum programs this fall includes fire engines rides on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m., old time movies on week-ends, and delights from the Museum's bicycle, carriage, and automobile collections.

Museum hours are 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. on Tuesday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Wednesday thru Sunday. The Museum is closed on Monday.

Amy Vanderbilt's Etiquette

DERELICTS
"DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: Recently, you wrote about the danger of derelict dogs that tend to run in packs and at times can become vicious. Occasionally, I see an interesting small newspaper with subscribers all over the world. It is called The Rocky Mountain Herald, established 1860, and published in Denver. I wish you would quote what it says about derelict youngsters in its Ideas and Comment column which I enclose. — Mrs. H.L.

I, too, am a reader of the Rocky Mountain Herald but missed this particular column from which I am happy to quote. I wish I had room to print the whole column. I hope my readers will comment on this.

"After World War I we read about the wild children of Russia wandering derelicts. But Russia was far away and it was just something you read in the papers. Now it's here... What will become of them?"

"Every city now, all over the world, has its complement of impoverished young outcasts who become beggars. Poverty and affluence are said to be very striking in Rio where some 20,000 youngsters daily beseech alms on the street... Could it happen in Colorado? Who knows?"

"Dislocation of youngsters is an aftermath of every war, but behavior changes. The changes are more spectacular today because of the greater congestion of human flossam.

"We can look back almost wistfully at earlier dislocations of youth. Our Civil War produced the tramp, and out of the tramp complex emerged the hobo.

"Both tramp and hobo were respected. Rarely did they commit acts of violence. The tramp would knock on your door and offer to split kindling or do other chores in exchange for coffee and a square meal.

"My Grandma Sue would invite many a tramp into her kitchen in Rome, N.Y., no worry at all. 'He was respectable,' she would say. In my childhood an occasional tramp would knock on our door in Denver. My mother always let him in. They were 'respectable.'

"The hobo, as I indicated, seems to have emerged from the tramp tradition. Hobo life was keyed to railroads. The hobo rode the rods or blind baggage or climbed into freight cars and was unusually tolerated, at least in hard times, by the railroad 'bulls.'

"Living in the jungles, sleeping under bridges or trees at the river bend, the hobo was generous and harmless. He hated to work and despised tramps who were willing to work.

"But now the tramps are gone and the hobos are gone. You're leery about letting anybody into your house, but they break in anyhow and you're lucky if you don't get mugged."

LADIES

"DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: Where does privacy between the sexes begin and end? I am a male teacher, and at our school we have two lounges, one for women and one for men. A couple of the female teachers like to come into the men's lounge to visit some of the male teachers.

Recently, I told one of them that I didn't think it was a good idea for her to come in for an extended visit, whereupon she got huffy and left. I didn't mean to offend her, but now these two lady teachers are either giving me the cold shoulder or going into the men's lounge and catcalling as I walk by.

"How should I handle this? I used to work in an office and the women wouldn't have dreamed of going into the men's lounge to visit. And I've never seen a man go into a woman's powder room.

J.M.
I believe the answer is going to be obvious to all of my readers. I can't see why any woman feels more "liberated" in a men's lounge. You call these "lady" teachers. Does anyone agree that ladies should catcall? I'd love to hear from my readers on this subject.

Newton Notebook

LEWIS FREEDMAN
Asst. Sports Editor

When Newton South High's football eleven took the field last Saturday, the squad's offensive backs and ends began their attempt to break into the elite lists of South's all-time ground-gainers, scorers, and reception-leaders.

Ned Moan, Kevin Hoban, Tom Sullivan, and Steve Bucavale, among others, will be shooting for records which have stood for as little as a year and others which have been on the books as long as nine years.

The following are Newton South's all-time offensive football records:

MOST YARDS GAINED RUSHING (SEASON)

1. Howie Halmes, 939, 1971 (8 games).
2. John Passarini, 811, 1965.
3. Bob Staulo, 788, 1970 (8 games).
4. Chuck Spear, 669, 1963.
5. Frank Rezzuti, 615, 1966 (8 games).

Halmes set his mark last year, remarkably only in eight games. This year Halmes will be playing halfback and competing in track for Bowdoin College, in Maine. Passarini went on to play fullback for Connecticut. Staulo is now a sophomore tight end at Harvard. And Rezzuti was a quarterback for Boston University.

MOST YARDS GAINED RUSHING (1 GAME)

1. Howie Halmes, 312, 38 attempts 1971.
2. Bob Staulo, 199, 29 attempts 1970.
3. Chuck Spear, 184, 14 attempts 1963.
4. John Passarini, 178, 24 attempts 1965.

Not surprisingly, the single game rushing leaders are the same as the season leaders. Spear's performance was for the best average — 13.1 yards a carry.

MOST PASSES COMPLETED (SEASON)

1. Ted Clarke, 57, 1964.
2. Tom Nelson, 44, 1969.
3. Tom Rezzuti, 40, 1967.

Eagles Improve

The Eagles definitely looked stronger, last Saturday, when they smashed Temple, 49-27. Sophomore Phil Bennett set a school record with 253 yards rushing and his running mate Mike Espino carried for 118 yards as the squad piled up 409 yards on the ground.

Young was named All-Scholastic that year.

MOST TOUCHDOWNS SCORED (SEASON)

1. Howie Halmes, 18, 1971.
2. Mark Young, 8, 1963.
3. Steve Cooper, 7, 1965.
4. John Passarini, 7, 1965.
5. Bob Staulo, 7, 1969.
6. Howie Halmes, 7, 1970.

When it comes to scoring no one was quite in the same class as halfback Howie Halmes. Halmes ranked sixth in the state last fall, with 110 points.

When Holy Cross' revived Crusaders romped over Springfield in a controlled scrimmage a short while back, ex-Newton High quarterback Colin Clapton completed five passes, good for 80 yards. HC ran up 693 yards in total offense.

Speaking of Newton football teams, one team located in the city which everyone notices but never relates to Newton is Boston College. The Eagles do play their games in Chestnut Hill. Unfortunately, they're hardly worth mentioning this week since they were upset by an ambitious bunch from New Orleans. Tulane stifled the renowned Eagle game, 10-0.

Newton South X Country Sees Improved Season

By LEWIS H. FREEDMAN
Asst. Sports Editor

Newton South High has not had a winning cross-country team since the fall of 1966 and has only won a total of three meets in the last two years, but Lion coach Richard Geist thinks the time has come for his harriers to make some noise in the Dual County League.

Although the squad is small—only 14 boys out of the varsity and jayvee teams—there is a veteran tinge to the group.

Leading five returnees is captain Jack Ferreri. Ferreri is a senior who didn't make the switch from football to cross-country until just before the start of the 1971 season. But since that time he has progressed steadily as a runner. Ferreri owns a personal best of 14:51 for the South home Mt. Ida Junior College course, but is destined to improve on that mark. In a recent one-lap time trial (1.3 miles) at Mt. Ida, Ferreri paces all Lions across the finish-line in 6:55, a good early-season time.

Ferreri is a very likeable type guy with a good sense of humor," noted Geist. "He has the respect of the other boys because he has a good attitude. He takes his ups and downs and just works harder. He doesn't worry about psyching or any of that other garbage; he just grits his teeth and pushes. He is definitely an improved runner this season and he's good for the team."

Byron Ress was last year's sophomore find. He came out of nowhere to improve to a team-leading time of 14:39 and he frequently ran first-man for the squad at the tail end of the season. However, Geist is concerned about Ress's pre-season performance to date.

"Ress is not sharp," he said, "because he didn't work out this summer, while other boys did. Now when he finishes only fourth in the time trial he's surprised. Ferreri and John Mason ran all summer so they beat him. I hope he gets working; we need him this season."

Potatoes come in two general types—long and round. Round white ones are recommended for boiling, frying and salads, and round red ones, for salads, boiling or fresh.

N.A.A. Lions Are Blanked By Arlington

By LEONARD HOLT

The Arlington Spy Ponders overwhelmed and out maneuvered both the NAA Midget Lions who fell to a 20-0 shutout and the Jr. Midget Tigers, who lost by 18-0, Sunday Sept. 17th during the NAA's first away game. The day's bright sun and high temperature was quite a contrast to last year's games played in the rain and drizzle, when the Sp Ponders invaded the Highlands and came away with a split. Their A team lost 28-6 and their Jr. team won with a score of 14-0 against the Tigers. The Mustangs lost to Dedham on Saturday 14-0.

This year's first away game was between the Tigers and the Spy Ponders Jr team at Fowles Park in Arlington and from the very beginning it appeared Newton was outplayed by a relatively heavier and more experienced team and by the end of the game it was obvious that the Tigers line and backfield needed some polishing-up. The NAA Lions also played away at Pierce stadium, game time was 1:30 p.m. This game with the Jr. Midget Arlington Team was almost a repetition of the Tigers Jr. Midget game at Fowles Park earlier, with the score being 20-0 in favor of the Spy Ponders. Once again Arlington played and out maneuvered the lighter NAA team and although the score was quite one-sided, the Lion's new backfield played an exceptionally good game although they weren't able to penetrate into the endzone. In spite of the one-sided scores, they were quite good games at both fields and Newton certainly will be looking forward to their returncontest with the Arlington upy Ponders next year.

This next week will call for a lot of practice and refinement of plays preparatory to facing the Newton Patriots at the NAA's home field in the Highlands on Sunday, Sept. 24th. The game time for the Jr. Midget teams will be at 12:30 and the Midget Linns and Patriots will be playing at approximately 1:30. This is always a spirited game between these two teams as it is for the Garden City Championship which the NAA has won 2 years in a row and by no doubt the Patriots will really be up for this one. This is the first time this game will be played at Highlands.

Named To Board

They will become the members of three newly established committees which will assist the board in its academic program approval and review activities.

James M. Pollock of Lasell College in Auburndale and Donald White of Boston College in Chestnut Hill, were chosen.

THE '73 FORDS ARE HERE.

At 60 mph a '73 Ford LTD rode quieter than an airborne glider.

Quiet is the sound of a well-made car. And the new LTD is well made in every sense of the word. That's why it's so quiet. Outside it has all-new styling. And inside you'll enjoy luxury, comfort and room — with power front disc brakes, power steering and automatic transmission as standard equipment.

THE QUIET 1973 FORD LTD BROUGHAM (shown with optional Deluxe Bumper Group, Convenience Group, deluxe wheel covers, front cornering lamps and whitewall tires).

A '73 Torino rode so smooth, a high wire artist kept balance on a road of 2x4's.

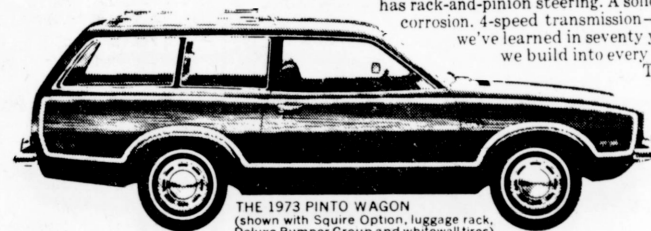

Smooth riding, strong and quiet — the solid mid-size car. You'll appreciate how the new Torino's refined suspension helps to cushion bumps, absorb road vibrations and reduce body sway. You feel solidly in control while you ride in comfort and luxury.

THE SOLID 1973 FORD TORINO BROUGHAM (shown with optional front bumper guards, deluxe wheel covers and whitewall tires).

'73 Pinto: When you get back to basics, you get back to Ford.

When you get back to basics, you get back to Ford: the new Pinto. Every '73 Pinto has rack-and-pinion steering. A solid welded body, electrocoated to fight corrosion. 4-speed transmission — lubed for life. All in all, everything we've learned in seventy years of car making — all the basics — we build into every Pinto Wagon, Runabout and Sedan. That's why it's become America's top selling economy car.

THE 1973 PINTO WAGON (shown with Squire Option, luggage rack, Deluxe Bumper Group and whitewall tires).

There are 39 new models to choose from.

Every 1973 Ford, Thunderbird, Torino, Mustang, Maverick and Pinto comes equipped with new energy-absorbing bumpers and steel guard rails in all side doors. Steel-belted radial ply tires are available on every model, too.

Women's A.M. Programs At Newton Jr. College

The Newton Junior College Adult Education Program for 1972 has announced two courses for women to be given in the morning. These courses are offered in recognition of the educational needs of many women who prefer not to go out at night and who find that morning classes are most convenient.

One course, under the direction of a professional Counselor of the College Faculty, is entitled the Educational Program for Women and will be held Wednesday mornings from 9:30 to 11:42. Instituted three years ago, this course gained immediate popularity and is therefore being repeated for the fifth time. It is designed for women who are considering entry into a college degree program or returning to college but are uncertain about their ability to undertake a college program and to compete with other students.

The series of eight morning sessions includes improvement of study skills; listening, reading, note-taking, and reviewing. Each member of the class will be helped in finding an understanding of her own ability, interests, and aptitude tests with interpretations, educational and vocational counseling in group and individually, and a survey of opportunities for resuming education are also part of this program.

The second morning course, entitled "Images of the Heroine," will be given Tuesday morning, from 9:30 to 11:20. It is an exploration, through the reading and discussion of selected fiction, of some of the patterns of women's lives. What portrayals of women in fiction reveal about the myths and ideals of femaleness and femininity and how these myths influenced their life journeys will be the basic questions of the discussions.

This course seeks to raise questions and to test the "truth" of fiction with the personal experience of the participants. Novels and some supplementary non-fiction will be selected from among the works of Doris Lessing, Elizabeth Janeway, Sinclair Lewis, May Sarton, D. H. Lawrence, Joyce Carol Oates, Virginia Woolf, Germaine Greer, Muriel Spark, and others.

No literary background is necessary for this course. Both courses will meet from September 26 through December 19.

Registration will be held September 20 and 21, from 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m., Administration Hall, corner Washington Park and Park Newtonville. For additional information, please call the College at 969-9570.

Recreation Dept. Program For Fall Has Varied Items

Fall and Football go together and the Recreation Department programs reflect the season as Recreation Supervisor William J. Barry reports the start of the Tag Football Program.

The eight-team league for Newton young men 18 years of age and older plays Tuesday and Wednesday nights at the Alberman Playground, with Thursday night as the rain date.

Games are played at 7:00 and 8:00 p.m. The field is 60 yards long, 50 yards wide and is divided into three 20 yard zones. An attacking team must move up to the next zone for a first down. There are four 10 minute periods and time is stopped during the last two minutes of each period.

The league will play to November 15 including the Playoffs. The league, now in its fourth year, has 136 young men participating in the program. Each team has a 17-man squad while the game is played by a seven-man team, four linemen and a three-man backfield.

The teams and managers are: Redskins, Chuck Casey; Art Carroll Packers; Kevin Marden; Rogan Sporting Goods, Mike Rogan; Dewire Bros., J. Sullivan; Cath, Bob Hill; Auburndale A. A., Frank Cooney; Cypress Club, Harold Kowal and Cappello Bros., Joe Cappello.

Mini-Bike Program
Barry reports that the Mini-Bike Program sponsored by the Recreation Department at the old city infirmary land on Winchester St., Newton Highlands is becoming more popular every week. Last week about 50 Mini-Bike enthusiasts used the two tracks open Saturdays from 1:00 to 4:00 p.m.

The facility is open to Newton boys and girls 13 to 16 and several girls are in the program.

Barry emphasizes that this is a legal area for the young people to use their Mini-Bikes and all safety precautions are observed. He points out that the bikes must be transported to the tracks in a car or a truck and cannot be ridden or pushed to the area.

The track director is Paul Patricia and the safety director is Bob Braceland.

Halloween
Newton's limited Halloween observance is well into the planning stage, according to Recreation Leader Esther Toher. The parties, all after 6:00 p.m., are being held at the following schools under the co-sponsorship of the Recreation Department and the Parent-Teacher Association of the schools: Bigelow Junior High, Carr, Hyde, Lincoln-Elliott, Countryside, Memorial, Davis and St. Jean's.

Mrs. Toher also reports that he All Star Bus service for Newton's Senior citizens operates all over the city next week. The free bus trip tours 29 miles stopping at the city's housing projects, the Stone Institute, the Baptist Home and rest homes. There are two trips and one return trip during the day.

Fallage Tours
In a separate program Mrs. Toher reports that plans for a Fall foliage tour for Newton's elderly citizens are now being formed up.

Girls Street Hockey
Recreation Supervisor Fran Towle notes that a meeting of those interested in Girls Street Hockey is scheduled for tonight, Thursday, September 21, at the Recreation Department. Representatives of teams in the 12 to 15 age bracket will meet at 7:00 p.m. and those in the 16 and up, including High School sophomores, will meet at 8:00 o'clock.

Bicycle Routes
In an effort to promote bicycle safety the Recreation Department is setting up a series of bicycle riding routes. Recreation Intern Austin Moore who is working on the project says the routes are planned for Newton Centre, Auburndale, Newtonville, Newton Highlands and Newton Upper Falls and Lower Falls. The development of the program will depend on the response of Newton bicyclists.
